It says the losses it has suffered through the withdrawal of the independents have been made up by necessions of trishmen and workingmen, who went over from the Democrats in large numbers. There never before was a party which gained at once such a large body of earnest and valuable material from the very bone and sinew of the country. While there is no sense in the idea that either of the two parties is going to be broken up at present, the Republicans are, politically, in much better condition of the two. They are a compact umon; there is no difference of opinion, or of purpose among those the discordant discordant discords in the count of out of it 1800 of these ballots scattered through the returns. ors, by going a step further than the statutes in dealing with imperfect ballots make it tolerably certain that a compar-atively large number of Republican balare a compact union; there is no difference of opinion, or of purpose among them; the discordant elements have gone out, and the army which remains is peerless for steadiness, and was disciplined by the defeat of last week rather than destroyed by it. Considered merely as a political organization, the Republican party is in good fighting order.

HOW ARMY OFFICERS FEEL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12,-"It has been my constant political prayer since the that electron'should be close," said an eminent army officer. "At the time of the Hayes-Tilden election a political war was imminent. We expected that the troops would be called out any minute, not in the interest of anyone particularly, but to preserve order. The troops were not ordered out, but they were in readiness and held back. Every man who had a command was given to understand that he had better be ready to expect the command was given to understand that he had better be ready to answer the first summons. Yesterday I was greatly in fear that the country would be in similar danger, for the incendiary stand taken by some of the leading journals of both parties boded no good. To-day, however, I feel better. It looks as if the election could be settled beyond question If Cleveland is elected, the Republican party will see that he is inaugurated on the 4th of March. The vague talk that I have heard about calling out the malitia to enforce the claims of a party is preposto enforce the claims of a party is prepos-terous and ridiculous. Such a thing would not be thought of seriously for an instant. The military could not be used in maintaining peace." Other army officers and prominent officials of the War Department expressed similar opinic
