WAIKIAKUM NOTES.

One of the largest settlements in this county lies along the Skamokawa river, which flows into a slough connected with the Columbia, a few miles below Cathlamet, W. T. There are three principal branches to the river; the middle fork, with a tributary from the west uniting with the East or Wilson fork, and forming the main river about one mile from its mouth. From this point down the stream will average one hundred feet or more in width, and at high tide deep enough for large boats. Hills and broken bench lands mostly covered with fir and hemlock extend along the stream and its tributaries leaving narrow strips of tide and rich bottom land. The tide land does not extend far up the stream, and is of small extent and mostly covered with a growth of timber and undergrowth. The population of Skamokawa precinct is about three hundred, one-half or more living in the village and the remainder along the Columbia. The principal occupations of the people are dairying, stock-raising, fishing and lumbering.
I. N. Lott, breeder of Poland-China hogs, is one of the principal stock-raisers and dairymen on the Skamokawa. He has now in his place thirty-four pure bred animals of the breed named. One of them, a male, weighed at eleven months old, three hundred and two pounds; also a three-year-old thoroughbred bull from Heurales, purchased of Peter Saxe, of San Francisco; also several grade Jersey cattle; milks 18 head of cows, producing on an average 135 to 140 pounds of choice butter weekly. Dairies and other items of interest are reported as follows: Capt. J. W. Kelly milked 11 to 14 cows from Apr. 1st to Aug. 5th, and during that time made and sold 1,148 pounds of butter; A. J. Constable, 14 cows, reporter 80 pounds per week; J. S. Mastor, 15 cows, and 100 pounds per week, stock mostly common, but a number of them of grade Jerseys; J. Fitz Patrick, 8 cows, 45 pounds per week; A. Benson, 5 cows, 25 pounds per week; A. Paulding, 6 cows, 40 pounds; Thos. Smith, 9 cows, 270 pounds in June; Jacob Wilson, John Peterson, S. P. Olsen, John Dougherty, A. Carlson, Mrs. A. Lund, W. S. Brooks, five to ten or more cows each. To give an idea as to what is done in haymaking the following is given as reported as estimated by the parties themselves: A. Paulding, 12 acres, 35 tons of hay; Thos. Smith, 10 acres, 30 tons; J. Wilson, 10 acres, 30 tons; John Peterson, three and one-half acres, 15 tons; S. P. Hoff, 40 tons; A. J. Montgomery, 12 acres, 35 tons; John Johnson, six acres, eighteen tons; J. P. Olsen, five acres, fifteen tons; J. Dougherty, ten acres, thirty tons; Thos. Smith, ten acres, thirty tons; W. S. Brooks, tide land, five acres, eighteen tons; Howe, three acres, twelve tons. Nearly all kinds of vegetables do well. About all the choice land for farming purposes located conveniently near the settlements has already been pre-empted or taken for homesteads, also all choice and convenient timber claims.
Another flourishing settlement is located on the Elohomon river, emptying into the Columbia a short distance below Cathlamet. The bottom land along the Elohomon, like that on the Skamokawa, is limited in extent, extending a few miles along the stream from near its mouth up, and of varying width from a few rods to half a mile or more. The valley has been settled for many years and contains some good meadow places. All of the more desirable places convenient to market has been taken. In this district, as in Skamokawa, some choice timber land has been pre-empted or homesteaded, but a great deal has been bought up by lumbermen and others under the timber claim act.
Among the principal farms and farmers on the Elohomon, may be mentioned J. F. Foster, fifty acres in meadow, claims to have cut 150 tons of hay; R. C. A. Elliott, fifty acres, 180 tons; Thos. Kent, twenty acres, seventy-five tons. Vegetables do well, especially potatoes, when not too much affected with blight. The "Darling" is the principal variety planted. Last season J. F. Foster raised, it was estimated 800 bushels to the acre. He plants about an acre each season, putting the hills three feet apart each way on ground previously manured and gives thorough cultivation. J. F. Kimball, Henry Miller, J. W. Clemens, Thos. Kent, Maurice Sullivan, T. Dorris, R. C. A. Elliott, J. H. Graham, Charles Page, A. T. Irving, report two to ten acres each in potatoes. The yield will be large this season, and is estimated at three or four hundred bushels to the acre. Robert Peterson of Thos. Kent, is experimenting in raising seedlings from ball seed of the Kidney potato, and though only the second year of the experiment, shows potatoes of fair size. Considerable attention is paid to butter making. J. F. Foster and Thos. Kent reporting the largest product.
At Cathlamet, David West and John Doekar are in the dairy business, reporting ten and seventeen cows each respectively. Mr. D. keeps with his herd of cows a thoroughbred male Holstein imported from California. The present population of Waiakikum county is about 1,200. Improved land 1,200 to 1,500 acres; assessed valuation of all property, real and personal, about $300,000.
"One Who Knows" writes to the Sun as follows: To the Lady with a Mustache, whose inquiry about the means of its removal appears in the Sun, I send a remedy as efficient as simple. Let her nightly rub her red perlip - but not too hard - with wet prepared chalk, such as used as a daily dentifrice by many, that in small lumps being preferable, and allow it to remain on till morning. This persisted in will destroy any superfluous hair, "root and branch," whether on the arms or face. - Baltimore Sun.
-Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shilo's Cure. Sold by W. E. Dement.

Profitable Small-Fruit.

A recent visit to the small fruit and vegetable garden of J. Matier, of Skipanon is reported as follows: Mr. M. showed some Black Cap raspberry bushes grown from thirty-five small slips set out in the spring of '83, and producing this season upwards of sixty quarts of berries. In the garden were several varieties of straw berries. Of the Sharples single specimens were grown this season measuring seven and one-half inches in circumference. From three hills of the James Vick variety twelve and one-half quarts were picked. About 700 sets grown from these hills were transplanted last September, some of the sets producing two quarts each this season. Mr. M. stated that he had counted one hundred and sixty-five perfect berries on one set at one time. From one-third of an acre of different varieties of strawberries in full bearing condition and five-twelfths of an acre set out last fall $235 worth of berries were sold during the present season. The ground on which the garden is located is a black sandy soil, but little if any elevated above the sea level. A ton of super-phosphate was applied to the land. Mr. M. says the result is as good as $20 worth of stable manure. The road at the junction of the road and the Chehalis river, 21 miles from St. Helena, is Pittsburg, where is located Browse's mill and a post-office. Lumber is sold there at $8 per thousand. There is considerable good bottom land along the Nehalem, covered with a heavy growth of fine cedar timber. Mr. Beale says that he saw more cedar during the trip than during all his previous years' residence in Oregon. Settlers there say that if people with families come in they will assist them in hunting claims, but they do not want any bachelors to locate there. These fore-lorn specimens of humanity file on claims and after awhile go off and leave them, and then if any one wants to take up these claims he is liable to have trouble. Nehalem is the finest hunting ground in the northwest. Mr. Beale saw six deer on his way in - a buck, doe and twin fawns in one party. Browse's boy saw 25 elk in one band a few days since. Many of the settlers are now out hunting elk for their winter's meat. Now that the Nehalem country is so easy of access, it is probable that many of our hunters will visit that place before long. - Oregonian, 11.

Game in the Nehalem.

C. Beale has just returned from a trip to the Nehalem valley. He went in from St. Helena over a very good road. At the junction of the road with the Chehalis river, 21 miles from St. Helena, is Pittsburg, where is located Browse's mill and a post-office. Lumber is sold there at $8 per thousand. There is considerable good bottom land along the Nehalem, covered with a heavy growth of fine cedar timber. Mr. Beale says that he saw more cedar during the trip than during all his previous years' residence in Oregon. Settlers there say that if people with families come in they will assist them in hunting claims, but they do not want any bachelors to locate there. New York, Sept. 13. - Capt. Murphy of the bark Anita Owen, from Santiago de Cuba, with yellow fever aboard, tells a strange story of how he lost all of his crew but one man. On August 10 the bark sailed for this port with the captain, his wife and son, and a crew of five men, among whom was a Philadelphia sailor named Conway. The last named was just getting over the yellow fever. A sailor was taken with fever on the first night out, and died in four days of black vomit. Then Mrs. Murphy was prostrated with the same disease, and the next time she opened her eyes, she found her husband and the captain dead. The captain's son and the first mate were the only ones well enough to work the ship. Another sailor died the next day, and the day after that the fourth man died, and the ship came up to quarantine with the captain, his son and Conway, just able to work. For about a year he was with sugar and the health officers are in a quandary as to the disposition of the cargo, even after the vessel is thoroughly fumigated. Capt. Murphy has been a victim of yellow fever four times.

Charles S. Voorhees, the nominee of the Territorial Democratic convention, to be delegate to congress, was born in Covington, Fountain county, Ind., June 4, 1833. He attended Wash. college at Crawfordsville, Ind., and subsequently went to Georgetown college, District of Columbia, where he was graduated in 1873. He studied law in the office of his father, Senator Daniel Voorhees, at Terre Haute, Ind., and was admitted to the bar in 1874. For about a year he was engaged in practice with the firm of Voorhees, Carlton & Voorhees. He then went to Washington City, and during the winters of 1875 and 1876 acted as cashier of the house of representatives. He left the capital in January, 1882, and on the 6th day of April of that year arrived at Colfax, where he at once established himself in law practice. On the 16th of September following he was nominated by the Democrats to be prosecuting attorney of Whitman county, and in November was elected by a majority of 242 votes. Since then Mr. Voorhees has been continually in law practice in Colfax.

The Chinese a short time ago began to fortify a small island in the river at Foo-Chow. After awhile, when the work had made some progress, it suddenly occurred to them that if the place was shelled by the French and became untenable, there would be no means of escape for the garrison. "Suppose we make lose, what side can go?" became the anxious query, and as affairs were looking very critical at the time, with the French men-of-war within gunshot, away scampered the braves and their officers from the island.
Facts about the Child.
A healthy child is a joy in the house. A sick and feeble child is a constant worry. The diseases which attack the child are those chiefly which attack the digestive organs and the blood. Brown's Iron Bitters acts gently and powerfully on these, restoring the child to health and vigor. It is a pleasant medicine to take, and the children under its use will gain strength in every portion of the body.
