Gold Mining In Alaska.

The density of the forest growth, the tangle of underbrush and the thick carpet of moss that covers ev ery inch of ground has made mineral prospecting very slow and difficult. The mea who discovered a ledge of quartz near Sitka worked for ten days ure for Every Form of St.in 204 Discuss, from Fim-pics to Fereinia to clear off a small jatch over the outcroppings, and the more one sees of these dense tangled forests the more one marvels at the extensive mining region that has been opened up near Juneau and across on Dongass island. As they have had neither and offices, surveyors nor recorders the ownership of mining claims has be n rather uncertain. While they could get no titles to their claims, nor protection for themselves, mine owners have been content to do only yearly assessment work, wash or pound out enough gold to pay expenses and keep very still while they hold their mines by sufferance, luck or shot-guns only. The fear of in-viting more adventurers to come and jump their claims and increase mob rule has made the miners very reticent about the value of their proper-ties, and boasting in that line is unknown in the mining camps of the archipelago. The great mining re-gion is at Juneau, 150 miles south-east of Sitka. Three small creeks on the shore of the mainland lead to basins back in the mountains, where rich placers have been worked for four seasons. Every foot of this mineral land is staked off and claimed by two, three and four first owners. Lawsuits are impending over every claim, although the courts have not yet been established; no one has a children, with pinply, sallow ricera Rearences will prove a sing, cleansing the blood and rited impurties and expelling of scrofula, rheumatism, con-d severe skin diseases. the Paris, or Treadwell, mine is the great mine of Alaska. The gold-bearing ledge there is 500 feet wide, cropping out upon the surface and fronting like a stone quarry to the open air. It has been prospected by four tunnels and a small five stamp mill has been at work for two sea-sons. The ore is not rich, averaging from $9 to $50 per ton, but the decomposed quartz is easily milled and the supply is inexhaustible. A large mill is to be built by a force of mechanics, who will arrive by the Au-gust steamer, and the owners, being now assured of a government title bas done much to give confidence to other mine owners, and when once sure of their titles there will be a For Auditor, D'S RADICAL CURE boom for these Alaska mines that will quite outdo the Tombstone, Lead-Balsamic Distillation of ville and Coenr d'Alene excitements.
