At a late meeting of the Portland board of trade, a letter was read from Senator Dolph in reference to an appli-cation to have a new lighthouse erected in the Twelfth instead of the Thirteenth district. A communication was also read from the lighthouse commissioner prom-ising its consideration. Letters read from Senator Dolph in reference to the establishing of a salmon hatchery on the Columbu or its tributaries; and request-Columbia of its tributaries, and request-ing information with regard to such, and seeking information as to eastern clams found in Shealwater bay, and also of the deep sea fisheries. It was also stated that a report had been received through the national fish commission of an offi-cial investigation made by Prof. L. Stone, as to the former of the Granules investigation as to the fitness of the Columbia river and its tributaries for salmon hatch er tes

A Captain Peanall of Norwood, L. L. died recently under the following pecu-liar circumstances: He owned a hand-some and very intelligent Newfoundland dog, and one morning missing him from his usual haunts, Captain Pearsall went in search of the animal. He found the dog in the woods, dead, with a bullet-hole through its heart. The old gentle-man returned home broken-hearted. Upon reaching the house his wife asked him if he had found the dog. "Yes," Upon reaching the house his wife asked him if he had found the dog. "Yes," he replied, "I've found him, and the poor thing is dead," and with the words upon his hys he fell dead in the hallway. Coroner Cronin held an inquest and
