THE OREGON PACIFIC will soon be ready for traffic. Newport has two stores and three dwelling houses in course of construction. At Yaquina city, the terminus of the road, the steamship Yaquina is lying at the dock awaiting orders. The supposition is that she will connect with the railroad as soon as it is ready and will carry freight and passengers to and from San Francisco. The government is at work on the jetty on South Beach.

EL MAHDI.
The man who now confronts the British in the Soudan was made a Khonou, or brother preacher, of the order of Sid Abd-el-Kader about twenty years ago; five years ago he was elected by the council of the order to take command of the army in the south. He was thereupon proclaimed Mahdi (salvation), "the arm of the Almighty," and invested with absolute authority over the faithful, whom he promptly invited to join his forces under penalty of death. His name is Mohammed Ahmed. He was born in Dongola, Nubia, about 1840, and was educated at a religious school near Khartoum.

El Mahdi proclaimed his call to fulfill the prophecy touching the coming prophet of the south, and began to organize an army in 1881. The governor-general of Khartoum commanded him to disavow his pretensions, and sent a small force against him to enforce the command. These the Mahdi soon defeated and dispersed. A second detachment met the same fate; then a column under Reschid Bey was destroyed to the last man. The following January he intercepted an Egyptian corps, on the way to Khartoum, and killed them all; in June, he annihilated another; and still another (under Yusuf Facha) in July. In every case the captured soldiers of the khedive were given to the spears; native soldiers were absorbed into his own army when it suited his purpose.

The next year El Mahdi overcame the Egyptian garrisons at El Obeid, the capital of Khartoum, and killed them all, with the European officers in command. As a rule, Christian and Egyptian civilians, with their women and children, shared the fate of the garrisons. From El Obeid the Mahdi invaded Darfur, but returned to his capital to meet the Egyptian army which had been sent against him under General Hicks. The invaders to the number of 11,000 were surrounded, and mercilessly slaughtered. This in the fore part of November 1883. Last year he wiped out the Egyptian garrisons along the Nile, above and below Khartoum, which stronghold was closely investigated and at last captured, despite the heroic defense of General Gordon. With the fall of these fortified posts, particularly Khartoum, the Mahdi has come into possession of steamers, military stores, in quantity sufficient for a severe and protracted campaign; and the failure and retreat of the British relief expeditions—if nothing worse than failure befalls them—completes the record of his military successes, and necessarily adds much to his prestige as prophet and warrior.

What the issue will be, time only can determine. False prophet or true prophet, El Mahdi commands the situation; and unless Great Britain is prepared to absorb Egypt and the Soudan, and undertake to establish an Ethiopian India in the heart of Africa, any attempt to punish him in Nubia or to dispute his pretensions in the Soudan will cost more than it will come to.

The New York Herald's London correspondent has interviewed a thoughtful Tory who summed up England's crisis as follows: "It means that Irish disloyalty is more rampant than ever; that South Africa is in confusion; that chaos is in Egypt; that Grenville and Bismarck are fighting a diplomatic duel; that the British army is locked up in Soudan and that Russia is at India's gates and that the Amer is holding their keys; that the dynamites are planning more earthquakes and that the increase in the army means an increase in the income of the tea and tobacco tax. There is no crisis in America except the office seeker's crisis. I think if aliens were allowed to hold lands I should not seek an election in parliament, but would start a cattle ranch. If silver ceases to be coined in the United States, India will suffer from deep financial distress. Your new secretary of the treasury, being a bank president, will doubtless press silver demonetization on congress. On the whole, therefore, let me add to the crisis the possible bankruptcy of India, which last year paid this country in interest on debt and military charges $20,000,000 of gold."

Weak in the Knees
There are many people who feel like old street-car horses, and would like to be allowed to lie down and die. These people might as well be made strong and well. Miss S. E. Little, of Jefferson, Mo., writes, "I have found Brown's Iron Bitters very strengthening, and most excellent for dyspepsia, and I have got others to try it with good results." No use of being weak when this valuable medicine will make you strong.

STILL IN THE SADDLE.
If General Wolsley is not actually in the saddle, he is at least able to be there. He send word to the government that his eyesight is unimpaired, his general health good, and his face set toward Khartoum. He does not propose to visit any of the cities on the Red sea or the Mediterranean until he has seen the interior of Khartoum. Probably General Wolsley understands that to return home without having taken Khartoum would be fatal to his reputation as a general. Since his failure to relieve General Gordon, the discovery has been made that he is not much of a general after all. The campaign against Arabia, with the fleet at his right hand and only an undisciplined crowd of Egyptians in front, hardly formed the kind of material of which great military reputations are made. His other campaigns have been too nearly of the same character to establish a record that could stand a reverse without damage. General Wolsley certainly made a mistake in naming the date when he would be in Khartoum. That kind of thing sounds too much like a French romance. He could not more than guess at the month, and when he fixed the day in the month he assumed a precision that is not even given to greater generals than he. But Wolsley belongs to a race that has never been accused of a want of pluck. He will hardly return to England without having taken Khartoum, unless the government concludes that some other general could get to Khartoum sooner than he.

It quickens the patriotic pride of the "American," as all citizens of the United States are called—probably because the states are the best of America—to find the much abused greenback commanding the highest premium of any money in Havana, being worth more than the notes of the Bank of England, or even Uncle Sam's gold. For an American paper dollar you can get $2.50 of Cuban currency, and $1.10 in Spanish gold, while our gold coins are valued at $2.75 in paper and $1.07 in Spanish gold. American silver is accepted in about the same rates. A visitor to Havana no longer wonders what becomes of our coins with holes punched in them. They are plenty here. About half the silver coinage one gets is of the sort repudiated by American street car conductors. When the bankers in the states combined to drive out mutilated coin, the object of their distrust found a welcome asylum in Cuba, and was shipped here by the ton load, and the Cuban shopkeeper will buy and scrape like a dancing master at the sight of a handful of punched and clipped American coins.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.
A Most Nutritious Food and Medicine.—Dr. J. LINDSAY JOHNSON, of Cartersville, Geo., says: "I take great pleasure in saying your Emulsion has proved itself in my hands a most efficient remedy, in the various wasting conditions calling for such nutriment."

Wm. A. Newell passed through Montano Wednesday, on his return from an inspection of the Quineault reservation. He informs the Vilette that the Indians on the reservation are in a very low condition, so far as civilization is concerned, and that they are making slow progress in advancement. The school is in excellent condition, under the management of R. M. Rylatt. For moving the agent's headquarters down the coast an appropriation from the government of $2,000 has been secured. The Vilette also learns from Gov. Newell, president of the Seattle, Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor railroad, that the prospects for the building of the road the coming season are very favorable. Negotiations which have for some length of time been under way for the loan of money and purchase of material, are about completed, and the company will soon be in condition to begin construction.

Mrs. E. Seibert, 71 N. Broadway, Baltimore, Maryland, says she was very much annoyed with a cough and cold, and could get no relief. Finally Red Star Cough Cure was recommended. A few doses cured her.
