

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1884. CLEVELAND PROBABLY ELECTED.

For the first time in twenty-eight years the Democrats seem to have won in the quadrennial contest and Grover Cleveland is probably elected twenty-second president of the United States.

His defeat is not a Democratic victory; his success could not have been termed a Republican triumph.

Blaine's defeat will cause the extreme of exultation and regret. Many who voted for him will doubtless feel as bitter disappointment as he himself and those of his own party who aided in his defeat will feel a fierce joy that is the natural outcome of the jealousy that conscious mediocrity always entertains toward acknowledged ability.

The campaign has been almost entirely one of pocket interests. The result demonstrates that the Republicans have lost the confidence of the country. It is an expression of popular opinion that constitutes the will of the highest tribunal in the nation—the people, and one that is fraught with the most tremendous consequences to the country.

In every state some important forms of suffrage can be conferred on women by statute without change of constitution. During the past seventeen years the legislatures of Kansas, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Colorado, Nebraska and Oregon have voted to submit woman suffrage constitutional amendments to the voters.

"MEN of Rochester," said Webster on one occasion when visiting the Genesee valley, "I am glad to see your noble city. Gentlemen, I saw your falls, which I am told are one hundred and fifty feet high. That is a very interesting fact. Gentlemen, Rome had her Caesar, her Scipio, her Brutus, but Rome in her proudest days never had a fall one hundred and fifty feet high! Gentlemen, Greece had her Pericles, her Demosthenes and her Socrates, but Greece in her proudest days never had a waterfall one hundred and fifty feet high. Men of Rochester go on. No people ever lost their liberties who had a waterfall one hundred and fifty feet high!"

A NEW YORK dispatch on the day of election said: By a blunder in printing the Republican ballots, about four million were sent out with Ford electors on the back of the presidential ticket, which vitiates the ticket in this county, though that indorsement is proper for every county in the state.

PROBABLY no one has reached a higher altitude by balloon ascension than Prof. James Glaisher, who, with a professional aeronaut, made an ascension in England to the height of 37,000 feet, or seven miles. He became insensible at the height of six miles, and his companion, who was so nearly frozen as to have lost the use of his limbs, was obliged to pull the rope of the safety valve with his teeth to descend.

We expected that the Oregonian would give us the "I told you so" with variations, but in yesterday's issue it sort of rubs it in. Let up! What's the use of telling what everyone knows. There were several hundred thousand in the same way of thinking. The fight is over. What's the use of holding a post mortem examination. Where is the Republican who is sorry that he voted for James G. Blaine?

GREAT preparations are being made in Denmark and Norway to celebrate the bi-centenary of the birth of Ludvig Holberg, the father of the Danish stage on December 3d.

It will soothe the sorrow of defeated candidates next week to know that work has been resumed on the Washington monument.

MAYOR BARTLETT, of San Francisco who was re-elected last Tuesday, started the first daily paper in California in 1850.

THE ratio of representation in the house of representatives is one to 154,325.

DURING October 1,500 immigrants arrived in Oregon from the east.
