Wow!
 Where are the roses that bloom in the open air?

Produce those berries that are ripening in the golden December sunshine.

The government sale at Fort Stevens has been postponed until finer weather.

The Werra cleared for Liverpool yesterday with 14,743 lbs flour, worth $61-60.

Astoria Division No. One. Uniform Rank, K. of P., will have a Christmas ball next Thursday evening at Occidental hall.

THE WEEKLY ASTORIAN, in stamped wrappers, ready for mailing, published this morning; full of news and home happenings; price ten cents.

The days are at their shortest; to-day and to-morrow being of equal length, and the shortest days in the year; the sun rising at 7:35 and setting at 4:18.

It is thought the Grimes-Davis theatrical combination may appear here next week. There hasn't been much money in theatrical performances here so far this season.

The Queen took a lot of stove bolts yesterday morning and went to the saloon on about 11:30, and the odds and ends all shipped away, the big O. R. & N. dock looks very lonesome inside.

Men who have been here since eighteen hundred and ever so few say that this is the worst winter they have ever seen in Astoria. This weather puts us in mind of the year the bar froze over. That was a terrible winter.

The Santa Rosa, Cal., Democrat says a justice of the peace in that town had two lawyers arguing a case before him. To get out of the dilemma, he determined to put the lawyers under oath as to the correctness of their interpretations of the law. One took the oath readily, but the other demurred and lost his case.

Hogs, alive and dressed, are going into market in large quantities, principally from the southern and eastern portions of the state, and as a natural consequence prices are weakening. In Portland dressed hogs now bring from 4 1/2 to 6 cents. Few farmers throughout the Willamette valley have disposed of their hogs yet at the low price of wheat increases them to feed their hogs as long as they can and make them as heavy as possible. At the low prices ruling for pork, hogs raising is moderately remunerative, owing to cheap feed. Cans of flour, cheap potatoes, cheap lard, bacon and hams, although unpleasing to the farmer, are very pleasant for the consumer these hard times.

An examination of the tidal sheet from the self-registering tide gauge of the United States coast survey at San Clemente, California, clearly shows the record of a series of earthquake waves that entered the Golden Gate on the 12th of last November. They commenced at 5 o'clock on the morning and ended at 11. There are nine well-marked crests in two and a half hours, or only seventeen minutes apart. They are only two or three inches in height, but maintain the characteristic earthquake feature in plain contrast with the breaking but markings which are very sharp and frequent. It would appear from the height and length of the wave and its short variations that this submarine earthquake took place near our coast and I was not violent.

HOWGATE HEARD FROM.
 It appears that the defaulting Signal Corps officer, Captain H. W. Howgate, has been in correspondence with Lieutenant Greely at Washington for some months. Greely, when asked about it, reluctantly admitted it, but said he had turned all of Howgate's letters over to the war department. Several of them, he says, were requests for loans of money. The letter indicated that Howgate is in Nebraska. It is said that Howgate has written the preface for the book recently written by Greely on his Arctic experiences, which is soon to be issued. Though Howgate is a defaulter for over $200,000, no particular pains seem to have been taken to discover him. He has, it is said, been in constant correspondence with officers of the Signal Corps since his escape from the jail guards here. There is a theory at the national capital that if he was tried it would show such looseness in the financial matters of the Signal Corps that it might lead to the abolition of the entire corps by congress.

ANOTHER VERSION.
 Lieutenant Greely, the Arctic voyager, recently received a letter from Captain Howgate, the fugitive signal service officer, asking for a loan of money. The letter came to Greely through a daughter of Howgate, who resides in Cleveland, Howgate did not give his address. Greely replied through Howgate's daughter, saying he had not the money to spare. The letter itself is in possession of a private drawer of his office in the Signal Service Bureau. On Wednesday he received an anonymous communication, stating that his private drawer had been opened and some of his private papers copied, among others the letter from Howgate. On the receipt of this communication he laid the matter before Secretary Lincoln, and two detectives and an officer of the Signal Service Corps were sent to Nebraska, where it is thought Howgate is, to arrest him.

THE WEATHER HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

The snow and sleet of the early part of the week was bad enough, but yesterday morning came a cold driving rain that made a mess of everything. All day yesterday it poured down and rendered outdoor life intensely disagreeable. Generally a day's rain in Astoria means no more than wet sidewalks and streets from which the water drains off almost as fast as it falls, but this time four inches of spongy snow held every drop that fell and flooded streets and sewers.

Navigation of all kinds is at a standstill and we are temporarily in the same fix as dwellers on an island. The Queen smashed her way through the ice last Wednesday, and after lying here all night—for since the pilots' wages have been reduced it is very foggy on the bar and river—she started to sea yesterday morning. Whether she got out or not is one of those things no one knows, for the line to the cape is down. The Fleetwood started up on time yesterday morning, but got no farther than Kalama, where she was last accounts. The Thompson also started yesterday morning, but no boat came down, and as the line is down between here and Portland we are in a state of delightful uncertainty regarding all matters.

A passenger who came down on the Queen told an Astorian reporter that the gas holder belonging to the Portland gas works had blown over, and the city was depending on candles and coal oil; that the water pipes were all frozen up and there was sore trouble on that account; that there was eight inches of snow in the streets and signs of more up above; that the Oregonian press had broken down last night and there had been no edition of that paper.

In this city we are fortunate enough to have plenty of good gaslight, and the water supply is better than heretofore in cold snaps. The loss of mail and telegraph facilities is pretty rough on business men, but we'll have to get used to it. The telephone business seems to be a total wreck. The wires ice-coated and pendant are hanging in festoons from buildings in every direction and leave an added picturesqueness to the scene. From the baby's nose to the loftiest fire bang lines, and considerable damage to fruit trees that have fallen from the weight of ice on their limbs, is reported. In several instances goods have been damaged by leaking roofs, and on the hillside considerable inconvenience has been occasioned by the storm.

The electric fire alarm is out of service and Chief Engineer Charters requests it said that in case of a fire not to depend on it to turn in an alarm but to see that the bell in the bell tower is rung at once. In case of a fire while the streets are in their present horrible condition it would be impossible to pull an engine to the fire, which is an additional reason for being extremely careful about fire. There was some attempt made yesterday afternoon to get two teams of horses in readiness that should a fire break out they could be immediately put to use, but as $12 a day was the lowest procurable price it was thought best to let the idea go. We must be economical, you know, even if the town should burn down.

As compared with the presidential vote of 1880, Texas shows an increase of 85,268 votes.

After January 1st the Republicans will have sixteen governors of states, a gain of two, and nineteen state legislatures, a gain of four.

Washington territory has doubled its vote in two years. The total at the recent election was 41,841; two years ago, 19,688. Over 10,000 votes were cast by women.

In order to promote every body in Texas the Democrats have a plan on foot to put Senator Coke in the cabinet, make Gov. Ireland senator, Lieut. Gov. Gibbs governor, and so on down to the janitor.

The New York Star seasonally reflects that Ben Butler may not be elected, but that it is a tremendous pity that he could not have been secured as an earnest supporter of the Democratic platform and ticket.

Judge David Davis, brought again to the surface by the evenly balanced political condition of the Illinois legislature, is circulating freely among the politicians. Aged, rich, corpulent and only recently a brigadier, he is still said to thirst for official power.

It is curious to note how nearly "neck and neck" St. John and Butler run, in the popular vote. Butler had in the aggregate 131,721 votes and St. John 131,151, giving Butler a lead of 570. If Butler is credited, however, with his share of the fusion forces in Iowa, Nebraska, Michigan, Missouri and West Virginia, his total vote is 254,275.

A NOTHER'S DEARD.

The Wonderful Historic Development of a Famous Child Actress.

Chicago World.

The New York public was surprised a few years ago at the arrest, at the instigation of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of little Corinne, the child actress. The little girl, less than eight years old, was taken from her parents and kept in confinement until released by order of the Court and Mayor of the city. Mrs. Jennie Kimball, the mother of Corinne, who has been known to the public for many years as vocalist and comedienne, has devoted the greatest care to the training and education of Corinne, and the result is a development of natural faculties rarely phenomenal.

"When did you discover Corinne's remarkable talent?" was asked of Mrs. Kimball.

"I can hardly remember the time when her eyes would not sparkle at the sound of music; she began to sing before she could talk. Before she was four years old she created a sensation and received the prize of a gold chain and locket studded with diamonds, at the National baby show in Boston. Next she sang in a concert given by Brown's Brigade Band, and in 1878 made her debut as Little Buttercup in the juvenile Plymouth company. Since then she has sung in opera and played various roles nearly everywhere."

Mrs. Kimball is a lady of fine presence, and when playing at the Boston Museum, was herself known as "Little Jennie Kimball."

"What has become of the little lady?" asked the reporter.

"She has given place to the person you see before you. Like so many others I have grown somewhat fat. Indeed I assumed such proportions that I began to fear for my health. Why, at times I would have the most suffocating sensation in my heart; then again my head would be attacked and I have frequently fallen to the floor in a dead fainting fit. I consulted several eminent physicians and they told me I must abandon the stage if I expected or hoped to live. This I believe, I am devoted to my profession and also to the development of Corinne."

"And yet you appear perfectly strong?"

"And so I am. Why, I have reduced my weight twenty pounds within three months, and I never felt better in my life. If any who are troubled as I was, questions this, let them try Warner's safe cure, the remedy I used, and they will, I am sure, be speedily convinced of its truth. I believe it is the best medicine in the world, and the number of my friends to whom I have recommended it have found it as beneficial as it has been to me."

"Is Corinne's health good?"

"Perfect. The child has so much life and vivacity she is overflowing with it, on and off the stage."

The only previous instance of such remarkable precocity which history chronicles is that of the famous Paganini, who first appeared in "The Beggar's Opera," when but a little older than Corinne.

The New Orleans exposition was formally opened last Tuesday. Business inside generally languished and the city gayly decorated. The arranging of exhibits is progressing rapidly. The main building, with an addition of nearly half a mile long, and the government building, 685,000 feet, were found too small, so much larger exhibits were necessary, and the exhibit than it was thought possible a few months ago.

The Madrid Imperial says: Negotiations between England and Spain for a commercial treaty will soon be terminated. Spain wants to retain a reduction of thirty or perhaps thirty-two degrees, England gets the most favored nation treatment in Spain, but not in the Spanish colonies. The British Ambassador at Madrid, assured the government that Great Britain would do nothing to influence America in regard to the new treaty of commerce. If British influence caused the defeat of the American treaty now under consideration, he said, the English protocol would share the same fate.

The London Times' Hong Kong dispatch says: It is reported from Nippon that the Koreans have rebelled; that the king fled to the hills and that his general was killed.
