PROPERTY DESTROYERS BEATH TRAPS. EDITOR ASTONIAN: Self-preservation is said to be the first law of nature; and I want to propose some very decided op-position to the rebuilding of the asah factory on the site of Mr. C. H. Bain's former such mill. This place has had warning enough of the danger of such mills right in the heart of the city. What with four to a dozen carpenter and cubinet shops and sundry and divers China wash-honses close beside usit is about as comfortable lying down to be the most effective. He said that he could and would deposit as many bombs with time fuses, so that they might be exploded while the Prince of Wales was bodding his levee at the castle. This of-fer was gratefully accepted, and a dozen bombs with clock work attachments were manufactured with some difficulty. The members of the inner circle were chuckembers of the inner circle were chuck ling over the promised success of their plot, and anticipated a grander display of pyrotechnics than had been seen since the late crar was assisted into heaven, but just at this time a report of the plot reached the foreneosi leaders of the Irish anticipated. The second the descendent of the agitators. They promptly denounced the plot, and threatened to resign and repudi-ate the dynamiters altogether, if such an improdent and unfruitful measure should be attempted. A fatal split in the party was imminent, but the influence of the moderate section proved to be the strong-er, and the plot was abandoned. The circle was dissolved and the manifesto of antety was issued. There are many Free Masons among us, and that furnished good reason for the phrasing of the mani-festo, but the main fact is that this vic-tory of the moderate agitators is one of many signs that the idea of political mur-der is losing favor."
