

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1884. ISSUED EVERY MORNING. (Monday excepted) J. F. HALLORAN & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS, ASTORIA BUILDING, - CASS STREET.

Terms of Subscription: Sent by Carrier, per week 15cts. Sent by Mail, per month 45cts. One year $5.00. Free of postage to subscribers.

Notice to Advertisers: THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

To-night: Olympic social. Game of all kinds is plenty. Coal oil and gas bills grow as the days shorten. Building goes on all over the city, with uninterrupted activity.

The Queen of the Pacific and C. S. Bennett crossed over yesterday. Interior papers are discussing the repeal of the mortgage tax law.

The steamer Wildwood has gone from Shoalwater bay to Seattle to arrange a Sound route. P. W. Hardenberg, who died suddenly in Portland last Monday, leaves $150,000 worth of property to relatives in the east.

Next in order is the venerable joke concerning Thanksgiving turkey, and then the turkey himself or herself as the case may be. The defeat of Blaine is cited as another instance of the apparent law that no United States senator can be elected president.

Arrangements, legal and mechanical have been made that will admit of launching the Aberdeen at high tide this afternoon. The Yazoo, Miss. Herald of the 7th inst. is to hand, with election returns from Yazoo. Yazoo City cast 1,330 votes, as follows: Cleveland, 1,324; Blaine, 6.

George Barine is the name signed on the forced check passed on Emmental in his clothing store last Sunday. It is thought that the rascal got away to San Francisco. Capt. Gage, well known as master of the coasting steamer Beda, has been appointed to the command of the Alca, which is to run hereafter on the northern coast route.

Again comes flying a little bird with tidings that the Astoria railroad is being talked of. London and San Francisco is where the money is to come from, and from New York come the men. We would suggest as new headlines to replace "Births," "Deaths," "Arrivals," "Departments," "Departures," "Somerville Journal," How would this do: "Yells," "Bells," "Knells"?

The Olympic gymnasium club will have a social at their rooms this evening. Numerous invitations have been issued and the event is looked forward to by many with pleasing anticipations. The subscribers to both of Jos. Cook's lectures will have the opportunity of hearing them for $1.50, which is unusually low when the intellectual ability of the lecturer is taken into consideration.

Salmon shipments from Astoria over the N. P. R. E. eastward from April 1st to November 1st, are as follows: During April, 1,043 cases; May, 11,942; June, 11,940; July, 18,738; August, 41,416; September, 31,289; October, 25,519; total, 160,807. Shipments for time specified, 142,117 cases.

It is reported that there is an effort about to be made by certain interested parties to have the land office moved from Oregon City to Astoria, it being claimed that a little public land remains to be taken up in that vicinity, and so much in Columbia, Clatsop and Tillamook that the change would be a justifiable one.

An item appeared in THE ASTORIAN last Tuesday relative to the manufacture of salmon cans the coming season in which the statement was made that steel would probably be employed. It is now learned that the Pacific can company will shortly begin making cans of steel, and so that steel on tin may not be such a bad bargain after all.

C. E. Van Horn, advance agent for the Rose Ettinge dramatic troupe, received a telegram yesterday to cancel dates in this city, as that lady had been taken suddenly ill in Salem. The troupe will now play in Portland before appearing here; tickets purchased for last evening's performance will be good for her first appearance in this city, which will be on Monday, December 1.

Mrs. Frieda Foard, wife of Martin Foard, of the firm of Foard & Stokes, died yesterday in San Francisco. The sad news of her death will be read with sincere regret by her many friends and acquaintances in this city. Deceased was in the 29th year of her age. For some time she had been ailing, and on the 3rd of last month, in company with her husband, she went to San Francisco in quest of relief. Her sister, Miss Hildebrand, was with her at the time of her death, and her other sister, Mrs. Brach, sailed for San Francisco on the Queen yesterday, too late to see her beloved sister in life.

President Elijah Smith of the Oregon and Transcontinental company expresses great confidence in the success of the scheme for paying the $8,000,000 loan on its maturity at the close of the year. Some of the large stockholders in New York have signified their willingness to take their share of the new loans. Boston holders of maturity notes to the extent of $200,000, have asked to be allowed to take the like amount of new notes if the shareholders should not subscribe for the whole amount. Smith thinks that it is too early after the mailing of the circular letters to expect replies from most of the stockholders.

There is one federal officer whose tenure will be fully as secure under Cleveland as under Blaine. This is Bell, of Iowa, supervising architect of the great city. During his brief incumbency Bell has made himself unpopular with the owners of the granite mines in Maine and Vermont. The grievance against Bell was his refusal to purchase granite of them to be used in the construction of public buildings. It is claimed that these New England quarrymen believed that Bell should be among the first officials to be removed after March 4th, and that another gentleman more favorable to their interest should be appointed in his stead. In furtherance of this plan the granite miners subscribed liberally to aid in carrying Maine for the Republican party in September.

Those interested in the Woman's Relief Corps Auxiliary to the G. A. R., says the Salem Statesman, will be pleased to learn that a provisional department has been formed in the state of Oregon. To present date there are sixteen regularly formed departments and three provisional, that of Oregon being the latest organized, and in eight other states and territories the order has, so far, flattering prospects. The officers of the provisional department are as follows: Mrs. Ida M. Babcock, president; Mrs. Agnes E. Dinuzone, secretary; Mrs. Emma Crawford, treasurer; Mrs. Clara Saunders, of Portland, inspector; Mrs. Hattie Cooper, of Astoria, Mrs. Eliza Calkin of Portland and Mrs. T. Thompson, of Salem, assistant inspectors. All correspondence regarding the object and aim of the order and of the formation of Corps will be addressed to the secretary. Headquarters of this department will be at Salem.

Just So. We are glad to see that Senator Dolph is forcing the investigation at Annapolis regarding the death of the Oregon ender Strang. From testimony at hand looks very much as if the poor boy had been virtually murdered by a lot of hard-hearted embryonic snobs, and we hope, if our impression be correct, that it will be seen that the guilty ones are punished for it. If the stult of which the future of the American navy is to be made is of the cowardly stripe now manifesting itself at Annapolis it would be better to do away with the academy at once and train our sailor dukes on ship board. No manly boy would take part in persecuting a friendless stranger to death, and of no other breed should our naval cadets be composed. The people of Oregon are justly indignant over the murder of their cadet, and the fact that he was almost bereft of relatives makes them all the more determined that the cruel persecutors shall be brought to justice.—Portland Welcome.

Wants to Know Who is the Right Bower. "Fashion" writes to THE ASTORIAN as follows: "Please state in case of a gentleman and lady meeting on the street, who bows first, the lady or the gentleman? and having once met is it necessary for him to bow should he meet the lady shortly afterward?"

Should the lady and gentleman be acquainted, custom gives the lady the preference of recognition and recognition, as she may select. Should she recognize his bow he is the right bower evidently. Otherwise he is as evidently the left bower.

Susan B. Anthony, in an interview last Tuesday, said of Belva Lockwood's candidacy: "There is a scrap of inside history regarding that nomination that hasn't got into the newspapers. It was represented that Mrs. Lockwood was nominated by the Women's Equal Rights party. There is no such party in existence. She was nominated by a Mrs. Stow, of California. It was a little freak of Mrs. Stow's. She nominated Mrs. Lockwood for president and got her to accept, and then put herself on the ticket for vice president. She planned and managed the Lockwood campaign. Mrs. Lockwood's candidity, no matter who or what brought it about, served one purpose—it served to educate the people up to the idea of considering candidates for high places of public trust."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The New House—A Six Year Presidential Term Demanded—Election Betting—Mrs. Logan's Home [From our Regular Correspondent.] WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1884. The new house will be composed of 182 Democrats and 142 Republicans, a gain to the Republicans of 24 members. It is generally remarked that the leaders in this present congress are mostly re-elected. Carlisle, Morrison, Randall, Cox, Springer, Townshend, Belmont, Reed and Daigly of Maine, Phelps, Bingham, Curtin, Bayne, Hiscock, and many other experienced men will be present in the next succeeding session. The policy of the free traders will likely be modified and it is very doubtful whether Carlisle will be speaker another term. It is more than probable that Randall will regain the speakership. Among the more notable persons defeated at this election who are now representatives, are Easton, of Connecticut, Horr, of Mich., Cannon, of Ill., Roscerens, Hurd, Kellogg, and those two great "tail twisters" of the British lion, Robinson and Finerty.

The serious difficulty which attends a presidential campaign in the way of unsetting business was never more apparent than in the late election. The American public seems peculiarly susceptible to sensations. The bitter contest just ended has been waged upon the assumption that a change of administration might bring upon our devoted heads all the evils possible to a government. The effect has been to make the people change their values, and to make the people close sided. The probability is that things would in any event move along about as usual, but the public has been alarmed by the local assertions of danger made by the politicians. The desire for a longer term for the presidency, and shorter campaigns, expressed by business men will be urged before congress with a view to making presidential elections at least six years apart. This will require a constitutional amendment but it may be effected before another general election.

One feature of the late election which will receive comment, is the universality of betting. In England the great Derby gives all classes an opportunity to risk a little money, once a year, on a bet. In the United States every one bets on the presidential election. Especially was this the case in Washington last week. Business was positively paralyzed during the long-continued doubt as to which of the candidates stood first. There was so much money tied up on wagers that there was little currency left for circulation, and trade was at a standstill.

The influx of visitors to the national capital within a few days succeeding the election has been remarkable. The hotels and boarding houses have filled up rapidly, and the society people are here in force. The disposition to make Washington a winter society resort seems to be increasing. Many wealthy people now spend two or three months here every winter, even though they claim no permanent residence and no fixed business here. They come for the excitement, for society, and to be chronicled among distinguished people at the capital.

The tide of people which rushes towards Florida and the south as cold weather sets in usually go by way of this city, and generally stay here a week or two, going and coming. These worshippers of the sun, or warm weather, are arriving now in considerable numbers.

In addition to the fashionable people, it is noticeable that the literary guild are also coming to Washington for the season. I refer especially to the writers of fiction, many of whom are now located for the winter.

I passed by the residence of Mrs. Gen. Logan a few days ago. General and Mrs. Logan have usually boarded at a fashionable boarding house, but this winter they will have a home in an old-fashioned, home-like mansion on Capitol hill.

The acquaintances of this couple are perhaps as numerous as those of any one in public life. Their hospitality is great, and Mrs. Logan stands second to none in point of social acquaintance. They entertain in the fashionable sense of the word, but their home will be one of the centers of sociability and political influence this winter. LEXOX.

His Success. Financially and socially are largely due to his excellent system. If the system were closed and feverish, no doubt he would fail as so many others do. But why not enjoy good health when one can please the palate at the same time? Strip of Fies is not only pleasant to the taste, it also cleanses the system thoroughly, yet painlessly; it is harmless in its nature, and strengthens the organs on which it acts so that regular habits may be formed, and the sufferer permanently restored to health and happiness.
