BRUTAL BRIGANDS.

Horrible Torture of a Poor Parish Priest In Spain.

Madrid, April 11.—A cable special says: A horrible outrage is reported from the village of Tubencos. A party of brigands entered the village iste at night and easily gained en-trance into the house of the parish priest. They demanded that the priest should tell them where he kept his money. He replied that all he had belonged to the poor of the par-ish, and refused to disclose its hiding place. They then proceeded to tor-ture him, to compel him to reveal the secret. They threw him upon the floor, and two rufflans gouged his eyes out with their thumbs. They repeated their demand and the priest still refused. They pulled out his tongue to its full length and seared it with a hot iron. The priest by this time was in the most frightful agony and unable to speak, but still refused by signs to reveal the hiding place of the poor-box. The brigands again threw him upon the brick floor of his kitchen and proceeded to ransack the house. Failing to find any money, they returned to the kitchen in a more fiendish temper than before The priest was dying, but they stuffed his clothing with straw, set fire to it and left the house. When the body of the priest was found it was burned to a crisp. The authorities have sent troops in pursuit of the brigands Mons Rampallo del Tindaro, Papal Nuncio at Madrid, is maddened at the outrage and insists that the Spanish government shall offer a huge reward for the capture of the murder-

THE BONE OF CONTENTION.

The disputed territory which lies between Herat and the Bobat pass, forty miles north of Herat, and which Sir Peter Lumsden is endeavoring to secure against the Russians, is a fair sample of the general character of northern Afghanistan. For the whole of the eleven miles from Herat to Parwana the road (if such it may be called) winds steadily uphill, over successive ridges of bare, broken rock, hannted by small green snakes. Beyond Parwana it dips slightly and then rises again by degrees to its maximum height of 6,000 feet at the "town" of Kenshk, a cluster of mud hovels grouped around a tumble-down fort. The famous pass itself, steep, narrow, winding and almost blocked in more than one place with masses of rock that have shelved from the huge crumbling cliffs above, is the most dismal spot imaginable, ill-deserving its name of "Robat" (house of shelter). This charming region is peopled by Jamshidi Tartars, who live chiefly in .cuts of black felt spread upon poles. They are a strong and hardy race, despite their short stature, but far from coura-geous in battle, having the true Tartar horror of "big pistols," (artillery) The caravan route through this tracfollows one of the chief tributaries of Murghab, appropriately named "Kbushk" (dry), its usual condition in the height of summer.

Most of those who went to northern Yakima have been back home several days, says an exchange. They didn't find twenty-dollar pieces growing on the sage brush over there. Yakima with its natural healthy growth and development, is all right, but this big flatulent railroad booming hurts a country more than it does good. The marvelous stories told by mendicant newspaper writers and railroad cappers ridiculously exag-gerated everything, and when people go and see for themselves they are disgusted that they fail to see half the good things about the country. reaction that follows these mis erable speculators' booms is always depressing. Give us a good healthy steady growth and development, but heaven save us from a railroad boom

Carence E. Nichols, aged 24, was killed Thursday night, just opposite the Maylor place, on the Barnes county road, three miles from the city, by the wagon which he was driv-ing upsetting upon him. The road at this point is very steep and narrow, and is very difficult traveling. Nichols had been working for a gardener named Andrea Braresco, whose place is six miles from the city, and Thurs. day came to town with a load of vegetables. At 9 o'clock that evening he started homeward, being slightly intoxicated. The body was discovered at 2:30 a. M. yesterday, with the back of the wagon seat across his neck, death having been caused by strangulation.- Portland News, 11.

Every body recollects the logger at lately discovered on the Fraser river, forty miles from New Westminster, three miles in length, ten to forty feet wide, and 100 feet high. Specimens are to be asseyed in San Francisco and a company formed to smelt the ore, which is exceedingly rich.

The Northern Pacific land department sold in March 33,349 acres of land, for which was received $154,534. Of these 17,798 acres were sold in Minnesota and Dakota for $100,049. The total sales for March, 1884, were 21,826 acres for $110,936; increase for 1885, 2,523 acres and $43,098.
