THE SILVER DOLLAR.

At the current rates for bar silver the silver dollar is now worth only 82 1/2 cents. This accounts for the fact that in 7 years, with unprecedented effort, only $1,000,000 of these dollars have been pushed into circulation.

In the discussion of this question the Oregonian takes the strongest ground it can take and at the same time opposes the bimetallic law, and argues for the demonetization of silver.

The fallacy of the Oregonian's argument is in the acceptance of the English standard of gold values. It takes the same view that Wall street does, and concedes the point in dispute—shall England rule the finances of the United States.

The Oregonian has plenty company. The late secretary of the treasury, the comptroller of the currency, the president of the United States, and others think the same way.

They all exhibit a striking forgetfulness of the meaning of the word "dollar" in their argument against silver coinage. They estimate the value of the silver dollar in the value of the gold one, whereas the gold coin should of right be estimated in the value of the silver.

ANCIENTLY, in many parts of France, when a sale of land took place, it was the custom to have twelve little boys; and when the price of the land was paid, and its surrender took place, the ears of the boys were pulled and they were severely beaten, so that the pain thus inflicted should leave an impression upon their memory, and, if required afterward, they might bear witness to the sale.

SOMETIME ago a bill was introduced into the New York legislature with a view to make all manufacturers of canned goods have the date of packing stamped upon the can. The N. Y. Commercial Bulletin of the 9th says: The canned goods trade has succeeded in obtaining a fair compromise on the bill proposing to brand the cans with the character, etc., of the products it contains.

A CORRESPONDENT OF THE ASTORIAN wrote a short time ago suggesting that the United States senator should be elected by the direct vote of the people, and made further suggestion that THE ASTORIAN agitate the matter. Even granting that the idea is a good one, which we are not prepared to admit, the work of bringing around such a change would be somewhat slow.

THE great and only original Dr. Tanner, who fasted forty days in New York city in the summer of 1880, is a resident of New Mexico. He is devoting himself to the propagating of a new religion founded on a new Bible, which he claimed was discovered to a new prophet of Jehovah. The name of the new Bible is "Oashde."

THE Crow Indians have the use of 4,713,000 acres of land, 1,000,000 of which are capable of the highest cultivation, yet during all last year and up the present date there were but ten acres cultivated by the government for the Indians and 125 acres tilled by the Crows themselves without assistance from anybody.

Taylor, the Mormon president, has intimated a design of the elders to move the home of the church from Utah, because of the persecutions to which it is subjected by the gentiles. The point to which the removal is to be made is not named, but it must be beyond the boundary of the United States, possibly in Mexico.

THE editor of a Russian daily thus explained the frequent hiatuses in its appearance: "This paper is often in want of information, often in want of writers and in want of money; and sometimes when it has all these, it is in want of readers."

THE Literary World of Boston says: "One must be very patient to wait without a murmur, and be very profitably employed to wait at all, for the appearance of contributions in some of the larger magazines and weekly papers. A correspondent writes that a certain famous young people's weekly accepted from him and paid for a story three years ago which has not yet been published. This recalls the statement of a New England writer that he once waited five years for the appearance of one of his articles in Wide Awake, and a friend of his waited twelve years for the publication of a story accepted at the office of the Atlantic Monthly. There would seem to be some point, after all, to Junius Henri Browne's remark that he would rather saw wood for a living than write for the magazines."

THE Oklahoma region, about which there has been so much excitement, is a tract of land extending from Red river in Indian territory to the Kansas line, containing about 14,000,000 acres. The tract is some 300 miles in length, from north to south, and 200 miles in breadth. It was purchased by the government in 1896, of the Creek, Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw, and Seminole Indians, with a view to settling freedmen and friendly Indians thereon. A good deal of the land is of excellent quality, well watered and tempting to land-grabbers. It is said that none of the purchase money has been paid, while the lands obtained from the Cherokees were by the terms of sale to remain in possession of the tribe until occupied and paid for.

A TABLE of prices in gold of the staple commodities of London, compared with the prices of 1875, shows a reduction of one-half in tea and coffee, and from one-third to one sixth in the prices of many other articles. These are the prices, free of duty, and London being the central market of the world, they may be fairly taken as representing the true market value in gold of each article. The comparison makes very plain the great increase since January 1, 1875, of the purchasing power of gold money and the injustice of saying that silver has depreciated in value relatively to anything except gold.

A TEXAS paper, the Luling Wasp, explains in this way how it expects to keep clear of the sheriff: "We utilize all our stale letters, split open envelopes to get at the unwritten side, and call into service the brown wrapping paper in which we carry home our bundles from the store. Our special telegrams are gotten while the operator is away to dinner and we compel the proprietor to set type, to sweep out the office (monthly), kindle fires, fetch water, make up the forms, entertain visitors, discourage bores, and deliver the paper to city subscribers. We don't expect to bankrupt on this line."

AMONGST the many parts of France, when a sale of land took place, it was the custom to have twelve little boys; and when the price of the land was paid, and its surrender took place, the ears of the boys were pulled and they were severely beaten, so that the pain thus inflicted should leave an impression upon their memory, and, if required afterward, they might bear witness to the sale. Later, when a criminal was being executed, parents whipped their children, so that they might take warning by the example and keep in the path of virtue.

SOMETIME ago a bill was introduced into the New York legislature with a view to make all manufacturers of canned goods have the date of packing stamped upon the can. The N. Y. Commercial Bulletin of the 9th says: The canned goods trade has succeeded in obtaining a fair compromise on the bill proposing to brand the cans with the character, etc., of the products it contains. The date of canning is now omitted from the bill, and manufacturers and dealers now concede that neither they nor the general consumer can be injured by the remaining sections.
