A RIVER GREYHOUND.
 The Fastest Passenger Boat on the Columbia River.
 Last Sunday morning the sun lit up the splendid scenery of the lower Columbia. Cloud shadows streaked the surface of the stream, and toward noon the green water was lashed into a foam by a brisk breeze from the west. As the afternoon wore on the cloud shadows deepened and the incoming tide dashed great waves on the beach—the angry water, white with foam, rolling noisily eastward. The mist gathered and lowered, the wind blew in gusts, rain fell heavily, till with a smile of light on land and sea the spirit of the storm looked back from a departing cloud and left the same dancing on the rippling waves and lighting up the half-furled sails of the ships that rode at anchor in the stream.
 Suddenly the storm came roaring from the west with redoubled force and the first glimpse that Astorians got of the new steamer Telephone was as she came flying round Tongue Point, the white speed, the tall smoke stack gleaming through the circling wreaths of gray spray that were blown before the blast. She came rushing on in the teeth of the wind, and at 3:51 made her first landing at Astoria and her twenty-first that day.
 The dock was filled with people who, despite the storm, had come out mainly to see what kind of a craft Capt. Scott had built. She is a fine specimen of a modern, sloping deck, powerfully engineered. Her hull is remarkably stout and she rides on an even keel; her engines are two non-condensing, 22-inch cylinder, eight foot stroke, the boiler is 6' x 6' and carries 140 pounds of steam. The tonnage of the boat is 386.27, net. She is allowed to carry 300 passengers, has five life boats, 512 lbs preservers, and a crew of 40 men. On the main deck are cabin, sleeping and staterooms, and a large extension table, etc., the ladies' cabin being sumptuously fitted up. The deck is of oak, the hull of iron, and the narrow strips. There are seventeen staterooms. She is fitted up with every device that comfort and safety demand, and has the latest patent steering apparatus that has proved a signal success on other river steamers.
 She left Portland at 9:57, last Sunday morning, with 277 passengers on board, making twenty landings on her way down, consuming one hour and thirteen minutes in the twenty landings, or a half over three and a half minutes to a landing, making her running time five hours, eight foot stroke, the boiler is 6' x 6' and carries 140 pounds of steam. The tonnage of the boat is 386.27, net. She is allowed to carry 300 passengers, has five life boats, 512 lbs preservers, and a crew of 40 men. SCHOOL MEETING.
 J. G. Hustler School Clerk. N. Clinton, School Director.
 A majority of the legal voters of school district No. One met in the principal's room in the school building at 7:30 last evening to elect a clerk for the ensuing year, and a director for the ensuing three years. Mrs. W. Parker acted as president; J. O. Bozorth, clerk of the board, secretary. The call for the meeting was read, and on motion proceeded to elect a director. The names of J. C. Trullinger, C. S. Wright, N. Clinton, Geo. Flavel, M. J. Kinney, J. O. Bozorth and A. Kinney were placed in nomination. Messrs. Flavel, Kinney, and Wright declined. A recess of five minutes was taken to procure more lights. During recess the question of what outside pupils should be charged for tuition came up. Mrs. Parker stated that the board of directors had been for several years charging $1.50 a quarter; that the board was desirous of instruction in the matter and by which was governed by the vote of the meeting. It was moved and seconded that in future such pupils be charged $5 a quarter. Carried. Further discussion was then had regarding the advisability of leaving the matter to the directors; what constituted an outside pupil, etc. Pending the final issue of the debate more lights were brought in, and balloting began. (See Flavel's column for the delinquent list.) It was read, so that it could be seen who were delinquent and who had paid, which was done. C. H. Stockton and W. E. Dement were appointed tellers. The roll was called and the teller called his name. When M. Rogers proffered his vote there was a discussion in which the chair several of the meeting participated. It ended by Mr. Rogers being allowed to cast his vote. The vote was as follows: N. Clinton, 62; M. C. Crosby, 25; J. C. Trullinger, 16; A. C. Kinney, 10; scattering, 3. N. Clinton was declared duly elected director for the ensuing year. The election of school clerk was next in order. J. O. Bozorth, the present incumbent, and J. G. Hustler, who had been for many years the clerk, were placed in nomination. The following were the names of the voters: J. G. Hustler, 81; J. O. Bozorth, 42. J. G. Hustler was declared duly elected school clerk for the ensuing year. On motion of J. O. Bozorth the election was made unanimous. After a little more discussion of the important matter of light, the meeting adjourned.

THE SILVER QUESTION.
 How the Action of Congress Favoring Coinage of the Dollar is Viewed in the East.
 New York, March 2.—A Tribune's Washington special says: The fight between the silver men and the new administration was quick and decisive. Cleveland was knocked out in the first round. He retired from the field in pretty bad condition. The silver men are jubilant. They could not have anticipated such an easy victory. But a short time ago they would have been satisfied to prevent their opponents from mastering the two-thirds majority necessary for a suspension of the rule. Nothing could have accomplished this result but the receipt by the leaders of the silver movement of Cleveland's letter, in which he sets forth his reasons why the coinage of silver should be suspended. The letter determined the silver men to gather their forces for the energetic resistance it arrayed solidly against the incoming administration, and the large and influential wing of the Democratic party. To say the Democrats feel happy over the result of this fray would be stretching the truth. At the beginning of their term of power they find themselves at variance with the executive question which will cause them more trouble, if possible, than the tariff.
 The Tribune says editorially: The Democratic Party has been practically refusing to give Cleveland the vote to suspend the coinage of the silver dollar at his pleasure, was undoubtedly due to two controlling reasons. The first was the fact that the party in power at the time of Cleveland's election did not want to suspend the coinage of the silver dollar; the other, that enough Republicans could not be found who would vote with the minority of the Democrats to elect Cleveland entirely in the hands of an untied president.
 The Times says: It is impossible to say how far Randall's tactics in regard to the suspension of silver coinage do or do not represent the views of the president-elect, but most likely the latter has confined himself to the approval of suspension and left it to the leaders of the party in Congress to decide in what manner suspension could best be brought about. Randall would have made his proposition much more logical and practical, probably, if he had been more fully conversant with the situation of the silver question, if any, to be exercised in the resumption of coinage. The votes show that the Democratic party, as represented by the House, is not in favor of the suspension of silver coinage, leaving discretion, if any, to be exercised in the resumption of coinage. THE SHIP ASTORIA.
 PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., Feb. 27.—The ship Astoria, coal laden for San Francisco, drifted ashore near Point Bonilla, and between that place and San Juan harbor. Both anchors and all the chain were let go, but all the windlass falls were broken, so they could not be got up again. The captain then left the ship with four men to procure a tug at Pysat. A heavy southwest wind then setting in, the first mate got a boat out to stand by the ship, and the second mate and three men were placed in the boat, but a heavy sea broke them adrift from the vessel, and they were unable to regain her. They were picked up in the straits this morning by the barkentine Griffiths. When they were driven off, the Astoria had struck several times a heavy rock at a depth of about twenty feet. Captain Anderson named the steamer Hologic at Pysat and went to the scene of the disaster. The wind has been blowing heavily from the southwest, and no hopes are entertained of saving the vessel. She is probably a total loss.
 Victoria, Feb. 28.—The government steamer returned from the straits this afternoon and reports having seen no evidence of a wreck. It is therefore hoped that the ship Astoria, previously reported ashore, got a fair wind and continued on her voyage.
 Seattle, March 1.—The ship Astoria, which was reported ashore near Bonneville point, was towed to Port Angeles by the tug Hologic this morning. Contrary to rumors, she did not go ashore, although she dragged very close in before the anchor held. No damage was done to the vessel, and the only loss reported is that of an anchor chain, which tripped on a rock and laid so firmly that it was necessary to slip the cable and leave the anchor in several fathoms of water. When in distress the captain sent a boat and crew to Pysat to telegraph for a tug, which was done, and in response the Hologic went to the rescue of the ship.

 Amid the rush of daily business it is just possible that some Astorians failed to notice the general dampness in February. The records of the signal service show that during the 28 days of February 10.59 inches of rain fell in this city.
 At the annual school meeting in District No. 18, held last evening at the Cedar street schoolhouse, J. W. Welch was re-elected school director for the ensuing year, and J. W. Welch was re-elected school clerk for the ensuing year.
 It was the steanship Barronmore, from Baltimore, that brought Captain Young and the crew of the Kirkwood to Liverpool. There was a rumor that the Kirkwood was yesterday that the Kirkwood had been towed to Liverpool, but it could not be traced to any authentic source.
 No "bull in a china shop" ever raised more commotion than did yesterday a passing pig who who shot into S. Danziger's clothing store in search of refuge from the persistent attentions of an inquisitive dog. The dog and the pig, and the pig and the dog, made it lively for the minutes and minutes of the store for a few minutes and furnished lots of fun for 121 men and boys who took it in from the corner of the street.
 It is likely, says the Democrat, the 2nd inst., that Captain Heschner, master of the British liner Bowen, now in port, will have some trouble successfully to defend the suit brought against him in the state circuit court for $2,000 by John Brown, the sailor, who was confined in prison for twenty days—entirely wrong—from Honolulu to this port. There is no question of the captain's legal right to pet and keep the man in irons on the high seas, and the Democrat is equal that Brown merited incarceration; and it was the duty of the master to report the case to the British vice consul at Astoria immediately on his arrival here.
 Twenty-eight years ago to-morrow the last of the line of Democratic presidents was inaugurated; then there were 26,000,000 people, now there are 26,000,000. Then there were 33 states; now there are 38. Then there were 137 cities of over 8,000; now there are 291. Then we exported $300,000,000 annually; now we export $920,000,000. Then we produced 14,000,000 tons of coal a year; now we produce 34,000,000. Then we turned out 800,000 tons of iron a year; now we manufacture 8,000,000 tons. Then we imported 210,000,000 yards cotton goods; last year we imported 16,000,000. We have six times the railroad mileage, more than twice the number of farms, and nearly three times the amount of cereal crops. This is a great country. Don't let it escape your memory.
 The Baltimore American says: The choicest selection of copyrighted American humor and one which will delight every reader is now being distributed free throughout America. Nearly all the humorists and comic artists of the country are represented in it, among them "Bill Nye," Robert J. Barrette, Burlingame Hancock, F. H. Gassaway, "Derick Dodd," San Francisco Post; C. B. Lewis, "M. Quad," Detroit Free Press; Stanley Kentley, "Spoonendyke," Opie P. Reed, Astorian Traveler; R. K. Manikoff of Puch, and others. The book in question is the unique annual literary production of the Charles A. Vogelger Company, of this city, and is styled the St. Jacobs Oil Family Calendar and Book of Health and Humor for 1875. While it has been gotten up primarily for advertising purposes, it is so replete with original matter free from advertising reference that the business feature is almost a secondary one. Twelve million copies are issued for gratuitous distribution, being delivered from homes to homes in large cities and in smaller towns furnished through the medium of druggists.

THE INAUGURATION SUPPER.
 The steward who has charge of providing the supper at the inauguration ball says the bill of fare on that occasion will comprise the following:
 Six big salmon.
 Six thousand rolls.
 One hundred loaves of bread, of the best of the best ever set in the city. Admission will be free; supper 50 cents. It is usual throughout the country upon the inauguration of a president to have some observance of the occasion, and the Relief Corps has very properly concluded that a good supper would be as good a way as any of celebrating the inauguration. Every one will be made welcome, and a general invitation is extended to the public. The proceeds of the supper are to be devoted to charity, the charity that is "twice blessed," blessing those who give and those who take. The appeal of charity to Astorians is never made in vain, and the kind ladies who are devoting so much effort to the entertainment should have a hearty response to their zealous endeavors.
 Fishing has commenced in the Sacramento river but the catch is very light and will probably not repay the efforts of the fishers until the regular spring run, which sets in about the middle of March. Last year there were from 1,200 to 1,500 boats engaged in the fishing on the river, but this season the boats are not generally profitable to the fishermen, and this year their number shows a decrease of from 200 to 300 boats. Cannery says they cannot afford to pay last year's prices for fish, and the price of fish in his store, you can have it at greatly reduced prices. His stock is an immense one. Music and Musical Instruments; Gold and Silverware; Clocks, Watches, Jewelry; Toys; Fancy Goods; Stationery; Books; Baby Carriages; all First-class goods, and to be sold at astonishingly low prices.
