

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1885.

ISSUED EVERY MORNING. (Monday excepted). J. F. HALLOMAN & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS, ASTORIAN BUILDING, - CASS STREET.

Terms of Subscription. Sent by Carrier, per week. Dues. Sent by Mail, per month. Free of postage to subscribers.

Advertisements inserted by the year at the rate of $2 per square per month. Transient advertising fifty cents per square, each insertion.

Notice To Advertisers. THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

County court meets next Monday. Regular court meeting to-night. Kant displays some nobby hats this week.

Call at Jeff's and see that red bat from Texas. "Col." Hawkins is bilking the Sulemities, all same Astoria. The ladies are offered extraordinary inducements at J. Pilger's sale.

It is said that A. L. Stokes is no longer connected with the O. R. & N. dock. The Bay View restaurant will be sold on the 30th inst., at public auction.

The first iron steamer built on Puget Sound was launched at Seattle last Friday. Capt. Carroll, of the Idaho, is said to have won $7,000 on the election of Cleveland.

Cecil Beebe, bookkeeper for G. Shindler & Co., furniture men in Portland, has shipped eastward. The firm loses $5,000. The fine American ship J. E. Brown is lying at the O. R. & N. dock. She will take about 250 tons more of wheat before going to sea.

Those lace goods at Cooper's are well worth a visit. When such fine goods are brought to Astoria there is no excuse for sending money away. Keady's loan option law will not apply to the taking out of liquor licenses in a city where the mode of getting a license is regulated by the charter.

On Thursday evening there will be a social at the residence of Mr. S. Elmer, given under the auspices of the ladies sewing society of the M. E. church. A general invitation is extended.

Work has been stopped at the mouth of the Willamette river by the government, on account of the failure of congress to make an appropriation for it. This will probably put a stop to the work for about two years.

Nobody is making any money just now and the best way of us can do is to economize in purchases as much as possible. For instance, in the matter of boots and shoes, P. J. Goodmans sells a fine article at a very low price and guarantees satisfaction.

Miss Carnahan has returned from San Francisco, and the firm of Eaton & Carnahan is now opening a splendid stock of spring millinery, hats, feathers, ribbons, trimmings, etc. The stock has been bought with special reference to the wants of the ladies of Astoria and is of the latest and finest styles.

Senator Dolph is reported by telegraph from Chicago as saying the better way for Gov. Moody to do is to issue a proclamation that would cover the situation whether there had been a legal adjournment of the session or simply a recess, and call the legislature together to elect a senator. But would they?

Before the commencement of the inauguration exercises, says the Pendleton Tribune, it is said that Cleveland stepped to the front of the platform and in a clear tone of voice asked: "Is Tony Noltner present?" and upon being answered that he was, said: "Then go ahead with the programme gentlemen."

Dr. Kinney had some fine specimens of coal from Union Peak yesterday. The doctor has devoted considerable time and expense to the prospecting of the country to the south for the best coal. It is thought that on the other side of the divide there is coal in plenty. A coal mine would be better than a gold mine for this section of country.

Now that the Astoria land grant is out of the way for good and all, it seems as though it were about time for some of those railroad men who were so eager to take hold "just as soon as you Astorians got that grant forfeited" to be showing up. Probably they are waiting for some of our local capitalists to lead in the matter. From present appearances they will wait some time.

The Astorian is one of the few newspapers in the northwest that made no retrenchment during the dull times, whether making or losing money. The Astorian has always, in the very darkest times, run as good an issue as it was in the power of its proprietors to do. A community is judged by its newspaper, and the Astorian would not give it to say to any outsider that it was compelled to cut down expenses.

Under the tenure of office act no Federal officer can be removed or suspended by the president, even for cause, while the senate is in session, except by and with the consent of the body. When the senate is not in session the president may remove at will, and his nominations to fill vacancies thus made are sent to the senate when it reconvenes. It is under this custom that many office seekers are expecting wholesale removals all over the country.

All the states in the Union, except Oregon, have two senators, Oregon has one. If the commonwealth needed anything that would be bad for it. But the commonwealth does not. Other commonwealths do. California, Ohio and Delaware and Massachusetts each need two senators to look after their state's interests and do what they can for it. But one is enough for Oregon. Our state doesn't need looking after. The legislature looks after Oregon's interests; a long way after.

Unless the Albatross shows up pretty soon she will go on the same list as the ill-fated Annie M. Watts. The Albatross sailed from Hong Kong for the Columbia, November 17th—nearly four months ago. The American clipper ship St. Lucia, which was out here some time ago, cleared from Philadelphia on the 29th of last August for San Francisco, with a large miscellaneous cargo, and is supposed to be lost, as nothing has ever been heard of her since passing the Delaware breakwater.

but before he could get it loose from the beaklets they hammered him over the head with belaying pins. Then others clipped in, and the result was that yesterday evening three of them who had the starting of it were each fined $35 and costs by Justice Goodell, and in default of which they went to jail. There are three more to be hauled up to-day, and the end is not yet.

The insurance on the cargo of the Astorian, as men, as could be ascertained, was as follows: British and Foreign £10,000 Sea 9,000 Union and Liverpool 4,000 Marine 1,000 Commercial and Union 2,000 Fireman's Fund 2,000 Union and Canton 2,000 Citizens Insurance Co 3,000 Globe Marine 3,000 Union Insurance office 1,000 Thomas and Mersey 1,200 Straits 1,200 London and Provincial 5,000 Total £53,800

From Liverpool comes a story regarding a new dodge practiced by wholesalers with Columbia river salmon. The firm in question has possession of a quantity of labels of a former favorite brand, the pickers being no longer in business on the river. They also have several thousand tins of different brands—chiefly cooperatives for necessity. They go over the cans whenever they have nothing else to do, and shake them. A can that appears perfectly solid when rattled to the ear has one of the fancy brand labels affixed; if the can gives evidence of any "drippiness" it is put back in the pile. In this way the cans are culled and the culls bring sixpence a dozen more the time is not altogether wasted, though of the fairness to the brands thus treated there is another opinion.

TWEEDLE DUM AND TWEEDLE DEE. This difference "betwixt tweedle dum and tweedle dee" is thus pretty neatly set forth by an exchange:

"You can tell the people if you want to fill up your paper, that I am going to start a shop here to manufacture and repair wagons and carriages," said a man to a newspaper publisher. "Would you like to have it a standing advertisement?" said the editor. "Oh, I only want an item," was the response.

"Would you like to subscribe for the paper?" "Well, no; I'm taking all I can get now—I will take your where some of them run out." The next day the editor wanted two new spokes put in his buggy wheel and the dashboard fixed up, and he went to the shopkeeper and said: "You can fix this buggy if you want a job to keep you busy."

The shopkeeper looked it over and said: "The spokes will be fifty cents each and the dashboard a dollar—making two dollars for necessary repairs." "But," said the scribe, "I don't care to pay anything for it; I thought you might want a job just to fill up your time—just an item, you know." "But the shopkeeper was indignant, and said: "I own a printing office, type and furniture worth cost thousands of dollars. I have to buy paper, ink, etc., and pay cash for hired help, fuel and all necessities. I have a circulation of over two thousand copies, which cost me many dollars each issue, and yesterday you had the mule clear, and an anxiety to ask that you were in business ready to receive their custom, for nothing."

Medical Advice by Telephone. Husband—My wife has a severe pain in the back of her neck and complains of a sort of a soreness in the stomach. Physician—She has a malarial colic. Husband—What shall I do for her? [The girl at the "central" switches of a mechanist talking to a sawmill man.]

Mechanist to husband—I think she is covered with scales inside, about an inch thick. Let her cool down during the night, and before she fires up in the morning, take a hammer and pound her thoroughly all over, and then take a hose and hitch it to the fire plug and wash her out.

Husband had no further need of this doctor.—Medical Journal. Just think of it. Adler sells sheet music just exactly at half price—no matter what piece you want, vocal or instrumental, just half of publishers' prices. Music and instruments at cost. No use, everything has got to be sold.

Of course everything takes time, but Adler's closing out sale is talked of in every household, and by selling everything at such terrible low prices he shows that he means business. His stock of silverware is going rapidly, but who would not buy at his prices. Books are almost given away, and every thing else just the same. Picture frames, Albums, Pocket and Table cutlery, Hairbrushes, Combs, Soap and other useful articles for a mere nothing.

Brick Store for Rent. The commodious Brick Store now occupied by Adler's Book Store, for rent. Apply to W. S. KINNEY.

For a Neat Fitting Boot. Jy Shoe, go to P. J. Goodmans, on Commercial street, next door to I. W. Case. All goods of the best make and guaranteed quality. A full stock; new goods constantly arriving. Custom work.

For Dinner Parties to order, at short notice, go to Frank Fabre's. One of the finest billiard tables on the coast at Jeff's "Telephone."

The Rev. Geo. H. Thayer, of Bourne, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by W. E. Dement.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough, and Bronchitis. Sold by W. E. Dement & Co.

Hot Lunch at the Telephone Saloon. From 11 to 2 every day. A fine lunch with drink or cigar, 25 cents. No charge after two o'clock.

Gray sells Sackett Bros.' Al swed cedar bangles. A full M guaranteed in each bunch. JEFF.

Board for $25.50 a month. The best in the city. Dinner from 5 to 7. Don't pay 25 to 30 cents for dinner when you can get a better one at the Telephone for 15 cents from 11 to 2.

Private card rooms at Jeff's new saloon—"The Telephone."

WHITE HOUSE BULK. Social Features of the New Administration.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—President Cleveland has completed the few preparations which he deems necessary for the social side of his four years' residence in Washington. His sister, Miss R. E. Cleveland, is mistress of the white house. She has been with him a great deal since his resignation of the New York governorship. It was with reluctance that she consented to go and take charge of the presidential domicile. She has been an earnest and industrious woman and never contemplated a life of luxury, much less one of a conspicuous position before the country. She is as unique in her way as her brother is in his, though they are apparently not at all alike in general character, nor does she physically resemble him. She is of medium stature and build, with a shapely and highly intellectual face. She is good-looking but not pretty. She dresses neatly but plainly, and wears few ornaments.

She has for a long time been a lecturer by profession, her specialty being educational subjects, for which her audiences are usually pupils of girls' schools. She has for example, just lectured at the Elmira seminary on Joan of Arc. She speaks several languages, is exceptionally well informed in history and arts and has that degree of confidence in herself and the knowledge she possesses to be able to hold it against the bright men and women who have come in contact with her. Yet in some respects she is notably shy and always so modest and amiable as to win friends easily and quickly. "Why, she is a perfect dictionary," said Governor Cornell, when he returned from a visit to Miss Cleveland recently. "She's one of the brightest women I ever met." "And do you know," remarked the ex-governor's vivacious wife, "she seemed inclined to be a politician in her own right."

As to the president there is an equal certainty that he has made up his mind to rival or excel Arthur in the politeness of his social administration. If you call on him and have had in Washington he invariably shows a great interest in all you tell him about the capital. He never saw the white house till his arrival, but does not intend to have it managed as a museum, to be entered by anybody who will fee a servant with a dollar. He has no objection to the public exhibition of the state parlors, whenever they are not in use; but to have his bedroom and the living apartments of his family thrown wide open to whoever cares to see them, he says must be unpleasant for the occupants. He has ordered that this practice be discontinued. In his life in Albany Cleveland was plain enough. He ate sparingly. His country was an ordinary servant with no French or other accomplishments. The small and delicate Senator Everts, whom your correspondent happened to see in close contrast with Cleveland during his call, swallows as much in one day as the bulkier man does in three. Whatever his habits may have been in Buffalo, he certainly was not known in Albany as a convivial bachelier. He kept a box of cigars in his dressing room, and every thing else just the same. Picture frames, Albums, Pocket and Table cutlery, Hairbrushes, Combs, Soap and other useful articles for a mere nothing.

WHAT? Do You Think that "Jeff" of The Chop House Gives you a meal for nothing, and a glass of something to drink? "Not much," but he gives a better meal and more of it than any place in town for 25 cents. He buys by the wholesale and sells each.—"That settles it."

CROW Does not make any second-class Pictures at his New Gallery, No. 614, on the Broadway.

A LILY'S ELABORATE ARRAY. Mrs. Langtry did not trust to an English dressmaker to prepare the dresses for her re-entry before a London public, but went to Worth.

Although some dozen costume have, it seems, been designed, how many may be used we do not pretend to know. The richest and most luxurious stuffs that Paris can produce have been used. "There are two outdoor costumes," says a correspondent. "The skirt of the first is mouse grey velvet, with lines of gold braid around it; the tunic, likewise is elaborately embroidered with gold, and over the ralls a jacket of old lace. The second costume, however, outrivals the first in its gorgeousness. It is made of green velvet; round the skirt runs a wide band of European peacocks' feathers, and the waistcoat and revers are entirely composed of those metallic plumes that glitter and glimmer and bedazzle the eye with their lustre of gold, blue, purple and green. Of ball dresses there are two. One is composed of white satin and violet velvet; the satin tablier is studded with violets and pansies applique in high relief; the satin panels are lined with violet velvet, with wide crossed sash; the hips and falls on the satin train; the bodice is of velvet, and is decorated with pansies. The second dress consists of a skirt of large gold leaves on a white velvet ground; the bodice, train and sash are pale pink velvet, trimmed with roses and pearl fringe. But perhaps M. Worth's conceptions reach their highest point in the reception dress. This is composed of poplin in its contrary tints. The trimmings are gold and black passementerie, embellished with large gold coins; the bodice is pink poplin, decorated with gold spangles."

A Commercial Fraud. Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the second sanitary division, says: "Few persons know to what extent aniline is used to color jellies and preserved fruits, such as are sold in the markets. The dealers who use aniline in this way are guilty of commercial fraud, but they cannot be punished under existing laws. No serious result would result from the practice if the dealers were careful to use only pure aniline, but some use the drug adulterated with arsenic. Thus, the appearance of the fruit and jellies is improved by the aniline, but in consequence of the presence of poison in a can of jelly would not be great enough to cause immediate sickness, but the constant reception of the poison into the system of any person will work mischief finally. The laws against adulteration of foods ought to be more stringent, in order to protect people against those manufacturers who would risk the lives of their fellow-men in order to make money."

Don't Look Like a Wreck. "When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation, and sold at the low price of 50c.

Syrup of Figs. Nature's own true Laxative. Pleasant to the palate, acceptable to the stomach, harmless in its nature, painless in its action. Cures habitual Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion and kindred ills. Cleanses the system, purifies the blood, regulates the Liver and acts on the Bowels, Breaks up Colds, Chills, and Fever, etc. Strengthens the organs on which it acts. Better than bitter, nauseous Liver medicines, pills, salts and draughts. Sample bottles free, and large bottles for sale by W. E. Dement & Co., Astoria.
