ASTORIA, OREGON:

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1884

OUR SISTER REPUBLICS.

There are some great projects which after they have been once fairly set before the people are sure to be thwarted and even defeated in the early stages of their progress...

A project of this kind was started over three years ago. It was first publicly broached on the 29th of November, 1881, in the invitation issued by the secretary of state...

The invitation was accepted with enthusiasm by Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica, San Salvador, Chili and other South American republics...

The project to which we advert presents irresistible attractions to every one who has faith in American free government. The good it is so admirably designed to accomplish, is so great as to commend it to the favor of every well wisher of the human race...

The governments of Europe dread the effects of such a congress; after it has once met, it will continue to meet, and its conventions at stated periods will become as regular as those of our own congress at Washington.

Although the movement will most effectually diffuse and enforce the doctrine of America for Americans, native and adopted, it will carry the motto into practice on broad enlightened and liberal principles...

The steamships plying between England and New Zealand are among the "ocean greyhounds." They have done the enormous distance of late in a little over thirty-seven days.

The Agricultural classes of France have £200,000,000 on deposit in the government savings banks, on which they are paid 4 per cent. interest.

The Paris Petit Journal has reached a circulation of 825,000 copies, without doubt the largest newspaper circulation in the world.

It is said that General Grant has reduced his smoking allowance to one cigar a day.

BLAINE, it is reported, expects to visit Europe in May.
