Perhaps a little hitherto unpub-history relative to this matter of aries. Perhaps a little hitherto unpulashed history relative to this matter of salaries is in order.

Six years is far enough back to go. The dust lies deep on former records. In 1878 the salary of the auditor and offer was fixed at $100 a month. It stand at that figure unto 1882 when it was reduced to $75. Last February it was raised again to $100 by a unanimous vote of the council—three Republicans and two Domocrats. In 1878 the salary of the police judge was fixed at $100 per acount; it was afterwards reduced to $30. During the present year it has been caused to $75 by a unsummous vote; three During the present year it has been caused to $75 by a unanimous vote; three deputitions and three Democratis—a ful, souncil board being present. In 1853 the salary of the city attorney was reised from $20 to $20 per month, by a unanimous vote, the council at the time the cause was made being five Republicans. aise was mide boing five Repaircans and one Danour.t.

For the first time in the history of this paper The Assoman publishes the politics of council members voting for a assure, for the sole reason of illustratand that neither side can make a cent's cilman can only hold office for one year worth of party capital out of anything or else disincorporate altogether, go on that has been done in the council in the of the business of being a city, and be gatter of raising salaries.

The whole question regarding salaries is one of co-momy. The Ascorias de-ines economy to be, simply, good manage ment. In our provide of siness if we find a man isn't worth what he asks we don't

Then comes the question of taxes. when the paying that the paying his taxes he if a san feit like paying his taxes he if if a san feit like paying his taxes he if if he did t feel like paying he didn't. It all depended on the way he feit about it. No one would more heartily received than the griter were this the raise. rejoice than the writer were this the raie. We sincerely wish that we could make it so, and if any of our friends or enemies whi start so h a scheme with any proba-bility of success we will hold his hat and

We have met men who thought spell-We have met men who thought spell-ing was a matter of private judgment; they spelled by ear, as it were, and no one made serious opposition, but it doesn't require very much argument to show that the payment of taxes cannot with safety belief to the opinion of the party taxed. If it could the men that wouldn't pay would be in a large major-ity.

The Astorian has no feeling in common with the class referred to. The best use a man can put himself to, who tries to so obstrict matters is to either get in debt, when he won't have to pay anything, or furnish material for a funeral. But every extrem, every taxpayer has a right to say how taxes shall be levied, and how the proceeds of the tax shall be expended. It is not only his right, it is his duty. If an 8 mill tax is enough to run this city. an 8 mili tax is enough to run this city, it is extravagance to levy a 12 mill tax. If a 12 mill tax is absolutely necessary,

And now a word about the city council and the same and disgrace await him, and the same and disgrace await him, and the same with which he is allied.

It is funny (when you look at the ridiculous side of it) to see how folks will same and "get mid" over a little matter sike the election of a councilman, especially when they have similingly stood the strain of a presidential campaign. But so it is. We have seen a man stand firm when in deadly danger and win admiration by his undaunted courage, and we have seen the same man raise particular andes and yell when we stepped on his corn. Some propie have their corns on their toes. Others have them elsewhere.

The first thing that comes up and which "far Asronian discussed as farnes. Perhaps a little hitherto unpublished history relative to this matter of shalarces is in order.

And now a word about the city council. If we had an enemy, or any one squainst whom we held a gradge, we would won the height council and try to get him in there. It would to the worst revenge we could have on him. No matter what way he acted he would eath it. If he did right, his motives would be misconstrued, his reputation assailed; if he did wrong he would be charged with all manner of naughty doings. And all this he would have heaped on him without getting a cent for it. Rveu a hangman is well paid, and can stand a certain amount of abase, but an Astoria councilman must bear the brunt of all that devillish malice or ingenious distertion of facts can be made appear to show, without the smallest compensation.

The men that are in the city council and try to get him in there. It would the world whoop him up for the city council and try to get him in there. It would the world whoop him up for the city council and try to get him in there. It would the world whoop him up for the city council and try to get him in there. It would the world whoop him up for the city council and try to get him in there. It would the world whoop him the world whom whe he he did gradge, we wall dwo wild whoop him up

A TALK ABOUT CITY MATTERS.

Human Nature and Cur Nature—The City Salaries—Economy, What is it—City Taxes, and lower taxes next year is by refaing to pay his taxre this year, we have no expument to make with him. It is not present and otherwise.

There has been a little bad blood stirred up during the last week by one or two who don't pay a cent of tures and who are only happy when annoying others. Devoid of character, ability or property they are for sale to anyone foolish, enough to be worried over their assimine and a bone to stop their sanriing.

Astoria is such a small community the harmony is absolutely necessary if we want to get along decently. Just what we are going to make by acting like the traditional Kilkenny cats is not apparent except to those who always profit by a row.

The ARTOREAN counsels introducy. If differences exist, fighting about them wou't dispose of them. out to sea, but there was a new spanker t, bend, a lot of forerigging to set up and so I listened to the advice of the mate and told the shipping master to bring the crew down. That's where I made my mistake—to put a crew on board alongside of a dock.

"Well, they turned to and cleared things up pretty fair that afternoon. I got my new spanker bent and some of the rigging tautened up, and as the men worked pretty well I knocked 'em of early, so as to give 'em a chance to clean the forecastle a bit and stow away their chests.

the forecaste a bit and stow away their chests.

"I liked the appearance of the men. There was a big Bussien-Finn, two Danes, and two Liverpool cockneys. I told the steward to feed 'em up pretty well until we dropped down the river. About 8 o'clock Thursday night I looked in the fo'castle to call one of 'em to take in the slack of a dock line. They were smoking and spinning yarns, and I turned in soon after, tunking that I had got a good quiet set of men.

"It must have been about 2 o'clock in the morning when I was aroused by a noise and the scuffling of feet on deck. I ran out and found the men throwing water on the big Russian-Finn. He caned against the forecastle house, pale is a ghost. I went up and looked at

"What's all this?" says I.

"That ere fo'castle is 'aunted,' says one of the Enghahmen.

"By this time the Russian-Finn was able to talk. He rested on the hatch combing and says:

"I sat up talking with my mates here inthe after 9 o'clock. Then, as they are turned in, I filled my pipe and took a turn on dack to get my smoke out. I expect I was on deck nearly an hour, for when I went in the forecastle everything was quiet. I had taken off my dus and says just going to turn in my bunk when feit a cold breeze blowing over me. I curned to look at the hatch, thinking I had left it open, but it was closed. Then I looked up to the further end of the forecastle and say that the sliding door eading into the chain lockers was wide open. I shut it, supposing one of my sates had been in there and forgot to close it. I turned in and fell asleep very soon.

"I must have been sleeping about an slose it. I turned in and fell asleep very soon.

"I must have been sleeping about an aour and a half, when I woke up with my sair on end. I felt drops of sweaton my face. A chilly draught still came from he direction of the chain lockers. The loor was wide open. As I put my legant of the bank to go and close it, I saw in arm, a woman's I will swear, stretched out of the gloom of the chain locker. It seemed to touch the deor, which closed thout a squeak. My hair stood up on my head like bristles. I rubbed my eye and jumped out of the bunk. I took sown the swinging lamp and trimmed it, nen I examined the locker door. It was felled, the book was shot into the socket.

f teach, the bolt was shot into the socket.

"I lit my sipe and sat on a chest binking about the matter. I decided that I had been having a dream, so It rid in again and soon dozed off.

"I couldn't sleep sound. It seemed to me that I could hear a woman's creams; then I heard laughter and sobutternately; then an awful shrick aronsed ne. Everything was quiet in the fraastle and a ship's bell struck midnight, dozed off again. Then the first thing knew I felt myself gasping in my seep. I woke up and put out my hands, i couldn't speak. Somebody had both their hands on my throat and I knew I was choking. I felt the fingers, but I couldn't touch anybody. I was paralyzed, i felt I was suffocating, when I managed to sing out for help and the fellow-iumped out of their bunks and dragged me on deck.

"I couldn't help laughing at the fright of the man" said the captain, "and I was just going to open on 'em for raising such a muss because a man had the nightm r, when the cockney sang on', 'Look at the Finn's throat!'

"The man's shirt-bosom was opened and there were five purplish spots on each side the neck.

"It made me feel queer, I confess.

"Not one of 'em would go into the forecastle that night' They sat up in the galley until daylight, and when I turned out at 7 o'clock every mother's son of 'em had their chests on the dock.

"I tried to ship another crew on Friday, But these fellows gave it out in the boarding houses that the brig was haunted, and I couldn't get a man. I sent to New York for a crew yesterlay, and as soon as they put their feet on deck out to sea I go, ghost or no ghost."

"But what is your opinion, Captain?"

"I give it up," said the oid mariner, as he lit a fresh cigar. "Strange things happen aboard ship s metimes."
