who is making a vigorous campaign in behalf of Blaine for the presidency, received a poem, which upon its face was full of praise for the Re publican candidate, and was accepted and printed in that journal. Special attention was also called by the editor to the beautiful tribute. Upon a careful reading of the same after it was in print, it was discovered that it was nothing else than an acrostic, which those who read might understand that it was their bounden duty to "vote for Cleveland." The editor's consternation and indignation upon the unearthing of the fraud may be better imagined than described.

HOBATIO SEYMOUR comes forth from the drift of the alluvial period to tell us that if we go on protecting our industries against foreign capital and pauper labor, the European governments will soon begin to retaliate by putting a high tariff on our breadstuffs. There might be something in this if Europe were buying our breadstuffs as a mere matter of accommodation to us; but the truth is that she buys them only because she is obliged to, and would quit it tomorrow if she could get them anywhere else for any less money. And furthermore, if it be true, as Mr. Seymour and Democrats in general contend, that a tariff is simply a tax on the consumer, then Europe could only put a retaliatory duty on American breadstuffs by making food more costly to her own people-and Europe could not do that without causing a general rebellion.

THE immense odds in favor of the Democrats in next Tuesday's contest will be seen in the fact that they only need to carry New York and Indiana to give a Democratic majority to the electoral college. Of course no mention is necessary regarding the electoral votes of the south that is "solid." The fact exists of the states in which political discussion and free speech are allowed, the Democrats only need the states from which hail their candidates for president and vice-president

A STATISTICIAN has just published the findings of a twenty-five years' commercial retrospect, from which it appears that in 1860 we imported half the woolen goods consumed in cloth and in wool. Now we produce about four-fifths of the consumption, and the small proportion imported is largely carpet wools of too low a a grade for civilized agriculture to produce.
