Notice To Advertisers.
 THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

There will be a meeting of the Clatsop Rod and Gun club this evening.

R. Wistar Morris, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, will officiate at Grace church next Sunday.

There will be a pleasant social party at Liberty Hall to-morrow evening. Tickets only one dollar. You can get one of Ang. Danielson.

"Please excuse Johnny," writes a Dayton, W. T., mother to the teacher: "I was on a jury yesterday and he had stay at home to mind the baby."

Portland has two new charters—one championed by the board of trade, the other by the city council. Both will be presented in the form of bills to the legislature and pushed for all they are worth.

The grand jury met yesterday afternoon and found a true bill against Chas. Herbert, charging him with the murder of McDonald on the 8th inst. The prisoner appeared in court and was allowed till this morning to plead.

The city council met in special session last evening to discuss certain proposed amendments to the city charter. Several changes were proposed and endorsed by the members present and a bill ordered drafted in accordance therewith.

At the skating rink next Saturday evening there will be a ten mile race, a prize of $50 to be awarded the winner, and a second best getting $25. There will be an interesting contest and the best will win. He on hand early and bet on the favorite.

There will be a social hop at Knappa on Thursday evening, the 25th inst., and the projectors extend a cordial invitation to Astorians to be present and participate in the enjoyment of the occasion. They are assured a pleasant time. The price of the tickets is placed at $1.50.

Capt. J. G. Fairford died in Portland last Sunday, in the 63rd year of his age. He was well known in this city, where his sons long carried on the storing business. He was a native of Philadelphia, whence he came to this coast in 1849. The remains will be taken to San Francisco on the Oregon for burial.

W. H. Merrill returned from The Dalles yesterday. He has seen all the signs of the storm between 600 and 700 strangers and pilgrims were cooped up waiting for the snow to quit falling and drifting. He says beds were at a premium and meals were meagre at the hotels. The discomfort and misery endured by those who were caught out in that cold storm cannot be estimated.

A notice appeared in THE ASTORIAN last week calling a meeting of the "League R. Y. O." Inquiry develops the fact that the league is an organization with large and growing membership, having for its purpose the removal of fish traps from the Columbia river. A petition signed by several names was sent to Salem yesterday morning, to be introduced in the house by Representative Leinenweber, asking the legislature to memorialize congress concerning the matter.

About ten o'clock last Sunday night Mr. H. Du Boisson and family, on returning home after spending the evening at the residence of a friend, were surprised and alarmed to find a side window open. Hastily effecting an entrance at the front door they found that fish thieves had effected an equally hasty exit at the back door. They were just entering to plunder when the family's return put them to flight. They had taken sheets and quilts off the bed, laid them on the floor, and were about to make a grand haul, securing all things portable into a big bundle.

School began in District No. 18 yesterday. Through the energies of the citizens and school directors of the district a handsome school building stands on the commodious school site and affords splendid educational facilities for the children of the district. The number of pupils being constantly on the increase, the directors have wisely concluded that the best interests of the school required the employment of another teacher. The new position is filled by Miss Atkinson, of Wisconsin, a young lady of marked ability and highly recommended by leading educators of that state.

The hitch heretofore alluded to regarding the outlet toward Smith's Point still exists, and from the Washington Packing company's property, westward, though there is a good road, there is "No Throughfare." The facts as stated are as follows: The Cutting Packing Co., the Union Packing Co., and the Washington Packing Co. are in together, lessed a line of shore, and built a road from the west end of Concomly street to their property. Then the last two named bought out the right of the Cutting. The county then at considerable expense made a fine road toward and beyond the Seaside Packing Co.'s property, which is at present useless. The cannery folks are willing to sell or make any fair disposition of their property, but naturally object to allowing constant public travel over a road which they themselves own, and which they must keep in repair. But we in this vicinity have so many fine drives that the drive around by Smith's Point and on by Young's river isn't necessary. It is not even missed when there are so many other magnificent roads.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS.
 January 19, 1885.
 TAYLER, J.
 H. J. Hansen vs. School District No. 1: continued for the term.
 Sophia Daggett vs. Otto Lindros et al: same.
 Blanchard & Muckle vs. C. H. Bain: argued and submitted.
 D. G. Ross and W. J. Ross vs. Dean Blanchard: trial had, verdict for plaintiff for $1,117.00.
 State of Oregon vs. Charles Herbert: grand jury return indictment for murder. Defendant arraigned and allowed until to-morrow morning to plead.
 Minnie M. G. Spearth vs. A. G. Spearth: demurrer to amended complaint confessed and until to-morrow to file amended complaint.

THE DEWA GUNGADHUR.
 WRECKED ON SHOALWATER BAY BAR.

The Captain and Crew Take to the Boats and Are Saved.

On Sunday night news came to this city that another British vessel had gone ashore on Shoalwater Bay bar, close alongside the Abbey Cooper and under almost similar circumstances. From the cape station yesterday morning it was learned that the vessel was the British bark Dewa Gungadhur, 154 tons, Battersby master, 23 days from Magdalena bay, and that she had gone ashore on the morning of the 18th, the captain and crew escaping in a boat under circumstances of more than ordinary peril. Following is

CAPTAIN BATTERSBY'S STATEMENT.
 "My vessel was from Liverpool to Calao and Magdalena from whence I sailed December 25th. I was off the Columbia river on the 15th, last Thursday, but was driven to sea by a strong gale from the southeast. On the night of the 17th I shaped the ship's course so as to pass Toke Pt. light-house which was 15 miles off; the wind was from the northwest. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning I saw Toke Pt. light about 12 miles off, and immediately hauled the ship up with her head to the ashore, and let go the anchor in about 7 fathoms of water with 30 fathoms of chain attached. About 4 o'clock a light breeze from the south sprang up, and I slipped the anchor and chain and stood to sea. In about half an hour the wind hauled to the west; I stood on, passed close to breakers on Shoalwater bar and kept standing on until abreast of Toke Pt. The fog cleared a little and showed the tops of the headlands; there came heavy breakers close to leeward, and the wind being very light the ship drifted down to them. Seeing that she was sure to go within half an hour I decided to wear her around and try to get anchor inside the bar."

"I wore the ship around and stood on, there being scarcely any wind; the sea was heavy, and the fog closed down again. About 5 o'clock the ship struck shore. In about half an hour the sea, thumping and heavily and the sea breaking over her. About nine o'clock I got out one boat and all hands left the ship; it kept three men busy bailing the boat out to keep her from sinking, the heavy sea filling it at every lurch; about half past ten we got to shore. I left both mates and the crew in charge with instructions to go on board if there was any chance and at four o'clock started for Astoria to get assistance if possible."

The Dewa Gungadhur was owned by P. G. Fry & Co., of Liverpool, and was consigned to Meyer, Wilson & Co.; she was built in Glasgow in 1857, was valued at $2,000, and was for many years engaged in the India trade. There is little doubt that the vessel is a total loss. Nothing was saved, the captain not even securing the ship's articles. He returns to the scene of the wreck this morning.

PUB. DOCS.
 This is the time of year when the heart of the average constituent is made glad by the receipt of sundry ponderous tomes from Washington, sent under the frank of the congressman from his district. This is a pleasant style of literature and is eagerly sought after. Some of the narratives printed at public expense are thrilling in their weird recital. One volume on the "Diseases of American Swine," is having a wide circulation. Once get started reading this fascinating work and the ordinary demands of humanity, such as sleeping, eating, etc., are forgotten or rushed hastily through in an impatient eagerness to get to the end and see what finally became of the hog.

This office is in receipt of a large number of entertaining volumes kindly passed through the postoffice window by Postmaster Chance. One in particular on "The Domestic Habits of the Flea," is of such a soul-absorbing nature as to cause the reader to forego the ordinary duties of life in a feverish haste to end the first volume and take up the second. There is another on "The Value of Cotton in Germany," that is remarkably well written. Probably the most interesting of these works is a little brochure of 675 pages finely printed, entitled, "A Compendium of Diseases in the United States from 1820 to 1882." This is a rare literary treat; it is written in a fascinating style, and besides its frequent change of subjects has a charm peculiarly its own.

There are about thirteen tons of it stored away in the postoffice here and for those that like that sort of thing that is about the sort of thing they would like.

Rod and Gun Club Meeting.
 A meeting of the Clatsop Rod and Gun Club is hereby called to meet at the office of the Auditor and Clerk, on Tuesday evening, January 20th, 1885, at 8 o'clock p. m.

WHAT!
 Do You Think that "Jef" of The Chop House Gives you a meal for nothing, and a glass of something to drink? "Not much" but he gives a better meal and more of it than any place in town for 25 cents. He buys by the wholesale and pays cash. "That settles it."

SOME SENATE BILLS.

No. 3—By Houli, providing for a constitutional convention at Salem to meet the first Monday in October, to be composed of ninety members apportioned from the various counties identically with the present representation in the legislature, these delegates to be chosen at a special election the first Monday of Next June. Membership of the legislature does not bar membership of the proposed convention. Delegates are to receive the same compensation as members of the legislature and to be paid from the state treasury in the same manner. This bill does not differ practically from that introduced in the house by Cox, excepting in the apportionment of members. Cox's bill providing that the vote cast at the last general election be the measure of apportionments. The population of the state is very differently divided now from the time the apportionment under which members of the legislature are now elected, and the Cox bill will give much nearer equal and fair representation of the various sections of the state.

No. 4—By Lee, dividing the state into three districts, with authority to maintain one normal school in each. The counties of Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Columbia, Lane, Linn, Marion, Multnomah, Polk, Tillamook, Washington and Yamhill to compose District No. 1. The counties of Coos, Curry, Douglas, Jackson, Josephine, Klamath and Lake, to compose No. 2. The counties of Baker, Crook, Grant, Umatilla, Union and Wasco, shall compose district No. 3. Students of either district may enter any normal school. The normal school for the first district to be located at Monmouth in Polk county. Location for second and third districts yet to be fixed. The bill provides elaborately for the organization, course of study and conduct of such schools.

No. 5—By Reed, providing for the equalization of taxes and for the appointment of assessors in each county. It provides that the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer, shall fix the amount of state tax to be paid by the various counties. On the first Monday of January, 1885, and every three years thereafter, the government shall appoint an assessor for each county, whose pay shall be $5 per day for time of actual service. The bill elaborately sets forth rules for making up the assessment, the purpose is to distribute the burden of taxation more fairly than under the present law.

No. 7—By Lee, providing that only American citizens above 21 years of age shall be licensed as pilots on the Columbia and Willamette rivers. The pilot board is to regulate the number of pilots to be licensed. The bill repeals the present schedule of pilot charges, and prescribes the manner of regulation of the pilot commission. It is declared that, inasmuch as the requirements of the present law have driven from the bar pilot grounds all Oregon pilots, and substituted Washington territory pilots whose compensation is $2 per foot, more than that of Oregon pilots, this act shall take effect upon its approval by the governor.

No. 13—By Reed, increasing the compensation of supreme judges to $2500 per year. The bill is identical with the measure introduced in the house for the same purpose.

No. 42—By Miller, to create a board of railroad commissioners; it provides that on the last day of the present session the legislature shall elect three commissioners, to hold office for two years. One commissioner must be a Republican, one a Democrat, and one shall be experienced in railroad business. One member shall be a competent lawyer, and the governor is authorized to fill vacancies in board. No persons having any pecuniary interest in any railroad line of the state shall be a commissioner or have any official connection with the board. The board shall have general supervision of all railroads in the state. They shall examine the manner in which they are operated with reference to the accommodations of the public and their compliance with the laws of the state. Railroad companies are required to furnish the board with complete statement of their affairs. No detail is to be withheld under severe penalties, but the commissioners are not required to give publicity to such information. To the commission is given the authority to fix rates of passenger and freight charges, and there is no appeal from their authority. The commissioners are to be paid an annual salary of $2,000, and their clerk an annual salary of $1,800.

Is It Not True?
 There can be no argument as to the qualities essential to a perfect remedy for the ills arising from a disordered or inactive condition of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Everyone will admit that it should be perfectly safe for old and young of both sexes, at any and all times; that it should be acceptable both to the taste and the stomach; that it should never fail to act promptly and thoroughly, yet painlessly, and it should give strength to those organs. It is now well known that Syrup of Figs possesses those qualities in a pre-eminent degree. W. E. Dement & Co. are agents for Astoria, Oregon.

Mrs. Bryce would respectfully announce to the ladies of Astoria that she is prepared to do dressmaking in all its branches at her rooms on Cass St., opposite Odd Fellows building.

THE SENATORIAL SITUATION.

Under date of the 18th, the New Salem correspondent writes as follows:
 The oppressive dullness of to-day, resulting from the general scattering after Friday's adjournment, finds some relief in the statement that there will be "lots of 'em" here during the week. The work that would have been done last week by the makers of senators holds over as "unfinished business" for the third week before them. The most noted instance of unfinished business in Salem is Lish Applegate, who came within one vote of the caucus nomination for senator a dozen years ago. He is on hand under this head, and stands just as good a chance as two-thirds of the other aspirants. No one among all the wise politicians here has foregone enough to give an opinion concerning the senatorial situation, which is regarded as of the slightest value, while the candidates are so numerous that one must carry a list of them to be always sure of remembering who they are.

Sol. Hirsch looms up as the most steadily in the list at this stage of the contest. He is more than a name, and his presence does his case no harm. He looks like every one who gets to thinking about a place of honor, long for it the more as its uncertainty grows upon him, is far from easy in his mind over the prospect. The shifting sands of selfish personal ambition are many among the ranks of the foremost candidates and in this instance there must be one or two dashes at the test of voting before any man, candidate or outsider can tell whether or not the forces counted on will stand together. If the work for George and Williams is progressing at all, it must be that some strength is being drawn from Hirsch, and one can hardly suppose that John Ward is "fooling away" his time. In his sagacious and experienced George certainly the advantage of the others. Williams is progressing at all, it must be that some strength is being drawn from Hirsch, and one can hardly suppose that John Ward is "fooling away" his time. In his sagacious and experienced George certainly the advantage of the others. Williams is progressing at all, it must be that some strength is being drawn from Hirsch, and one can hardly suppose that John Ward is "fooling away" his time. In his sagacious and experienced George certainly the advantage of the others.

Williams candidacy seems not to alarm the others. He is so coldly indifferent to men that in these calculating times of ours his case can never be worked up by Mr. Scott's influence, that he can use for Williams would work with the same effect if turned in for himself or Lair Hill a little further on, and either one of these gentlemen is as well known and more widely friendly in Oregon as Williams has. It is hard to penetrate the mysteries of corner conversations sufficiently to see how the Williams case can be effectively brought to the front. A stampede to McConnell would have more blood in it, while a march on Hill would be just as well based on careful groundwork. This deduction may seem to lift four possibilities out of the pot, and leave the others to boil by themselves, but it does not; there is too much both for and hope for in the work of an hour, to make it possible to kill off anybody thus early in this eventful preliminary week. The undercurrent for Mitchell is quite as likely to be never reached as it is to play a part in the struggle. There are two things that the more intense friends of Mitchell will not do. They will neither make fools of themselves nor drag him forth to sit up on a gridiron. They understand that it will be better to let the monkey business of secret initiation to help their man. He will jump to the front, four-in-hand, with all the passengers "set," or remain in the stable. More than this, the best politicians at Salem are all at work for this or that new man, and the name of Mitchell is heard only as a pleasant echo of '82.
