according to programme at the adver-tised time yesterday morning. The con-ditions under which it was seen in Astoria ditions under which it was seen in Astoria could not be improved; a light veil of fog floated upward and gave even those who were not provided with smoked glass plenty opportunity to see it. The unusual sight presented many strange phenomena, the changed aspect of earth, air and sky being noticeable. Few of those that looked at it yesterday will see the same eclipse when it occurs again in April, 1939.

Nelson Martin, engineer or purser on the river steamer Gold Dast, came up from Astoria on Wednesday last, says Sunday's Standard, for the purpose of making a sale of the boat and has not been seen since that time. The detect-ives were informed of the matter, although an opinion seems to exist that Martin, by some means, was drowned. The river has been dragged in order, if establishment. possible, to prove the truth of this theory but nothing has been found that would go toward verifying it, except a hat that was picked up supposed to have formerly belonged to the missing man.

A married woman resulting in Union-town came before Justice Goodell yester-day afternoon and told a piteous tale of orruelly on the part of her husband, in-sisting that he be at once arrested, and assuring the justice that she could pro-puce plenty proof of the charges. Tield-ing to her importunities he had the erned husband arrested and lodged in jail, in-tending to have him tried yesterday. But at daybreak yesterday morning she was at the jail door pleading as earnestly to have him let out as on Sunday to have him confined. When the justice appeared she contradicted everything that she had said the morning bofore and at last, hav-ing secured the release of her liege lord, she started home drying her eyes and ap-parently perfectly satisfied.
