Astoria and Vicinity.
 The county court meets to-morrow.
 School begins in District No. 1 to-morrow.

Squemoqua and Main streets are being elevated.
 The Miles goes on her regular excursion to the cape this morning.
 Mr. C. W. Shively, clerk school district No. 18, gives notice concerning school taxes.
 The marriage license department of the county clerk's office finds almost steady employment.
 Rev. J. M. C. Bonchard, S. J. will lecture at the Roman Catholic church at eight o'clock this evening.
 The Oregon state university will next October open a law school, and this is filled another "long felt want."
 The regular monthly meeting of the vestry of Grace church will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock sharp.
 That must have been a gay old "teacher's institute" lately held at Kalamazoo. There was one teacher present, and no more.
 Harry Buckley, agent for the Fay Templeton troupe, is in the city. His company will be here on Monday, the 8th prox.
 St. John still hopes that somebody will start a story about him. He is anxious to let the country know that he is running for president.
 Probably no city on the coast of its size can show such an amount of improving property going on as is now in progress in Astoria.
 The Willamette Iron Works at Portland narrowly escaped total destruction by fire last Friday afternoon. As it was the loss reached $5,000.
 A telegram from Minneapolis says that there is no market there for Oregon wheat. It is about a stand off with the depressed salmon market.
 The Oregonian reports that the Walla Walla has completed the sluicing at Walker's island and there is now 19 feet depth at extreme low water.
 The Kirkwood and Belle of Oregon will finish this week, with the exception of the W. H. Starbuck, which will about close the shipments of salmon by sail for '84.
 The News says that "the links of friendship between the Astoria and Salem fire companies were welded in Salem after the tournament at Albany."
 Correct.
 The Idaho left for Alaska at two o'clock yesterday afternoon: the tug Astoria and Novelty arrived from Coos bay: The Tam O'Shanter coasted: the Columbia sailed for San Francisco.
 Goldendale, W. T. must be having a feverish season of prosperity. A subscription was started there the other day to build a bridge, and every newspaper man in the place "headed the list" with $20. Where in the world they got so much wealth excites inquiry.
 Becker, the Portland fire bug, who burned John Stephens' saloon last May, has been held in the sum of $5,000 to answer to the charge of arson. Between the man that murders in position and the man that sets fire coolly and deliberately, our sympathies are with the former.
 H. B. Thielson, chief engineer of the O. R. & N. Co., reports that only eight miles of grading remain to be done to enable the company's tracks and those of the Oregon Short Line to be connected. There are 2,000 Chinamen at work, and with the aid of electric light, they work night and day. It is expected to complete the connection of the rails by Nov. 1st.
 The board of directors of the Mechanical fair has issued invitations to the state militia for a competitive drill. A gold medal will be given for the best drilled company, and silver one for the second best. Certain evenings during the fair will be set apart for the drill, to be known as military evenings. Here is an opportunity for Astoria to win another trophy.
 Don't work to-day. Take it easy. Lay cards and campaigns aside for the day. When the waves laugh into foam at your feet or the water dash around you, or the leaves smile in the breeze, answer their joy with a joy of your own. Where the jocular spirits of youth make the air merry with laughter, there is a good place to be. Worry will do the week days, and there are six of them.
 The Albany Democrat says that the Astoria firemen kicked "because they didn't have things free." The Democrat is mistaken. The Astoria firemen "kicked" because some of the Albany people tried to pinch them on prices. As long as the Democrat has started it, it may as well be known that some of Albany's citizens are miserably poor.

 A negro girl was sold at Saratoga, N. Y., for $1,200 on the 26th.
 Two thousand Pigeon Indians are starving near Helena, Montana.
 Gen. Butler addressed 5,000 people at Williams Grove, Penn., last Friday.
 A southern Indiana hurricane destroyed $30,000 worth of property last Friday.
 A sleeping car filled with circus employees was destroyed by fire near Denver last Thursday. Ten men perished in the flames.
 The Chinese are preparing to invade Tonquin. Frenchmen have been ordered to leave Canton. It is thought that there will be a cessation of hostilities this week.
 An Indianapolis dispatch of the 29th says: In the Blaine libel suit against the Sentinel fifteen days was allowed the defense in which to answer. The time expired to-day and Mr. Shoemaker entered an appearance. This action was necessary to escape default. The defense will now have its own time unless plaintiff's attorney secures a ruling requiring an immediate answer. In the latter case it is customary to grant ten days' further time.

LOW PRICES.
 The price of wheat is way down all over the world. It would be difficult to sell Walla Walla wheat for export in Portland, which is our present shipping point, for much, if anything, above one dollar per hundred or 60 cents per bushel. To get the wheat to Portland the shipper has to pay over one-third of the price in that place, or 21 cents a bushel to the railroad company. To that cost must be added the price of sacks, the expense of drayage, insurance interest, commissions and wastage, which combined increase the total about eight cents a bushel. It costs over 21 cents a bushel to raise wheat in the Walla Walla country when the average yield is 25 bushels per acre. Those figures make it evident that the present market price of wheat is less than the average cost of production. When the cost of production is greater than the market value, distress follows, production ceases, and the producers seek other modes of making a living. Of course they can do little in any new line of production for many months to come, and the marketing of the product of their wheat fields is not available for any purpose. -W. W. Union.

The New Tug.
 Considerable interest was manifested yesterday when it was telegraphed that the new tug Astoria and Novelty were crossing in, and quite a crowd went down to the wharf to see the Astoria. On her arrival in she took a party aboard and steamed down to Ft. Stevens and back in an hour and three minutes, carrying about 70 pounds of steam at the time. She is substantially built, is 114 feet 2 inches in length, 22 feet 6 inches beam, 12 feet 8 inches depth of hold; has compound engines, steel boilers, and is well fitted throughout.
 The Novelty is 70 feet long, 18 feet beam, 7 feet depth of hold, and it is thought, will ply at Knappaion.

POMP AT FUNERALS.
 The Grand Master of the New York L. O. O. F., at the session of the grand lodge of that jurisdiction last week, called especial attention to the extraordinary and useless funeral expenses sometimes incurred at the burial of the members of the order, and suggested that measures be taken to prevent such a wasteful expenditure of money.
 This is a subject that has often been alluded to in the past by eminent writers, not connected with fraternal societies, and in some cases, without doubt, their sensible arguments have been heeded, but there is still room for improvement. Honor, respect and merited tributes to the worthy dead are not symbolized by rose-wood, silver ornaments, or long processions of carriages, but by the sincere emotions of the heart.
 Fraternal societies, numbering as they do many hundreds of thousands of our best citizens, can exert a powerful influence in this direction, and it is full in keeping with their principles that they should do so. Their laws require "that the remains of a brother be given decent sepulture, and that he shall be laid to rest with kindly hands and sympathetic hearts, but nowhere will be found either requirement or authority for the extravagant pomp that is now and then seen, so inappropriate and useless, so inconsistent with solemn occasion.
 The large majority of fraternal society members are men of family, men who work for a living who have no bank accounts, or but small ones at best. When death calls them hence, they leave, perchance, a little home of their own, with widow and orphans, but rarely much money. In their hours of distress the bereaved families must depend entirely on the good offices of others, and it is just here that the lodge officials, in duty to the dead, should take charge of and arrange the details of the funeral, and see that they are within proper limits, and that no useless or extravagant expenses are incurred to draw upon the slender means of the family.
 Expenses for carriages, crapes, gloves, mourning apparel, casket, etc., are sometimes seen for the funerals of men in moderate circumstances, that would have sufficed for the burial of a statesman or millionaire. It is simply wrong, more than wrong, wicked and unjust to depend on the means of a practice that cannot too soon be abolished.
 And for lodges themselves, when they take entire charge of a funeral, let everything be done decently and in order, but let the tribute of respect be in the attendance of the brethren, not in costly outside show; let the money that is most needed - to the family - be in the views of the Grand Master of New York are correct, and should be most heartily indorsed.
 Don't Be Hard
 On the car drivers and conductors. Don't order them about, or speak harshly to them. They are over-worked underpaid men, exposed to all sorts of weather and to everything calculated to rob them of their health. They suffer from rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, and sometimes from general prostration. Brown's Iron Bitters is the very thing for them. Dr. G. N. Robertson of Elm Grove, N. C., says, "I prescribe Brown's Iron Bitters, and find it all it is recommended to be." It cures dyspepsia, weakness, and malaria.
