The speaker re-fused to interfere with personal soundal connected with Blaine, though depre-cating the actions and motives of Repub-licans in trying to fasten on Cleveland scandals affecting his personal character. He charged the Republican party with being hand and glove with the MONOPOLISTS OF THE COUNTRY. declaring that corporations were the strong supporters of the Republican par-ty; and called on the Democrats to support each other in suppressing the monopolists. The speaker declared that the Ohio election, security-two hours hence, was the keynote of success or defeat, holding that no corruptive method was too low for the Republican party to se-cure the majority of Ohio's suffrages.

He then paid tribute to both Cleveland and Hendricks, defined the principles of Democracy as opposed to oppression and monopoly, and closed amid applicate. Dr. T. Cabaniss was next called, and after calling the chair's attention to the undemocratic nature of pure water as a Democratic dright he public to the contract of the contract Democratic drink, he paid a compliment to the preceding speech. Dr Cabaniss severely scored the recent speech ande by J. F. Watson before the Blaine and Logan club. Mr. Blaine's railroad rec-ord, he declared, was rotten to the core. Armed with documents, he quoted the connection of Washington with monopo-lies as compared with Blaine's actions in that respect. He reviewed Mr. Watson's speech step by step and severely crit-icised it. Blaine's policy in con-nection with Irish suspects was nection with Irish suspects was also heartily condemned. The Re-publicans claim to a policy of protection to American citizens abroad, the speaker declared, as hollow and rot-ten, humorously reviewing the Repub-lican claim. Referring to official reports and statistics, the doctor recommended the opposition of the Democracy to the further improvement of our rotten navy, and went after the Republicans for th and went after the kepanheans for the prodigal expenditure of public money for the present navy. Going back to one hundred years ago, the speaker endeavor-ed to prove the inconsistency of kepab licans in their claim to the protection of slaves, citing official records in support of his statement. He claimed that Biaine had never introduced a bill for the benefit of the country at large, irre-spective of party or religious lines. He finished with a brilliant calogy on the Democratic party, and was followed by Thomas Dealy, who declared that he ex-pected to get what protection he might want from the Democratic party. In a short speech Mr. Dealy defined his polit-ical position, particularly on the question of protection of of protection of

of our superior position renders us more independent. Our merchants started a year ago to do business with eastern houses, but the N. P. freight bills soon put a stop to the new traffic. It is bad enough to pay the present freight charge from San Francisco, but it is rumous, or would be were we unfortunately com-pelled, to pay the rates imposed by the managers of the N. P. R. K. Astoria has been virtually shat out from the healthy competition that usually ensues upon the completion of a great line of traffic. and nothing but her unrivaled situation has saved her from extortion. As it is, Astorians are denied the privilege of purchasing in open eastern market, and are compelled to patronize San Francisco. The Occasion interviewed several business men in Portland last Friday. They nearly all talked alike they were triangles and in Portaind last Friday. They nearly all talked alike; they were tired of being squeezed. Said a man who has done business for twenty-two years and is noted for freedom of expression in public matters: "The Northern Pacific has made a d-d fool of itself, as usual. It can't see an inch before its face. Just because it wanted to secure the trade of three or four towns and deprive the O. R. & N. of a part of the heul it has antagonized the most important city west of Minneapolis that it reaches. There are twenty-five or thirty houses in Portland either of which ships more goods than all the towns between Wallula junction and Missoula combined, and yet the company is so stupid that it can't company is to the company in the company in the company is the company in the company in the company in the company is the company in the company in the company in the company is the company in the company in the company in the company is the company in the company in the company in the company is the company in the comp company is so stupid that it can't com-prehend that it is breaking its neck as a transcontinental line by this short-sighted, miserly policy. Those fellows in New York have evidently been asleep and haven't heard that the Oregon Short Line will be to Portland in a few days. They don't seem to know that somebody clae has a railroad across the country to Ore-gon. It makes me indignant to talk about it, and I have inst this to say. In. about it, and I have just this to say: Un-less we get from the Northern Pacific the most favorable consideration, every man I, 1884, when the exposition in the street will get his goods over the Union Pacific. Mark that. In a month we won't need the Northern Pacific any we won't need the Northern Pacific any more than we need the Southern Pacific. Let them build their Cascades branch and load themselves up with another heavy debt, and operate their expensive road to—where? I don't care where they run it, they won't get as much business in a month as Portland gives them in a week. It is astonishing that a company is so void of the simplest business sense, as to drive away the trade of the principal to the principal to the sense. as to drive away the trade of the princi pal terminus, and get in return the trade of half a dozen small towns which they already had. It would be like a manu-facturing or importing house in New York sacrificing the trade of four or five jobbers in Front street to secure a retailer in Albina. They will see their error be-fore long and will yet beg Portland trade."

THE CELEBRATED CHALLENGER CASE.

Chief Justice Greene has rendered the following, which is an extract from his decision, in the case of the ill-used crew vs. the ship Challenger

Summarily stated, the satient facts in this case are these: The ship Challenger arrived in Puget Sound after a five months' voyage from Philadelphia. At I wonder how many were poor at the the time of her arrival almost every one of her crew, from the third mate to cabin boys inclusive, were in a sick, bruised and crippled condition, attributed by them to maltreatment by the first and second mates. Three of the crew showed recent fractures of the arm, one other a still unhealed fracture of the law, of all of which fractures the officers one and all professed tractures the onicers one and all professed utter ignorance. In the course of the voyage there was a death-inviting attempt to escape from the ship by one sailor, an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide by another, and what I am constrained to believe was a successful dicted and convicted for criminal about These are the main thoroughly estab my judgement, to meet and falsify the testimony of the libellants. I can but conclude that the master was culpably negligent in not looking after the disci-pline of the ship more carefully than he did, and not controlling his mates in interests, if indeed they did not intend to injure it."

So long as the Northern Pacific was master of the situation, grievances were nursed, and no one was anxious to answer the apparent question by the railroad, "What are you going to do about it?" The merchants will be prepared to answer by the list of December next, by which time the present contracts with the Northern Pacific will have expired. By that time the Oregon Short Line and the Baker City branch will have completed their junction, and trains will probably be rauning smoothly between Portland and Omaha.

The short sighted policy shown by the N. P. folks in discriminating against this part of the northwest could have no other effect. Here, in Astoria, the fact of our superior position renders us more man as to the particular treatment which he himself and others received. Re-spondent's testimony completely fails, in

Chas. Dahlgreen, for personal injuries, $1,000, for wages, $20; John B. Johnson, for personal injuries, $300, for wages, $23,25; Quaita Andrea, for personal in-juries, $600, for wages, $21,26. All these sailors and their co-libellants sued in forma parperis. Costs of the officers of the court, including proctor's fees, will therefore be allowed against respondents in case of each libellant, notwithstanding respondents have set-tled with some of the libellants since suit was begun. The settlement in each instance appears to have been clandes-tine, and without notice to the libellant's proctor or any other officer of the cour-interested. A decree will be entered to conform to this opinion,-Scattle Pos-Intelligeneer
