

THE INDEPENDENT VOTE.

In this country there seems to be no room for a "middle" party. Every effort to organize a third party proves a failure; and there is a great body of unattached voters, who, having no especial connection with either of the existing organizations, form a tremendous force, standing ready at all times to cast their votes for whichever party gives the best promise—we do not mean the best paper resolutions or the strongest platform promises, but the best assurance of good government. This unattached body has no party name, no party organization, and no party leaders. It is composed of intellectual, patriotic, conservative citizens, who love order, who own property, who are engaged in business pursuits, who favor gradual progress, who are loyal to the Union, who are content to let well enough alone, and who seek no offices, nor opportunities to make money out of government employ. This class favors economy in all government expenditure, and demands integrity and honest dealing among officials. It is wise enough not to expect perfection in any party, and reasonable to favor any party that, on the whole, acts wisely and patriotically for the best interest of the whole country and all its people. This independent, conservative middle class is the controlling power in American politics. No party, or has ever been, strong enough to ignore. No party can come to power without its vote, or remain in power having lost its confidence. The voters of this class are not biased by personal prejudice nor deceived by false testimony. They consider the history of the two parties, they weigh the promises and measure the value of their pledges. They estimate the character of the candidates and intelligently express their opinion at the ballot box. Their votes decide the result.

The fusion of the Democrats and Greenbackers in Michigan has one novel and interesting feature. A trial of comparative strength is to be made on a single presidential elector, while twelve electors are to be voted for by the two parties jointly. If, then, the fusion ticket carries the state, the electoral vote is to be divided between Cleveland and Butler in the ratio in which the popular vote is divided on the thirteenth elector. The Democrats and Greenbackers will thus vote together against the Republicans for twelve electors, but, as they will split on the thirteenth, the Republicans are sure of one.

STONEWALL JACKSON'S war horse, a sorrel gelding, once fiery, but now with less oxygen in his windpipe, is cared for at the Virginia Military Institute, to which school he belongs. The other day a lock of his mane was presented to the Tennessee Historical society. Not since the war has the old steed worn a bit, nor has he carried a shoe.

A unique custom is in vogue with some papers in Japan of employing parties in whose name the journal is edited, but whose sole occupation is to go to prison whenever the courts order that punishment for the editor! This is orthodox theology applied to journalism.

Off the Gulf coast of Texas is the Padre island, containing 350,000 acres and owned by no man knows whom. There are scores of claimants to the title, some of whom have already induced credulous Englishmen to sink $100,000 in ideal schemes of improvement.

It is proposed to add to the terrors of arctic exploration by attempting to go there in a balloon. Until balloons are fitted with better rudders, the navigator would have to be prepared to land at the equator.

WHAT a fortunate thing it is that ministers are not born perfect; for, then, congregations could not have the tireless pleasure of grinding, polishing, and of sometimes resetting this kind of jewelry!

Thus far this year the United States Fish Commission has distributed throughout the states and territories 120,000 whitefish, shad and fish of the salmon species, besides 12,000,000 German carp.

The "kazoo" is a new alleged musical instrument which bids fair to become as unpopular as the accordion. Not one of the candidates has yet been accused of playing the kazoo.

In consequence of the recent floods a new river has formed at the mouth of the Mississippi, which is said to be more important in size and depth than any stream south of the Red river.

BUTLER believes that he is the most talked about man in the country. Ben's bump of self esteem is as big as an eggplant.

The treasury at Cairo is only $4,000,000 short. The officials probably played Pharaoh on the banks of the Nile.

HENDRICKS is not as enthusiastic over his position on the ticket as his friends would like him to be. It is not pleasant for a first class musician to play second fiddle.
