The merchant, believing the dervish had stolen his eamel, was about to kill him, when he said he would explain the puzzle. He knew the camel had lost an eye, because it grazed the herbage on one side of the road; a tooth, because it left a turf of grass

An Idaho tale recounts a somewhat similar story of a man pretending to be a Methodist clergyman, who, out in that region, perhaps answers very well the description of a dervish. He came into town and going to a saloon keeper asked him if he had recently sold a sorrel horse with one ear slightly cropped, a white fore foot and a white hind foot, a short mane, a star on its forehead, a shoe gone and a cropped tail. The saloon-keeper ad-mitted that he had. The "clergyman" asked him how he came by the horse. The saloon-keeper had "picked him up." The "clergyman" charged him with knowing that the horse had been stolen, whereupon the saloon-keeper hinted that it was none of the other

MESSTS. SEABURY & JOHNSON, Gentlemen:-Like most of my profession, I am cautious about pinning my faith to any new medicine or curative agent. But your BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER has broken through the barriers and won its way to my good opinion. My attention was first called to it some eight months ago by a patient of mine Although I was well acquainted with the superior excellence of your other plaster and antiseptic dressing, made especially for the profession, the Benson's was ecoparatively new to me. I had heard, however, of its merits as a remedy, in case of Lame Back, Local Rheumatism, Neural gia. Congestion of the Bronchial Tubes and Lungs, Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver and the like affections, and have since begun to experiment with it personally. I find BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTER an exceptionally cleanly plaster to use, and rapid in its action.

Many tests of its qualities, made in my own family and among my patients have convinc ed me that there is no single article so valuable for popular use, nor so helpful in the diseases I have named. Should you desire to do so, you may use my
