From April 1st to date, 1884, there were shipped from the Columbia river 559,919 cases of salmon.

Prof. D. Van Horn, the celebrated piano tuner, is in the city, and has his headquarters at the Occident.

They say "soap" at Blaine as much as they want, but there's one thing certain, he came out of hot water with clean hands.

Let the American eagle stretch his wings over all, Republicans and Democrats alike. After all it is with him a mere matter of religion.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Astoria Land and Building Association will be held at Capt. Flavel's office on December 17.

The workmen on the Astoria street railway are counting eastward. They now have the track ready for the rails as far east as John McHague's residence.

Rev. J. C. Hogan of Portland will preach in the Scandinavian language, in the M. E. church of this city on tomorrow evening, 20th inst. at 7:30.

Democratic celebration at Portland tonight. The Fleetwood leaves at 6 this morning. Will take you there and back for $2.50. Tickets good till Sunday.

The campaign lies—equivocations are not over yet. Now comes the man who tells you how much he won, and the other chap who tells you how much he lost.

The fine people in Columbus, Ohio, for making profane language, and when the New York returns were delayed the Columbus police court took in $1,200 in twenty-four hours.

The Upper Astoria property, comprising lots 5, 6 and 7, in block 6, Adair's Astoria, was sold yesterday at auction by E. C. Holden. Mr. Rogers was the purchaser, paying $1,000 therefor.

Burglaries are getting so common in Portland that the News advises citizens who have false teeth to keep their mouths closed while asleep, lest some burglar come and carry off their mastoidites.

It's all well enough to pay your bet and so on, but when the chap that you come around and shows you how nice the hat fits, and what a fine aroma those cigars have, you feel as though he were sort of rubbing it in, as it were.

A good many journals throughout the state are amusing themselves with prophecies as to who will get the Federal appointments in their respective localities. The office of postmaster seems to be the main and in some instances the only prize.

It is noticeable in walking through the city that in all parts there are new buildings going up and improvements being made. This is noticed by strangers and visitors who say that in no part of this northwest coast have they seen so much building going on as in Astoria.

The Queen sails to-day. The Havoc, Bessie Marikhan and Golden Gate sailed yesterday. The C. S. Bennett sails to-day. The Falstaff sails yesterday, and the ancient Woodfield is finishing at the O. R. & N. dock. The City of Athens still abides.

The new building for school district No. 18, is becoming a prominent feature in that part of the city. This was when Astoria's school buildings were not what they should be, but that era has passed and our city is now second to none in the northwest for commodious school buildings.

From the Oregonian it is learned that upon her next trip to San Francisco, the State of California will lay off for repairs. The Oregon by that time will be through with her overhauling, and will resume her place on the route. The Queen of the Pacific stays on the route until the State takes her place.

Note the advertisement of the lectures of the Rev. Jos. Cook. He is a man who needs little praise. In the critical city of Boston he weekly talks to crowded audiences, and his appearance in this city is a literary event. The price of admission is remarkably low and Liberty Hall will be filled to hear the eminent divine.

The American Bark Western Belle, 1084, Bray master, arrived in port yesterday from Nagasaki. Her mainmast is broken off and she exhibits other signs of hard usage. She was caught in the outer rim of a cyclone and her crew are congratulating themselves that it was no worse.

The force of the typhoon or cyclone, or zephyr, or whatever you have a mind to call it can be judged from the fact that a steamship that happened to be a little nearer the center than the Western Belle, though having four anchors out and with a full head of steam on was sent broadside on shore by the force of the breeze that blows on the Japan coast.

The rule governing undelivered letters sent from hotels has been heretofore to send them to the dead letter office, regardless of the printed request to return to the hotel. The rule was last Monday amended by Postmaster-General Hutton, as follows: "Undelivered letters enclosed in envelopes upon which hotel cards are printed, should not be returned to the mailing office unless such envelopes have been written or printed thereon the words 'Return to,' in addition to the hotel card. Proprietors of hotels should omit the usual return request from envelopes supplied their guests, and guests using such envelopes should be careful to designate what disposition should be made of letters sent by them in case they cannot be delivered.

Attention Firemen! The Chief Engineer and Assistant Engineers being absent from the city several days, the Mayor, Committee on Fire and Water, and Chief Engineer hereby appoint ex-Chief Engineer F. I. Hicks to officiate in the capacity of Chief Engineer of the Astoria Fire Department during their absence.

J. G. CHARTERS, Mayor. Chief Engineer A. F. D.

Attention Astor Lodge No. 6, K. of P. Nomination of officers at next convention, Wednesday November 19th. A full attendance is desired.

POLITICAL NEWS.

By Telegraph From the East.

Echoes of the Presidential Election.

CHAIRMAN JONES INTERVIEWED. CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The Inter-Ocean's New York special says: It is not likely that the national committee will remain in New York more than a few days longer now. Chairman Jones, the Iowa member, left for home on Tuesday morning. Treasurer Weeks has gone back to Pittsburgh, and Chairman Jones will leave for the same city Wednesday night, as soon as the official vote is declared from Albany. Mr. Jones said last night: "I don't see that there is much to add to what you have already had from me. If we had been able to have gone back to actual frauds perpetrated at the polls I believe we would have carried the state by a handsome plurality."

"When did you discover that this could not be done?" "Only on Monday last, after our last address had been issued. There has been a good deal said about that address, but everything was said and done in the best of faith, on the representation of responsible men from all parts of the state. As soon as we found that the actual ballots in the state had been, by law, destroyed, and nothing remained but the returns of election officers, we were convinced that nothing but the most flagrant frauds could induce the canvassers to go behind the returns. These did not transpire, and the result you know."

A TARIFF REFORMER SPEAKS. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—J. S. Moore, a well known writer on the tariff, says in the Times this morning: "The defeat of Blaine emphatically proclaims to the high tariff oligarchy that Great Pan is dead. To make any meaning perfectly clear, I will say, the chances of higher duties on foreign commodities died on the 4th of November, and the chances for tariff reform have, from that date, taken a new and favorable departure. What tariff reform now aims at is to free raw material, largely reduce taxes on the necessities of life, and to cause a reduction of 20 to 40 per cent. in the tax on certain foreign manufactured goods. We advocate a higher rate of duty, I should say the present one, on wine, spirits, tobacco, cigars, and perfumery."

A FRANK CONGRATULATION. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—George Mott, postmaster at Pearsall's, L. I., has written the following letter to Cleveland: "I desire to congratulate you although I voted against you. I hold the position of postmaster at Pearsall's, Queens county, N. Y., and my place is ready for my successor; to the victors belong the spoils. I hope you will turn the reins over, and if there have been any faults committed go for them. Be president of the nation. God help you to do right."

CONKLING'S LITTLE SENATORIAL BOOM. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The World continues its efforts to make Conkling senator, declaring that all the Democrats will vote for him and also such independent candidates as were elected by Republicans. This is reproduced by several of the state papers, but all Democratic. No man is so utterly despised by Republicans in the state as Conkling, as he himself deflected Blaine in Oregon county. It would be political suicide for any Republican to vote for him.

IN INDIANA. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Times' Indianapolis special says: "The next legislative session has a Democratic majority of forty on joint ballot. The majority is large enough to almost certainly block internal amendments, and upon no other question is there likely to be more variance than upon the return of Voorhees to the senate. The total vote of the state in the last election was 491,941. For governor, Gray received 248,810 and Calkins 237,748."

THE STATE BOARD OF CANTYASSES. ALBANY, Nov. 17.—The state board of cantyasses met at the capitol Wednesday. Official returns have been received from forty of the sixty counties of the state, and the board will probably take a rest for a day, in order to allow further returns to be received before proceeding with the canvass.

HENDRICKS SAYS "YES ENOUGH." SHELLEVILLE, Ind., Nov. 17.—When the news of the result of the official count of New York reached here Saturday night a reporter inquired of Hendricks concerning the fact to Hendricks. When told the result Hendricks beamed with smiles and said: "I am glad it is over; 1,147 is rather too close to be comfortable, but it is enough."

PLENTY OF COMFORTERS. ALBANY, Nov. 17.—President-elect Cleveland's callers to-day were numerous. There was a constant stream in and out of the executive chamber all day. The governor was accessible to most callers until late in the afternoon, when he retired to his private study for consultation with his political friends.

HARD TIMES IN CONNECTICUT. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A special from New Haven says: General complaint of dullness is made by ironmongers up the Connecticut valley and all through Connecticut. Now one can see employees going home from shops between 4 and 5 o'clock, instead of pouring out of the mills in droves at 6 o'clock, as when good times prevailed. In some of the factories the wages and hours of labor have been reduced, and in others men in service ten years or more have been discharged, Republicans and Democrats being treated just alike.

MORE WORKMEN DISCHARGED. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Three thousand five hundred employes in the Singer sewing machine works, in Elizabethport, New Jersey, were alarmed last Saturday by the announcement of the discharge of six hundred of their number and that five hundred more would be discharged this week. The reason given is that the company is about to stop manufacturing "old family" machines. In addition to this, southern, western and European orders are slack.

Removal. Mrs. A. B. Jewett has removed to rooms 3 and 4, Odd Fellows Building. Dresses cut, made and fitted in the most fashionable style.

Stop That Cough. By going to E. Thomas' and getting a bottle of Leroy's Cough Balsam. It will cure you.

THE SCHOOL BOOK QUESTION.

ED. ASTORIAN: As the time draws near when the county school superintendents may, according to the provisions of the school law, make such changes in the text books used in the public schools as may seem expedient, the people become greatly agitated and one would think to hear many of them talk on the subject, as well as from the tone of some of the articles published in the papers, that there was some great calamity impending; that every one who had children who attend the schools was going to be impoverished by the changes about to be made. It does not matter whether the books in use are good, bad or indifferent, or how long they have been in use, or whether the change refers only to grammars, or geographies, or readers, or to the whole system, these people take the ground that any change is and always will be unwise, unnecessary and expensive. I am aware that there is a pressure brought to bear by the publishing companies, who naturally urge the merits of their books, and that there is some danger of making unnecessary changes, but when we remember that these changes, if made, must be by a majority of all the county superintendents of the state and not by any one or two or three individuals; and that these superintendents are as desirous of pleasing their constituents, and of discharging their duty faithfully as any other officials, and that no change is liable to be made unless there is a demand for it by the teachers generally, I think there is no cause for such widespread alarm as seems to prevail. I remember that when the Independent series of readers were adopted in place of the old Pacific Coast series there was the same cry about the expense and all that, but I know that the change was made in accordance with a general demand of the teachers throughout the state. I am aware that if this business was left with the citizens generally, or even with the fathers of families, there would not be any changes very frequently; but do not consider the average citizen or head of a family as competent to judge of the matter; or, if competent, how many take the trouble to investigate? How many even visit the public schools once a year or examine the books used? Very few, indeed. Therefore I say the teachers and superintendents are the only ones competent to say when a change is advisable. The superintendent should be familiar enough with the teachers and schools at any time, and on the eve of any proposed change should take particular pains to ascertain the views of the teachers, so as not to make any changes which are not demanded, or at least approved of by the great majority of teachers.

I think that in some branches of study the text books need not be changed. For instance, we have our arithmetic, geometry and I cannot see what benefit would be derived from any change in that branch. Readers and geographies should, perhaps, be changed more frequently. In readers you want something to interest as well as instruct, and, although the series now in use is very good, I do not know as it is good policy to use the same one year after another. The grammars now in use I know there is considerable difference of opinion. Many teachers have never liked Clark's grammar, although it has been in use a long time in this state. Still, it is a little work, although very good in its way, is not considered sufficient to answer all the requirements in that branch.

I do not write this for the purpose of advocating any particular changes at this time, but would like to see the subject discussed in a reasonable way. I have been sending children to school for a number of years, and have four attending now, and of course do not wish to incur any unnecessary expense, but I think this universal growl at any suggestion of change is unreasonable. And I consider that the changes made during the past few or eight years have been comparatively few, and have been generally beneficial.

The actual cost incurred in making any change is not so easily figured out. It is something like the tariff question—there is a charge for considerable argument both ways.

PRESIDENTIAL MEMORIES.

George Washington, the first among his mates, Presided over these United States. John Adams next attained this lofty fame. And after him great Thomas Jefferson came. Succeeding him, James Madison arose, and James Monroe, with few, if any foes. John Quincy Adams next controlled the reins. And then old Andrew Jackson showed his brains. After eight years Van Buren took his place. Then Harrison, who lived but a brief space. John Tyler filled the unexpired term, and then came James K. Polk, just in his prime. Zach. Taylor next proceeded to the fore, but in some sixteen months his life was o'er; His term unfinished Millard Fillmore served; Then Franklin Pierce, who ne'er from duty swerved. Buchanan next responded to the call; And then came Lincoln, noblest of them all. All Nations viewed from far his grand behavior, And, dying, he was called the country's savior. To take his place A. Johnson now was elected. Who oft was wont to "to swing the circle round." Ulysses Grant next came upon the field, and after eight long years was loth to yield. But having had his share of worthy praise, At last he gave his place to R. B. Hayes. Brave Garfield then, the assassin's bullet slew. He rivaled Lincoln as a martyr true. Of White House honors Arthur's now possessor, Till Grover Cleveland rules as his successor!

Rev. Jos. Cook's Lectures.

ED. ASTORIAN: It affords me great pleasure to learn that Rev. Jos. Cook, of Boston, is to lecture in this city, on the evenings of the 20th and 27th of this month, on "Ultimate America," and "The Seven modern wonders of the world." A fortnight ago I took the pains to go to Portland on purpose to hear these two lectures, and if possible to secure for our citizens the rich treat of hearing this celebrated lecturer. There is an inspiration in great thoughts, especially if they are fresh and timely, and strongly presented. These are not religious lectures, properly so called, in any sense, but deal rather in the facts and philosophy of current history, together with questions of political economy and moral science; just such questions as the average American citizen wants to hear.

The speaker is an independent thinker; puts his ideas strongly; takes time enough to deal justly with his theme; and what with the by-play of real oratory, brilliant, unadorned, and thoughtful, will both interest and instruct his hearers. I am solicited that the first lecture shall be heard. The second will take care of itself. Wm. Roberts. 18th November, 1884.
