PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND IT.
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Times declares Blaine's address "the most bitter, mischievous, sectional speech that has been heard in the north for many a day. The anguish of defeat seems to have extinguished all the generous sentiment which he professed to have when he penned his letter of acceptance, or rather shows that the sentiment was pardoned in the hope of winning southern votes, and having failed in that he shows his real temper."
The World thinks it "was written before the idea occurred to him that he might, as a candidate for president, obtain a few votes in the southern states. He said nothing that Republican stamper and demagogue of the bloody-shirt school have not been saying for years. He may disturb and disquiet the poor negroes of the south, but the country will see in it only the cowardly rancor of a defeated candidate. It will devolve upon the Democratic administration of Cleveland to give the lie to Blaine and all his fellow slanderers."

THE "TRIBUNE."
The Tribune's Augusta special says: "The speech was received with great enthusiasm. Many said it sharply and ably outlined the future policy of the party, and that Blaine had struck the keynote under which the party will march to victory four years hence."
The Tribune's leader is in line with Blaine's address, without referring to it, advising the next senate to "The recent 'so-called' elections in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and North Carolina have resulted in choosing legislatures by which six Democratic senators will be elected. The people have a right to know whether these men have clear titles to make laws for us, as have six Democrats from northern states. It is the duty of the senate to know, before it admits these men to seats, whether they represent entirely the expressed will of the people, or, as many honestly and firmly believe, only an organized conspiracy to defy the United States laws, and to defeat self government."

THE "POST."
The Post after its usual invectives against Blaine, says: "His remarks are worthy of notice, mainly because they appeal to what is, perhaps, a most formidable prejudice among Republicans, with which friends of good government have of late years had to contend, and that by which Republican corruptionists have most profited. Two years hence even as brazen and unscrupulous a demagogue as Blaine will not venture to repeat the speech made at Augusta yesterday. It will by that time be seen that the system of slave labor, which was the only thing that separated southern from northern society, having long disappeared, the interests and aims of the two sections are rapidly to become identical. The only thing which now really differentiates them is the lower condition in point of intelligence of the bulk of the southern laboring population."

OTHER PAPERS.
This evening's Commercial greatly regrets the spirit and statements of Blaine's speech yesterday. "We do not intend at this time to discuss the details and figures presented, our purpose being to point out, with emphasis and regret, that Blaine's spirit is not the spirit of Grant at Appomattox. Patriotic southern Democrats have assured us, with the utmost solemnity, that however hard it might be to cope with some of the existing evils in the south, under previous circumstances, that they would and should melt like mist before a rising sun, after Democratic success in the presidential election."
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The Press comments as follows: "Blaine's trenchant, incisive speech is not the utterance of a man bowed down and broken with disaster, but the robust deliverance of a gallant chief, who rises from defeat with that elasticity and power which has marked his whole extraordinary career. No other man has begun to put the case so plainly or so strongly. His portrait of the triumph of the south and of the monstrous injustice which underlies it is startling in its vividness and truth."

Hendricks on Spoils.
PITTSBURG, Nov. 19.—Vice-President elect, Hendricks, in an interview here to-day, stated that he could not give any opinion as to the probabilities of a sweep in the federal offices, but Senator Voorhees, who is with him, scouted the idea of his going on a political mission to Mr. Cleveland in regard to the share of offices, which should be the apportionment of the Indiana democracy. They are both en route for Brooklyn.

Pleasant Words from Pleasant Grove.
The place is in Pennsylvania. Mr. Timothy Leek, who lives there was for two years grievously vexed with dyspepsia. He writes to say that since he has taken Brown's Iron Bitters his troubles are over. He is greatly relieved, and recommends this tonic to all who are troubled with dyspepsia or indigestion. It also cures liver and kidney complaints.

The Republican National Committee Said to Be Heavily in Debt.
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Sun says: There were rumors yesterday that the Republican national committee was heavily in debt, and has not a penny in the treasury to meet its obligations. It is said this money is due to many persons, and includes arrangements for rent, printing, music, uniforms, torches, banners and other paraphernalia of the campaign, and also includes money advanced by individuals for missionary work in the interior of the state. It is even said that the famous dinner at Delmonico's, like the famous Dorsey dinner in 1870, remains unpaid for.
Dwight Lawrence said: "There is no doubt that the national committee is swamped in debt, but I have no means of knowing that the sum is as large as $100,000, as reported. We have been beaten by two things—the Delmonico dinner and Burdard's foolish remark of 'Rum, Romanism and Rebellion.'"
Ex-Collector Thos. Murphy looked glum when the reporter met him. "We have," said he, "been beaten out of our boots, and old Burdard did it. Blaine told me that when Burdard made use of this expression there was a buzz of conversation in his ear, and he understood Burdard to refer to 'Rum, Romanism and rebellion.' He said that if he had heard the person aright, he would at once have disclaimed any reflection on the religious body, so we can see by what trifles even the presidency can be lost."

CHAIRMAN JONES MAKES A DENIAL.
PITTSBURG, Nov. 19.—Chairman Jones of the national Republican committee, arrived home to-night, and in an interview emphatically denied the reports of the committee's indebtedness. He says that before leaving New York last night he drew a check for every dollar owed by the committee. The Delmonico dinner was paid for by private individuals.

An Exciting Scene.
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A special from Provincetown, Massachusetts, says: For three days Cape Cod has been the scene of much excitement. Everybody big enough to handle a weapon has been killing black fish. The fish is of the whale family, from ten to twenty feet long, and is of a valuable school of fish first appeared Sunday, and yesterday were driven into Wellfleet harbor. The sight in the harbor at daybreak was wonderful. Further than the eye could reach the bay was full of fish. The great creatures, caught in an immense trap, were in a frenzy of excitement, rushing in all directions and lashing the water to spray. Then the great slaughter began in earnest. Everyone who could get afloat, and even those on shore took part. Many men used scythes, knives, picks, daggers and axes. Every now and then a frantic fish, wounded and desperate, flung itself on shore, only to be despatched by women and children on land. Nothing else was done on Cape Cod that day, and the work continued until afternoon, when it is supposed every fish was captured. Inevitably, from Dennis to Provincetown, was represented in the slaughter. The number killed is estimated at 1,500. The proceeds are to be divided into 5,000 shares, and the value will probably amount to $25,000. The fish are to be sold at public auction to-morrow.

Cleveland's Policy Outlined.
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A special from Albany says: The Argus leader, headed "The Kind of President He Will Make," is regarded in political circles as foreshadowing the leading qualities of Cleveland's administration, as he has impressed them upon Dan Manning. It says: "Wise forecasters can win money by betting that just what Grover Cleveland has been as governor, that is the kind of a man he will be as president. He has not been run by political cornucopians very much, and as president he will doubtless encounter more cornucopians, but that will only require him to be more Cleveland, and the Clevelandism in him will be equal to any emergency. The sooner politicians of the minor and traditional type understand that the wiser they will be. Politicians with any claim to be considered statesmen are aware of that fact already. A positive, industrious, frugal, reforming administration is certain. One prudent and purely American in his policy can be relied on, and one which will consult capacity, honesty and loyalty to the constitution in its selection of agents, can be confidently expected. We predict, in his administration, the preservation to the Democracy of all the magnificent reinforcements it has commanded, and further accession to its ranks of all patriotic men who reluctantly voted for Blaine."
