Astoria and Vicinity.
 The State arrived in yesterday. The Oregon sails to-day.
 The captain of the Belle of Oregon advertises for sailors.
 Read THE ASTORIAN if you want to know what is going on.
 Judge Taylor will call the docket at nine, sharp, this morning.
 Ingersoll to-morrow night. Reserved seats at the New York Novelty store.
 The Navesink is taking on her cargo of Astoria cut lumber at Kinney's dock.
 The Two Sisters was at the dock yesterday with 80 bales of fine hay from Young's river.
 The A. B. Field leaves for Tillamook to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock from Main street wharf.
 Every one is away enjoying themselves, except those that can't away. Let's organize a "Can't get away club."
 Of 269 who were registered at Portland hotels last Monday, sixty-seven, or 25 per cent of the whole number hailed from Astoria.
 The Tillie E. Starbuck, the first from full rigged sailing vessel built in the United States, arrived in Liverpool on Monday, 125 days from Astoria.
 In the circuit court yesterday in the case wherein H. J. Hansen sued Louis Hartwig, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant, for the sum of $6.88.
 Attention is directed to the advertisement of the Portland Business College. This institution has a high reputation. Send for a copy of the college Journal.
 Where is that congressional investigating fish committee that was to show up at Astoria on the 20th inst? The day has arrived, but the senators, where are they?
 Bob Ingersoll, in his Saturday night Portland lecture, said that he always loved a place where the schoolhouses were bigger than the churches. Bob will be greatly honored of Astoria.
 The fine new steamship Cosco Bay will leave here about the 31st inst, for San Francisco. Favorable freight rates for salmon, etc., may be obtained from Watson, Wright & Co., 10 North Front street, Portland.
 From September 10, 1883, to August 15, 1884, inclusive, there were twenty-five fire alarms turned in at the central station. Of these ten were caused by burning chimneys, and the only serious fire of the year was that of O'Brien's hotel narrowly escaped destruction.
 "The Transcontinental railway" is doing good work at the south extension of Genevieve street, and is a good illustration of how things will look when the hills shall all have been leveled off and the cable cars will be running to the south city front every three minutes.
 The season for curiosities has hardly arrived yet, but just as the Occident exhibits a petrified gull's nest or the nest of a petrified gull, or the petrified nest of a gull, which Harry Lord of the Shrubbers fished up from a depth of sixty-six fathoms of water over on Puget Sound.
 Among the books lately received at THE ASTORIAN office is one entitled "Why I am a Republican." It is logical, terse, timely and brilliant; gives a history of the party it defends, is comprehensive in its nature, and is a graphic and complete presentation of Republican principles. Every Republican wants it; many Democrats will buy it. It is a handsome book, written by W. E. Stearns, of Astoria, Oregon, and can be had by sending $1.50 to A. Roman, 120 Sutter street, San Francisco, Cal.
 The Transcontinental association, composed of all the railway lines west of the Missouri river, will hold a meeting at Saratoga, New York, September 2. It will be the last meeting held before the present Pacific coast freight contracts expire, and will be the most important in the history of the association, because it will decide as to the method of conducting the transcontinental traffic next year. The question whether the present contract system with cities on the Pacific seaboard shall be continued upon present terms will come up. Cities which enjoy the contract system are: Portland, Astoria, Toosley and Seaside, and in California San Francisco, Los Angeles, Stockton, Sacramento and Marysville. It will also be decided whether only such shippers as now enjoy contracts shall be entitled to them next year, or whether the rates will be thrown open to all shippers, large and small, in those favored places.—Oregonian.

APPALLING DISASTER AT ROSEBURG.
 Mrs. M. Johansen of Upper Astoria Burned to Death.
 At 3 o'clock yesterday morning the Metropolitan hotel at Roseburg took fire and in a comparatively short time was burned to the ground. The hotel was full of guests, some of whom were severely burned and otherwise injured in trying to make their escape from the burning building. The fire burned rapidly and destroyed two business blocks before being entirely subdued.
 N. Johansen and family had left here some days ago on a visit to their friends at Coos bay. They were stopping at the Metropolitan, intending to take the stage the next morning, when the dreadful calamity overwhelmed them. Mrs. Johansen was got out in a fearfully burned condition and the unfortunate lady expired in the greatest agony shortly after. Mr. Johansen and his son were also badly burned, and others were seriously injured. Louis Ziegler, the proprietor of the hotel, was also burned to death, the whole catastrophe being one of the most terrible in the annals of southern Oregon.
"EXCUSA ME, MR. PERETTA."
 A. Baldatta, who was given five years at Salem last week on conviction of assault with intent to kill, left on yesterday morning's steamer for the seclusion granted by a generous public. The evening before his leaving, however, occurred what our narrator calls "a circus in the jail." It seems that there was some accounts between Mr. Baldatta, and a gentleman named Peretta, said Peretta being noted for the urbanity of his manners and the strict rectitude of his every transaction. Baldatta claimed that Peretta owed him $140, and had got Peretta to pay his attorney $32 for him, leaving a balance due according to his figuring of $88. This Peretta disputed, and Baldatta naturally desiring to have matters squared up before leaving Astoria, sent for his debtor and the two had an interview in the cell. No settlement was arrived at and on Monday evening Peretta, accompanied by his lawyer, was ushered into the presence of Mr. Baldatta, who rose and did the honors of the tank in which he was confined with all the grace that the limited nature of his resources would allow. A strange scene ensued, and finally after much jawing on both sides the p. a. succeeded in making it manifest that Peretta owed Baldatta about $20.
 Baldatta's eyes flashed and as his visitors sought to make their adieux and breathe the freer air of the exterior when the prisoner said "Ah, Excusa me Mr. Peretta." Peretta turned and as he did so got a tremendous blow from the infuriated convict. Seizing the unfortunate Peretta he showed blow upon blow and had not been promptly pulled off by the sheriff and his deputy, who hastened to the scene of conflict, he might have had a little weightier charge to answer, which would be a matter of serious regret to all concerned.
 It seems that after the little difficulty at Sand Island for which Baldatta gets five years, that worthy skipped to Cathlamet and after as he supposed everything well settled, he wrote Peretta with writing a letter to him telling him that it was safe to come back. He also thinks that Mr. P. has something to do with the present fix.
 "Why didn't you go for him when you had him in the cell by himself?" asked an official as they went aboard the boat yesterday morning. "Ah," said Baldatta, with a most expressive shrug, "what does it say? Business before pleasure. I was not then a settle in account with the gentleman. I write till the books are closed." He further said that he felt as if four years of his sentence had expired, it did him no much good to get satisfaction from the man against whom he bears a grudge.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.
 A special session of the city council was held last evening. Present Councilmen Case, Cooper, Cleveland, Dealy, Smith and Trenchard. Mayor Hume was not present. Councilman Case on motion took the chair. The object of the meeting was stated to be the discussion of the matter of extending the time for the Astoria Street Railway company's going on with the work.
 The first question being in relation to the time, it was given as the opinion of the city attorney that a new ordinance was essential to enable the company to begin the work. Councilman Dealy thought that the ordinance should be drafted with reference to the rights and convenience of the citizens of Astoria. An ordinance giving C.A. Knowles and J. Q. A. Bowley, successors to the Astoria Street Railway company, the right to lay a street railway on certain streets was read. Councilman Cleveland thought that the ordinance was defective; that it did not contain all that it should and pointed out several matters that in his judgment being incorporated in the ordinance as might be required. Councilman Cleveland seconded the motion. In accordance with the convenience of those who would use the road for travel, and the requirements of the public, an ordinance granting similar franchise to the city of Portland, now in force, was read and commented on. Councilman Dealy moved that a similar ordinance be drafted and that Messrs. Bowley and Knowles be given a franchise as requested, to be, in general, in accordance with the provisions of such ordinance, such details being incorporated in the ordinance as might be required. Councilman Cleveland seconded the motion. The motion was carried after amendment to the effect that the parties asking the franchise be required to draft the ordinance. On motion the council adjourned.
THE OLD STEAMSHIP OREGON.
 The old pioneer steamship of the Pacific, the Oregon, owned by Holladay & Brenham, has been sold to Adams & Biinn, lumber dealers of San Francisco, who will convert her into a sailing vessel—bark-rigged—to carry lumber from Hood's canal, at Seabeck, Kitsap county, W. T., to San Francisco. The San Francisco Times of a late date says of her: The Oregon is a historical steamship. She was one of the three (California, Panama and Oregon) built in 1848 by the Pacific Mail Steamship company, with the aid of the government, to ply between Panama and the then newly acquired gold regions of California. She arrived at San Francisco March 31, 1849, with about 350 passengers, and bringing the first United States mail to California from the Atlantic states, which, with the passengers, came on board at Panama. Among her passengers was John W. Geary, the first postmaster of San Francisco, present governor of Pennsylvania and general in the Union army. Alfred Robinson was then agent of the company, and he made twenty-eight round voyages to Panama from 1849 to 1855 inclusive, having steamed in that time 182,000 miles, and carried at least forty thousand passengers to and from this coast. On one of her meetings with an accident. On her first arrival here she was commanded by Captain R. H. Pierson; and her officers were R. L. Whiting, W. C. Dail and Thos. Huntington, afterwards promoted to be captains. In October, 1850, the Oregon brought the news of the admission of California as one of the states of the Union, and the flag she carried on that occasion is the one recently presented to the society of California Pioneers. In the spring of 1861 she was sold to Messrs. Holladay and Brenham, who used her for the coast steamship line to the northward. Her last direct trip to Panama was made in February, 1865. In the fall of 1868, when she returned to San Francisco. During the Franco Mexican war she was in the summer of 1868, she made a trip to Victoria and back, commanded by Captain Patterson, and on the return passage, while crowded with passengers, she was wrecked on Point Reyes, some miles to the northward of San Francisco harbor, but with her usual good luck, she just scraped on the rocks and girded post, with only a splintered rudder, a broken part of her narrow escape. She has always been a successful, money-making vessel, and it would seem to be almost an act of ingratitude to the company to part with such an old and faithful servant, but for the fact that she will float longer and to a better purpose in her future useful career as a sailing vessel. Her boilers and machinery have been taken out, and she will be docked at Hunter's Point in a few weeks and examined.

BUDS OF PROMISE.
 A girl baby in the state of New York has two tongues. Here is an opportunity for wags.—Louisville Courier-Journal.
 A tooth pick is to a man what a baby is to a woman—something for him to occupy his hand and mind with.—Philadelphia Chronicle-Record.
 An eminent astronomer says, "it would take ten years to photograph the heavens." My! Pretty near as long as it takes to photograph the baby.—Burlington Hawkeye.
 "What," asked a very tender writer, "what can take the place of babies?" Well, howling cats and howling dogs make good midnight substitutes.—Philadelphia Call.
 A deaf and dumb couple near Rochester, N. Y., have a baby that squalls at the top of a very vigorous pair of lungs, but as neither of the parents can hear it their sleep is undisturbed.—Excelsior.
 The soft little cheek of the precious new comer is dearer to me than all roses. I ween!" sings a poetess, imaginatively. Wait till you actually get one of 'em, dear, and then see if a rose isn't nicer to wear.—Burlington Free Press.
 Lieut. Greely's baby, born while his father was gone, was three years old on his return. It is perhaps better to be in the inhospitable Arctic regions for a few years than to be kept awake every night by a young Arctic explorer et home.—Louisville Courier-Journal.
 "What," asks a very tender writer, "what can take the place of babies?" "B! Bend your ear a little lower and you will tell me." Other babies. You didn't suppose this year's crop lasted forever, did you? Goodness, man, it will be clear out of style in eighteen months.—Burlington.

THE ASTORIA BOYS OF DECK.
 The tournament begins at Albany to-day. The following was received at this office last night:
 ALBANY, Or., Aug. 19, 1884.
 J. F. HALLORAN, Esq.,
 We are all here, safe and sound, thirty-eight of us, and ready for "biz." The Captains of Salem, arrived with us. We are all feeling fine. The course is not the best in the world, but can tell better after a trial. The Regatta goes out tonight to give her a rattle, and then we can see how it is. As for accommodations, there are none; it is every fever for himself.
