Notice To Advertisers.
THE ASTORIAN continues to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

ASTORIA AND VICINITY.

To-night "Jane Eyre."

Reserved seats for to-night's performance at the New York Novelty store.

The City of Delhi takes on about 20,000 cases salmon, and will finish to-morrow night.

The Oregon arrived in yesterday morning, and the Columbia sailed yesterday afternoon.

S. B. Crow displays some photographic work fully equal to the best. He guarantees satisfaction to all.

Holmes' auction sale of lots at Ocean Park begins at half past seven this evening. Bargains may be secured.

The Weekly Astorian, in stamped wrappers, ready for mailing, published this morning; full of news and home happenings; price ten cents.

The Astoria Brass Band excursion next Sunday promises to be something fine. You can get a ticket for yourself and girl at Pete Blankholm's or the City Bookstore for one dollar.

A large crowd went out on the Columbia yesterday afternoon. Inquiry elicited the fact that the men who went from Astoria took at least $100,000 in coin, besides many drafts and bills of exchange.

The court docket for the coming term published this morning is the longest that ever appeared in the Astorian, there being 105 cases represented. If business piles up this way it will be necessary to make the terms of court more frequent.

The time is drawing near for the fishermen's tournament at Albany and it will never do to have the Astoria department unrepresented there. The fact that our department is the leading one of the northwest makes it necessary to have a good showing there.

The California mail now comes overland, part of the time, and sometimes causes annoyance. For instance a shipmaster is made to Astoria by steamer, and the buyer notified. The consignee arrives by steamer, and two days afterward comes a letter via Portland notifying him of the shipment.

A church fair will be given by the Finn ladies in the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church, at Albany, and it will be held on the 5th inst., beginning at 2 o'clock. Finnish songs will be sung by the choir of the church. Mrs. C. W. Silvers will sing a solo, accompanied on the organ. Rev. S. W. Wood and Rev. D. Wilson will each deliver a short address. Every one is welcome.

MISS THOMPSON'S REPLY.

PORTLAND, Or., July 30, 1884.
Messrs. FULTON, HALLORAN, CASE, TAYLOR, and others:

Gentlemen:—I am in receipt of your letter of July 28th, and am proud of the attention with which you have been pleased to distinguish me. I may add that it affords me a sincere pleasure to comply with the request your letter contains; and assure you that both my company and self will do our utmost to please you, in the performance of the charming comedy-drama of "Nell Gwynne." I have the honor to remain yours, most respectfully,
CHARLOTTE THOMPSON.

LIVES OF JAS. G. BLAINE AND JOHN A. LOGAN.

This standard work contains complete biographies of the two Republican candidates, and is a book of positive value worthy of preservation.

The author, J. W. Buell, author of "Russian Nihilism and an Exile Life in Siberia," "Legends of the Ozark," "Heroes of the Plains," etc., is well known as a historian and chronicler, and needs no commendation from his pen.

He was also assisted by W. E. S. Whitman, editor of the Kennebec Journal, Augusta, Maine, and a former partner, and with the aid of Mr. Blaine's private secretary.

Among its several original features is a history of all the national conventions held by all parties, since the great nominating speeches of Garfield, Conkling, Ingersoll and West and a full report of the convention proceedings of 1884, besides many other leading, interesting and valuable political facts and statistics.

The agent of this book is now in town and will call upon our citizens with the book.

JOE CUSHING'S RAILROAD.

Why He Constructed It, and How It Profited Him.

"Joe Cushing," said a railroad man, "used to own a mill on a certain railway, and it was an almighty big mill, too. Well, the railroad got to squeezing Joe pretty hard. They told him he'd got to ship over their line or shut up his mill, and they proposed to charge him any rate they wanted to. At last Joe couldn't stand it any longer. There was another railroad six miles away, and one day he went to see the general manager of the other line, and offered to build a road 'cross lots' from his mill if he was guaranteed certain reasonable charges for all time to come. His offer was accepted, and inside of twenty-four hours Joe had 500 men at work shoveling down hills, filling up valleys, bridging streams and laying rails and ties. The officials of the road that had been putting on the blocks to him went to see him, and offered to carry his stuff for the cost of transportation if he would abandon his project, but Joe promptly refused them. In a few months he had his road completed, and he has been using it ever since. Now, the fact of the thing is that just as soon as everything was in working order, Joe went to Boston and had a lot of printing done, and before many days every railroad official in America received an elegantly engraved annual pass, inclosed in a neatly printed circular. The front of the pass read as follows:

"1883. JOE CUSHING'S ROAD, 1883. Pass No. ————, dated Dec. 31, 1883, unless otherwise ordered.

"No. ———— JOE CUSHING, President.

"On the back was printed the unique sentence: 'This pass is not transferable. The person accepting and using it thereby assumes the right to travel and transport baggage over this road whenever he pleases, and at the risk of Joe Cushing, who will be financially responsible for all damage to person or property incurred while traveling.'

"The circular was headed by a map of the road showing the location of the mill and the length of the line. It said in substance: 'My road is only six miles long but it is perfectly solvent, pays all interest charges and taxes, and is a first class property in every respect. I here-with send you an annual pass, and invite you to use my line at any and all times at your own risk. If you should will fit to extend to me in return the courtesy of an annual pass over your road I shall greatly appreciate it.'

"Well, sir, the annual check was so enormous that the officials of every road in America laugh over the thing and send him all over the place all year over the country using his annuals."

Charlotte Thompson.

"Last night one of the best American actresses living, Miss Charlotte Thompson, again visited our city, in her world famed impersonation of "Jane Eyre."

This lady was welcomed back with a full house, which she richly deserved. Her acting was grand. In the emotional scenes she carried the house by storm, and in her comedy scenes captivated her auditors. "Jane Eyre," as presented by Miss Thompson, is one of the best comedies before the public. Her support is unusually good.—Detroit Free Press.

The latest circular sent out by Clans Spreckles, the sugar king, quotes a certain favorite brand at 7 cents a pound to Portland, 6 1/2 cents to Tacoma, 6 1/2 cents to Seattle, 6 1/2 cents to Spokane, and 6 1/2 cents to Astoria. This scale is fixed so as to exclude eastern sugars from places along the line of the Northern Pacific, and so as to retain the whole-sale trade of the coast in his own hands.—Post Intelligencer.

The Hawaiian bark Augusta, which was on shore east of Freshwater bay, on Friday night last, was towed to Port Townsend on Monday evening. On Saturday two tugs went to the relief of the vessel, but owing to one getting ashore, nothing was done to get the Augusta off. On Sunday night the Goval, Tacoma, Mastick and Blakely, all powerful tugs went down to the wreck and by lightening part of the cargo and discharging some ballast, the unit and of the tug dragged her into deep water. The bark is not injured and has not leaked at all. It was a fortunate rescue, for had a strong gale arisen the saving of the vessel would have been next to an impossibility.—Port Townsend Times.

HOW THEY PUSH CANNED SALMON IN ENGLAND.

H. C. Beeton, agent general, British Columbia, in correspondence with the Grocers' Gazette, says: "As the representative of British Columbia in this country, I am desirous of bringing under public notice through the medium of your journal, with a view of stimulating consumption, the article of canned salmon, which every season is exported largely by my province. In view of the importance of canned salmon as an article of diet, lectures with demonstrations are given at the International Health Exhibition under the superintendence of Mrs. Charles Clarke, lady superintendent of the National training school of cookery, South Kensington. Thursday is in particular set apart for demonstration, when canned salmon is cooked and served in three different ways—mayonnaise, croquette and scallop. Already there is exported annually from British Columbia canned salmon to the extent of 10,000,000 pounds, valued at about $200,000 sterling, and the trade is largely on the increase. The total pack of the Pacific coast, the product of all the rivers from Alaska in the north to the Sacramento river in the south, makes the total output annually, in round figures, 1,000,000 cases, each containing forty-eight pounds. Of the above total, Great Britain takes about 250,000 cases, the United States 300,000 cases and Canada and Australia 70,000 cases. The retail price of the best brands is about seven or eight pence per pound, and experts claim that on the two important points of economy and nutrition canned salmon compares favorably with any other article of diet."
