Notice To Advertisers.

THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

The Astoria Protective Rod and Gun Club will have a meeting this evening.

Lawrence Barrett will not play in Astoria this time, returning east from Portland.

One dollar and five cents is the top price reported for salmon sales on the river this week.

They've made a sheriff of Clark Loughrey in San Francisco. He will be back with Marcella on the State to-morrow.

In the article yesterday concerning the lease of the beach road the terms should have been stated at $200 instead of $500.

Prof. A. L. Francis will be here about the 26th inst., prepared to fill all orders for tuning or repairing pianos and organs.

M. Schlussel, president of the Washington Packing Company, gives notice of a meeting of the company at half-past seven to-morrow evening.

Street work is going on in all directions. A much needed improvement is in progress on Lafayette street in front of No. One's engine house.

The Starbuck is taking on some barreled salmon, the first shipment of the kind from Astoria to New York. She will also take the first shipment of Oregon fir to Gotham.

D. W. Bush's warehouse, above Mt. Coffin, was totally destroyed by fire last Monday night. The fire caught from a dryer. There was considerable salmon stored in the warehouse which is a total loss, together with the building, as there was no insurance.

The first mate of the Dora Bluhm, loading lumber at Kinney's mill, had a narrow escape from a horrible death yesterday. In some way he became entangled in the rope that the donkey engine was winding up and was being drawn up to the drum when the rope slipped, releasing him. One of his legs was badly lacerated, but fortunately his injuries are comparatively slight.

The Blaine and Logan club held an interesting meeting last evening with a full attendance. Several matters were discussed, among others the question of going to Portland to join in the grand whoop-up there, it being finally decided in the negative. It was concluded to make a thorough canvass of the county, and to meet next Friday evening to elect field officers and transact other business. The club has now about 150 members on the roll, has a reading room attached to the meeting hall where plenty campaign literature can be found. All are invited to call as the rooms are open to the public every day.

There is a project on foot now that is calculated to produce greater security in the matter of fire, and thus tend to lower the present high rates of insurance. Briefly stated, it is to create and maintain a fund sufficient to have a fire patrol and keep the force pump, etc., on Flavel's dock in constant readiness to throw one or more streams in case of necessity. On more than one occasion Capt. Flavel's fire apparatus has proved of great value, and were it to be so arranged that it could be utilized at a moment's notice it could come grandly to our firemen's aid at a critical moment. The idea is a good one, and will no doubt be put into practical execution.

IMPORTANT IF TRUE.

For some time the Northern Pacific has been endeavoring to lease the O. R. & N. systems, but undoubtedly has failed. The lease was to have been signed to-day; but information to hand indicates that Jay Gould had as good as consummated the lease, and that the Northern Pacific is out of the fight. Gould's plans are said to be the securing of an outlet to the sea and to accomplish that desirable end outbid the Northern Pacific for the lease above referred to. Our source of information justifies us in saying that his plans are, after striking tide water, to build down the west side of the Sound, making the terminus at Port Angeles. That portion of the news while interesting is not so important as the statement which accompanies it. "I am in a position to say to you that the certificates for the land along the Wilkeson road will be issued as soon as Secretary Teller is satisfied that the Cascade branch will be built, and within a reasonable length of time, that he will issue the certificates. In consequence of that assurance the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific Company have concluded to abandon their efforts to secure a lease of the O. R. & N. system and will, on the 18th of November next, award the contract for piercing the Cascade. If I am misinformed I am very badly deceived.

Our informant is well posted, and we have every reason to give full credence to the above; more particularly for the reason that the company is rushing operations on both sides of the mountains. Money for present use is being advanced to the company on the strength of the above information, which is already more than ten days old. In connection with recent operations it is proper to state that the company has been very quietly developing its coal property on Green river. Fully 250,000 tons are on the dumps. The scene of operations is at a point known as Jack's Fountain, on Green river.—Seattle Herald, 13th.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY.

We do not observe that the multitudes in the Northwest are trampling over one another in their eagerness to hear Butler. —Standard.

Mr. Villard, in his "statement" to the Northern Pacific stockholders, tells them that he "saved" their property. Next in order should be a "statement" to the stockholders of the Trancontinental informing them why he sacrificed their property to save the Northern Pacific. The query on this point is the more pertinent from the fact that good money was paid, at par, for Transcontinental stock, while Northern Pacific stock was simply divided by the "proprietors" among themselves, and nothing ever was paid on it.—Oregonian.

The territorial Republican convention, which was held at Seattle last week, was, we are free to say, a disgrace to the party. Its controlling men, who largely obtained their votes by proxies, appeared to care nothing for the honest principles of the Republican party, but appeared determined to make the most of their opportunity. They evidently bartered and traded whenever there was a chance. The nomination of a man from east of the mountains was an outrage upon the people of Puget Sound, to whom belonged the nomination or the naming of the candidate. This hoggishness of the eastern side should not be forgotten.—Olympia Transcript.

California has about six months of green grass in each year, while Oregon has nearly eight; hence instead of bringing California butter to Portland we should be shipping Oregon butter to San Francisco by every steamer. Union and Baker counties are already great dairy counties and export butter and cheese to the Idaho mining towns, where they realize fair prices. And in these two counties, until about four years ago, it was the custom to breed for the shambles only, and ignore the dairy altogether; but people have begun to find out that the condition of affairs to which we are fast settling down, requires a more thrifty sort of manag ment and must be prosecuted with a view to saving the milk from the cattle as a means of securing the interest on this coast.—Polk County Itemizer.

The way to build up Oregon is not by striking down the tariff which has proven so beneficial to the country at large, but to hold out inducements to capitalists to invest their surplus wealth in manufactures here, and thus get the benefit of its wise provisions. There is abundant capital seeking investment in various parts of the country. There are rich mines and magnificent water power in Oregon awaiting the plastic touch of capital to turn a steady stream of prosperity upon the farmers of the state in exchange for their productions. The proper way to bring the active and the undeveloped wealth together is not by assailing the former, or antagonizing the agencies to which it is indebted for its existence, but to demonstrate the willingness of the people to welcome it in any form, and to point out the magnificent field presented in this new state for its investment and growth.—News.

We demand from congress the prompt and unconditional forfeiture of all public lands granted to railroad corporations not earned in strict compliance with the conditions of the granting act. This demand is made not as of favor, but as of right. The homestead settler is held to a strict accounting under the law. He must bring himself within its conditions, must perform the stipulations of the act under which the grant to him is made before title can be obtained. The homestead law is a grant to the general public upon conditions specified in the act itself. In principle it does not vary essentially from a land grant to a railroad corporation. One is special, the other is general, but both are based upon certain conditions to be performed by the grantee. In the case of a homestead settler these conditions must be strictly met. But what powers of reasoning is the rule made to vary in the case of a railroad corporation?—Post-Intelligencer.

In years gone by Oregon has been an indulgent parent. To those who worked she gave her reward; and those who did not work seemed to get along about as well as those who did. Everybody prospered. High prices were by no means objectionable. Everybody was happy. Times now are shutting in a little and the means necessary to sustain life are getting more interesting and valuable. A dollar is now worth a dollar and it will go farther than it ever went before. In all this pressure there is a great lesson to learn. We should go in debt as little as possible unless we intend to pay it. To a man who will work out a debt it is not a bad thing to do. Many men will be in debt; they prefer to be so. They will buy a piece of property and then work it out and then another piece, and so on until all their means are invested in this way. Economy now is the study. There is plenty to do and the only way is to go and do it hoping for better times. There are many things we pay double more for than they are worth in our markets.—Salem Talk.

ONE OF INGERSOL'S STORIES.

Bob Ingersoll tells—in private, though—a good story at his own expense, but one which we see no reason should not be enjoyed by the world at large. It seems that while Ingersoll was in Cleveland, soon after his successful legal fight for the star routers, a sort of anti-tobacco crusade had been started in that city, and a well-known Boston scientist was delivering nightly lectures against the use of the soothing weed. This speaker invited others to argue the question with him, but, although the smokers were in the majority, the Boston man invariably proved too clever for the debaters brought against him.

Availing themselves of Ingersoll's presence, some of the friends begged the great orator to take up the cudgels in behalf of the tobacco users; which he condescended to do, more as a joke than for any serious reason.

That evening the hall was jammed, and, when the prohibitionist requested an answer to his arguments, Bob solemnly arose and said he would reply to the statement of his eloquent friend by the relation of a simple statement. He said:

"I was once attending to a mining case in one of the wildest and most lawless regions in Utah. A murder had recently been committed by a notorious thief, and a committee of local vigilantes were watching for him at every cross-road. Just after night fall I was riding back to the town from the mine, mounted on a white horse. The vigilantes had received information that the desperado in question would pass the very road the same evening, also riding on a white horse. The posse had ambushed themselves in some chaparral, and as I came down the bridle-path they got ready to fire altogether—for they waste no time on trials in that section. Entirely unconscious that half a dozen shotguns were sighting my shirt-front, I stopped my horse, and proceeded to light my cigar. Thinking the light would give them a still better mark to shoot at, the concealed party held their fire for a second. In that second the blaze of the match reflected on my features, revealing they were not those of the man they awaited, and, stepping out on the road, they congratulated me on my narrow escape. And so, ladies and gentlemen, if I hadn't the good fortune to be a smoker I wouldn't have been here now."

"And you call that fortune?" grimly added the anti-tobacco lecturer, after the applause had subsided.

"Wasn't it?" inquired Bob, with a plaintive smile.

"I don't see it," thundered his opponent. "If it hadn't been for that miserable cigar there would have been one less lawyer in this world."

And amid the roar that followed, Ingersoll sat down, completely knocked out in one round.

TOO MANY PACIFIC RAILROADS.

It has been reported that the St. Louis and San Francisco, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and the Atlantic and Pacific, having bought the 242 miles of the Mohave branch of the Southern Pacific and got track rights over 382 miles more to San Francisco, count on earning $10,000,000 from the through traffic. Last year the Central Pacific, which had the whole of the transcontinental traffic except the Oregon and Washington business for three months, earned $8,302,016 from through traffic. Its haul was from 826 to 1,286 miles. The haul over the new line will be from 2,115 to 2,450 miles, but if any one supposes that the Central Pacific is going to give any large part of the California traffic, which it holds in the hollow of its hand, as it were, we think that he will find himself mistaken. It has two roads to support, and will want to give some traffic to the Union Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy (not to speak of the connections of its Southern Pacific line, which has heretofore carried about three-fifths of the freight), because they can give much to it. The Atlantic and Pacific, which has about one-fourth of the mileage in the line between St. Louis and San Francisco, is said to count on getting profit enough out of the through traffic to pay the interest on the first mortgage bonds, amounting to $787,680. This will require net earnings of the whole line amounting to $3,340,000. Half that would probably come nearer to the result of the first year's working. There are now too many lines to the Pacific to make it possible for any except those which collect the traffic on coast by a system of railroads, as the Central Pacific and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company do, to get a support out of the through traffic alone.—New York Railway Gazette.

Mr. Geo. Home, of the extensive Columbia River, Oregon, Fish Cannery, writes, that after suffering seven years with rheumatism, he tried St. Jacobs Oil, the wonderful pain-cure and in a short time all stiffness and soreness of the joints disappeared.

THE AMATEUR CORNET FIEND.

The racket falls on bulging walls,
And tumbling houses held for taxes.
The long notes float from fields remote,
Let loose from horn that French or Saxe is.
Toot, tyro, toot; toot loud and strong and hearty—
Hoopen-te-groopen-ta ta, rrra-ty, traa-ty, traa-tar hoopen-tarty!

The challenge wakes the sleeping lakes,
Ilwaco's echoes answer surly,
And murmurs back Shoalwater bay
Where oyster-boats loom large and burly.
Toot, novice, toot; toot lustly and toot hearty—
Gnarr-rra-ra! poo-poo-ta! Zoo-poo-ta!
Noopen-ta hoopen-te-tarty!

September breeze, sweet sounds be these
That shame thy whispering breezes lazy,
Soft as the croon of doves in June,
And sad as midnight cats gone crazy.
Toot, wildly toot; toot once again and hearty—
Rrra.ra-ra, tra-ta-hoopee, graa-toopen-poo-poopen-pul tarty!

Now far and fair, now nearer, blare
The lingering notes that woo and mock us;
Lo! swells again the fairy strain
So like a first ward party caucus,
Toot, loud lungs, toot; toot stout and shrill and hearty—
Zoo-hoopety-poo, plup-pluplety plup, hooplety-poo-puptarty!

O love forlorn, thy bosom torn
By music's sweet ecstatic sorrow,
Will Steabb or Rucker pull him in,
And he'll get thirty days to-morrow.
Toot, learner, toot—one parting toot and hearty—
Guar-ty, guar-rra-aar-hoo-hoo-hoopen-en-arr-ty! Poo-poo! Zoo-poo-ta! Zoo-poo-ta-rra-noop-en-taa-ty! Zoopen te noopen ta ta! 'up! 'up! Graatoo-pen-tar-poo'pen-en-arty! Rrraty! Traa-tar-hoopen-tarty!
