It has developed into a national industry which furnishes a much needed supply of anti-scorbutic food during the winter months, and in many localities preserved provisions have become a necessity. If there are any unwholesome goods packed, reputable packers desire to co-operate with the press and the medical profession to prohibit such packing, but in view of the tendency to sensationalism and alarm on the part of consumers and the manifest dam age occasioned thereby, we ask you to thoroughly investigate the facts and be sure that sickness may not justly be attributed to other food or causes before expressing an opinion in any case which may come under your notice. The result in the enclosed memorandum of cases which were investigated by the American Grocer newspaper illustrates the tendency toward exaggeration in such cases. We have established a bureau of information for the packers of the United States and desire all information which will tend to the improvement of quality in canned goods and will be glad if you can at any time communicate any facts which tend to this result.
