FISHERMEN'S MEETING.

A Committee Appointed to Confer with the Three Bad Burglars going to St. Helens to Where People Live on Seventy-Sive Cents Canners.

Pursuant to notice in Sunday's Astroman, a large crowd of fishermen and ty was at the St. Charles yesterday, says western end of the key. It is densely setothers assembled at the court house yes. the Oregonian of the 11th, with a pocket tled, and about as an-American as possimen strike, that it was necessary to pro-ceed with prudence and caution and keep strictly within the limits of judgment and moderation in whatever conclusions the meeting might decide upon: WHEREAS, The fishing sesson of 1885 has commenced and there seems to be a misunderstanding about the price of salmon, and some of the canners that the fishermen should strike at this time, WHENEAS, Matters of this kind should be properly adjusted by the parties interested, be it

Resolved, that a committee of twelve fishermen be elected by this meeting whose duty it shall be to arrange matters with the canneries of the Columbia river in the following manner:

1. To invite the canners to a conference.

2. To propose to said canners to reduce the boats on the river one-half.

3. That the canners should pledge themselves not to take or purchase any salmon from any traps.

4. If these concessions are made to so fishing.

4. If these concessions are made to go fishing.

Mr. Dealy made a speech regarding the relative situation between capital and labor, in which he said that there were thirty-four fish traps in this vicinity, and said that that interested fishermen as much as enything else. He said that on one occasion a man brought to the Columbia Canning Co. three scow loads of fish which he offered for $25. After the conclusion of his speech sundry remarks were made, the first speaker, Robt. Grant, urging that the fisherman take the matter in their hands and pull out Grant, urging that the fisherman take the matter in their hands and pull out the fish traps; his remarks meeting with applause. He thought the cannerymen couldn't afford to give 60 cents but they could afford to give more than 45. The president thought that when the time ceme to do that there would only be a few to do it and the rest would skulk; he didn't believe that was the way to talk and that the association when it stepped outside the law was wrong. He recounted what had been done and stated that all that could be done was now dothat all that could be done was now doing, and that overt acts were wrong and unjustifiable. He counseled that the proper course was to confer with the cannerymen, but in no way to go outside the law, and above all things to go slow and not do anything hastily that would make trouble and defer the settlement of the question.

Another speaker said there was no use fooling the time away; to make the price sixty cents, and called for a resolution to that effect. It was then proposed that a contract be demanded from the cannerymen to last through the season and that it be understood that the canners be made take fish at a regular price from the gill net fishers.

Mr. Fisk has extensive cuttle interests in eastern Oregon and he had just come down from that country and paid off some men in his employ, and it was supposed that he might have brought down considerable coin.

On the evening of April 29th they started out to rob Mr. Fisk's house, but ascertaining that he had not gone back to eastern Oregon as they supposed, they determined to put off the job to a more convenient season and try for something easier. So they traveled along till they came to Daniel Newcomb's house. He happened to be away from home so the three bold burglars concluded that they would burgle the place. They broke into the house and stole some of Mr. Nowcomb's clothes. Sheriff Watta was after the robbers early next monring but the only clue he could find was the heel of a footprint in the plowed ground near Newcomb's house. The ruscals had carefully obliterated their tracks excepting this mark. Shortly after he met Keil riding a shown. The key has been settled for fifty years; every tropical or semi-tropical tree, shrub or flower known to man has but to be planted to grow, and the city is bare, hot and verdureless. The only clue he could find was the boot in the dirt. The young scoundrel turned are the house." "Who did?" act as porters and stevedores, and do the bulk of the heavy sitting around.
