Gov; Moody maintains an eloquent silence upon the question of the appoint-ment of a United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of the

Talking about Tar Asyomas article yesterday regarding selmon, a prominent resident last evening made a remark worthy of immortalizing in type, "In speaking of 'overproduction," said he, "wouldn't it be better to call it 'want of consumption?" #### BAR IMPROVEMENT.

Extract From Official Report of Capt. Powell

The jetty recommended by the ma jority of the board of engineers of 1882, whose commencement is authorized by the act of July 5, 1884, is a lowtide structure extending from near Fort Stepens, on the south cape, and by a slightly convex curve on the north to a point about 3 miles south of Cape Disappointment. Some latitude in the length of the jetty is permitted; and also in an increase of contraction by raising the jetty or by a short work on Peacock spit. A certain construction is provided for, whose estimate of $3,710,000 is based on stone and beton blocks as the material of use, although mattresses and piling in the shouler water are recommended wherever practicable and economical.

The detailed hydrographic survey commenced in June, 1883, was completed in August, but from want of funds the final chart has not been finished. A field-sheet was of value for use in changing James Swaim of Pacific county has seen sent to the insane asylum at Sentco.

OCEAN SPRAY.

There are no loaded vessels in port. The Columbia arrived in yesterday: the Ovegon sailed for S. F.

The Lord Kinnaird has arrived at own, 141 days from Astoria. The United States revenue outter Rich-ard Rush has gone to San Francisco, from Seattle. The British iron bark Cumbrian has been taken up for wheat loading by C. Coesar & Co. at 45s for orders.

The only damage the ship Astoria sustained at Bonilla point was the loss of an anchor which tripped on a rock and held so firmly that it was necessary to slip the cable and buoy the anchor where it lay in several feet of water.

The British ship Kirkstoot, previously reported abandoned off the English coast, was left on February 24th. A part of her cargo had been jettisoned, her decks torn open and the vessel dismasted. She had six feet of water in the hold. The schooner E. V Olive, Capt. Clark. was wrecked February 19th, in the Galf of Mexico, and her crew of five lost. Four seamen were washed away by the waves and the fifth was found by the crew of a Considerable changes of the sands have occurred since the survey. The ship-channel has worked somewhat to the southward. Peacock spit has shouled at its ends and taken the form of a hook, pointing towards Sand island, with a tendency toward it and to deepen at the elbow of the hook. The island has moved further into Baker's bay. The most insportant change in reference to the jetty construction is the jetty is the shifting of the channel towards line at right angles to the jetty without saying that it is not an easy towards a line at right angles to the jetty without saying that it is not an easy direction: it shows the need, since the work is to be done, of the least practicable experience of abundance of the person of the least practicable delay in its execution.

The present change in reference to the jetty without saying that it is not an easy thing to find such a paragon in the gallow; but when he is there, he is, next to the captain, by far the most important character on board.

A dispatch from Victoria R C says

The present channel depth is believed to be 18 to 19 feet at low water and for an insufficient with: 20 feet are required on the bar, in a channel wide land direct, and 39 feet are desirable for the deep ships needed by the Columbia river ships needed by the Columbia civer trade. It is judged that the appropriation will permit construction of the elevated tracks from the government wharf, along the high water line in front of Ft. Stevens, to the point from which the jetty is projected into the breakers: the purchase of hoisting engines, pile drivers, building a fleet of sex-going dump scows, wharf extension, erection of derricks, and extensive brush work at base of Clatsop spit, construction of needed buildings, and general preparation for work on the jetty proper, so that when more funds are available contracts can be made for material, and for sea towage, and the caused a hissing sound, heard even above the blast, causing the vessel to quiver from stem to stern. Hardly had this dis-appeared when the mate, clutching the captain's arm, cried: "My God! what is that?" pointing to a towering mass of white foam rapidly approaching the ap-parently doomed vessel. The noise from the advance of the volume of water is described as deafening. As the berk was struck flat aback, and before there was time to touch a brace, the sails filled time to touch a brace, the sails filled again and the roaring white sea could be New York, March 7.—General Grant at terrapia to-day. How Evarts Disposed of a Voluble Tonng Useful Hints Which Should be Pasted on the Elecutionist

William M. Evarts, the newly elected senator from New York, is a jolly old fellow, very sportive at times when it will do to relax his dignity, and much given to joking when safe from public observation. In the magnificent loungingrooms of the Union League club, of The officers and crew of the British bark Minnic Gray, of Hull, which was abandoned at sea February 10th, were rescued by the British ship Hudson, of the patience; and their peculiar quality is that through the solviety of his process. that, through the sobriety of his speech, the hearer never can tell whether the story is to be funny or not. That in itself compels close attention, of course because it won't do to put a bland smile on the face while the mind runs to some thing remote, since there may be no place for a length to properly come in. It was fivarts' habit of maintaining a sedate visage that made his treatment of an audacious and self-complacent young woman effectively crushing. She wore the flaring hat and the exaggerated garments of an actress, though she was no nearer the stage by profession, as she rattlingly explained than was in-

A sea cook is a peculiar character, requirage from 5 to 30, he felt bound to lean brought to, but expired an hour after-

"Well, now," and he became apparently introspective, as he does when formulating his long sentences, "the theories and practices of my household, as far as they seem pertinent to the employment of an entertainer, instructor, or we may say-I assume without any misconception of your proposition or offense to your self-esteem—a governess for the children, are based on the utmost feasible degree of tolerance and charity. It is in my memory that we once had a lame nursemaid, whose limp, though it may have been as rythmic as a cradle to the infant in her arms, was certainly not pleasing to the observer less intimately related to it. And I recall a coachman of ours who occupied years of service in dying of a deformity distressing to the view. But in both cases the misfortune evertook these individuals while in our employ, as they had come to us in nor-mal and healthy conditions, and we felt bound to endure them to the end. But bound to endure them to the end. But I hardly think that we should feel called upon to hire a governess already in an advanced stage of elecution, who is doubtless incurable, and with whom the most ideal charity would not demand that we should jointly suffer."

The stenographic clerk who took down the words thinks that five minutes elapsed before the young woman under-stood what had happened to her, but seconds seem like minutes at such a time of awful suspense, and "jiffy is probably the right word to describe the manner of
