A MAN WHO IS TO HAVE A MONUMENT.
There is now and then a complain in this country that its history is dry and uninteresting, that it lacks the romance of Europe, Greece and Rome and other nations with antiquity behind them. But this is due probably rather to the want of perspective and atmosphere than to a lack of romantic incidents. When the national past become more and more with age, the poets, the novelists and the historians of that future day will probably find themselves as worthy of their pirations as are the wars and crimes of the Crusades; the age of chivalry and the Crusades; the pranks of Robin Hood; the touching story of Mary, Queen of Scots; the greatness of Alfred the Great; or the grandeur of the First Napoleon.

His Recipe.
The old adage, "Hunger makes the best sauce," was amusingly illustrated, some years ago, at a dinner party in Philadelphia, given by Commodore Bainbridge. Among the guests was Silas Dismoor, who had been United States agent among the Cherokee Indians.
The conversation drifted upon the merits of the different brands of ham, and Mr. Dismoor remarked: "I do not think the quality of a ham depends so much on the brand as on the cooking."
"Well, sir, be good enough to give me a recipe for cooking a ham," said Mrs. Bainbridge, a lady famous for her culinary skill.
"Take a ham of any of the approved brands," said the guest, bowing to the hostess, "wash it clean, put it in a pot and cover with cold water, place it over a fire and bring it nearly to the boiling point; keep it there until thoroughly tender, and let it boil rapidly a few minutes. Then take it off the fire, wrap it in a coarse cloth, place it in a knapsack, bind the knapsack upon your shoulder, then march twenty-five miles through the woods, taking a bee-line over logs and brush-piles, and you will find the ham possessed of a most excellent flavor."
There was silence for a moment after the guest had given his recipe. There was a burst of laughter, as all saw what it was that gave the ham its appetizing flavor.

Hard Times.
The hard times in California are deepening into distress. Scarcely a business house in San Francisco is making money and many are actually falling behind. Even the railroad company, which usually prospers whether or not the country suffers, is said to be losing thousands of dollars every month. They have taken off half of their freight trains, and those still on are running light, or nearly empty. Within the past six weeks 1500 men have been dismissed from the offices and shops at Sacramento, 200 from the offices and yards in San Francisco, and 900 from the operating department on various divisions. The officers say simply that the men are not needed. The cities are full of unemployed men. The demand for work on the street car lines illustrates the eagerness for employment. This work is hard, its hours are long, and it is wretchedly paid. It is the common resource of men "flat broke," and is renounced as soon as possible. Usually there is no difficulty about getting a place. The managers of the Market street cable line reports that he had over 1,000 applications during the past month. Along the docks there are crowds of men, looking for chance jobs. The various places, which employ women are equally persecuted by applicants, even for the poorest paid work.

Exposing a Hoax.
It was in San Francisco. She was playing ghost, and somebody grabbed part of her ghostly garments as she was gliding out of the cabinet. She screamed and cried out that it wasn't fair. One of the beauties of Brown's Iron Bitters is that its beneficent work is all fair and square. People may investigate all they please; and the more they investigate, the more they see what wonders this famous tonic has accomplished. Mrs. Eliza Crossley, 681 Sixth Street, Harrisburg, Pa., writes: "I found speedy relief from bad blood and indigestion by using Brown's Iron Bitters."

Holiday Announcement
FROM THE
New York Novelty Store
TO THE PEOPLE OF ASTORIA AND VICINITY

Owing to the unprecedented rush of business at our Store, we find it simply impossible to write a proper advertisement enumerating the various Novelties in the line of HOLIDAY GOODS we have on hand, all of which are being rapidly disposed of and selected from. The public evidently know where to get the BEST ARTICLES for the LEAST MONEY. It is a well-known fact that we undersell any establishment in Astoria; as our expenses are lighter than those of any other store in town.

We adhere strictly to our ONE PRICE SYSTEM, all our goods being marked in plain figures, and we will not ask you $10.00 for an article and afterward sell it to you for One Dollar, (as is frequently done elsewhere in Astoria.)
Bear in mind also, that we are the LEADING NEWS DEALERS of Astoria.
Call, examine our Goods and Prices and be convinced of the Truth of What We Say.
