

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, AUGUST 23, 1884

It is figured out that $115,000,000 is the amount invested in theaters in the United States.

Some of the newspaper carriers' routes in Philadelphia are worth $10,000 as an investment.

One hundred and thirteen foundlings were picked up in New York during the last six months.

A New York printing press maker promises to produce a press that will turn out 960,000 copies per hour.

A Pittsburg man has gone to an insane asylum because both of his babies were girls. He wanted a boy.

The American navy, 189 vessels, cost $16,000,000 annually; the French, $56, $41,000,000; and the British, $50, $51,800,000.

A broker at Macon, Ga., advertises for bills of sale of negroes, offering in pay dollar for dollar in Confederate money and bonds.

The government building at Washington now holds $200,000,000 in silver coin. The enormous mass of metal weighs about 5,000 tons.

An unlucky prospector borrowed a pistol in a Denver gun store, slipped in a cartridge and shot himself dead. He was too poor to own the means of killing himself.

CHARLES MOSHER of Troy escaped from the Poughkeepsie Lunatic Asylum, and marched enthusiastically in an Odd Fellows' procession before he was caught.

By a new electric headlight for locomotives thirty-three telegraph poles can be counted ahead of the engine on a dark night. Thirty-three poles cover about one mile.

Dog stealing has been reduced to such a science in Boston that a protective society against it has been formed, one man starting it with a contribution of $1,000.

TERRA COTTA is as nearly imperishable as any known substance. It will not burn, melt, decay or crumble, and it is impervious to the effects of water, air or the gases.

TWENTY-TWO thousand dollars' worth of twine was required to bind the 1884 crop of wheat in Ransom county, Dakota, where the first furrow was turned in 1881.

It is said there are over 170,000 tons of sugar in the bonded warehouses of Brooklyn, an amount in store never known before in the history of Brooklyn bonded warehouses.

The highest salary now paid any baseball player in this country is said to be $3,200 a year, and he is said to have received an offer of $5,000 to catch for the Chicago nine next year.

A COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, saloon-keeper imports his beer from Germany, and so the prohibitory law cannot touch him, as he has the sanction of the United States Government in his dealings.

Ten million dollars in back pay, bounties and pensions is the estimated minimum cost of the act to relieve deserters passed at the last session of congress. The whole number of deserters borne on the rolls is 278,644.

SOMEBODY has made the discovery that no watch will keep the same time, carried by two different persons. If true, this is probably owing to the temperature of the wearer, though difference in gait and movement may have some influence over the action of the works. Perhaps, too, animal magnetism is in some degree answerable for the alleged variation.

The Iowa prohibitionists have struck a stumbling-block in the shape of a supreme court decision that justices of the peace cannot try offenders, as the prohibitory law provides, because the penalty exceeds their jurisdiction. The court says a justice can only hold offenders to answer at a higher court. The result of this decision is that all cases now pending must be dismissed, and probably very few cases will in future reach the higher courts, which already have all the business they can dispose of.

THE inventor of an electric hat-band for men's hats claims that it will stimulate the imagination, strengthen the memory and greatly augment the working power of the brain. Such a hat will undoubtedly fill a long-felt want. It will prove invaluable to poets, philosophers and politicians, particularly the latter. Possessed of such a talisman, as it were, the politician can pursue the even tenor of his way with composure and self-satisfaction. His imagination will be so stimulated that, in his mind's eye, his candidate will be elected long before the ballots are cast. His memory will be so strengthened that he can never forget the smallest scandal derogatory to his opponent. His brain power will be so augmented that he will be enabled to concoct schemes that would startle an intellectual giant. This patent band cannot arrive too soon, for already the campaign is warm, even unto fever heat.
