DECORATION DAY

In was thoughtful and timely in Commander Kountz, of the Grand Army of the republic, to speak of the proper observance of to-day, in his general order which appears in another column enjoy ourselves and leave a few faith- ment June 3rd. ful souls to decorate the graves and remember those who occupy them, is ation Day-a "communion of saints" in which all the nation may participate was instituted, and we cannot afford to lose sight of the true significance of the festival. No one is because the annual occasion for strewing flowers on soldiers' graves has made its appearance; but pleasure may be decorous, and still be quite as year to correspond with Good Friday in the church year, for no people can be great, or even stable, who are not thoughtful and greated.

The Grand Army of the Republic can do much to reform the observance of Decoration day. The comrades have yearly set an example that does credit to them. Now let them admonish the people, and take steps to see that the "general good time" clause is stricken from the public programme for the day, so that everything may be done decently and in Viewed in this light, Decoration day is something more than a mere holiday, and its observance more than an idle ceremony. Let Astoria, with all her wealth of flower and bud and blossom, not forget the gallant boys who sleep beneath the sod of many a soldier's cemetery. They cannot see our loving deeds or hear our words of gratitude; but a lasting lesson will be taught to prattling tongues and wondering eyes—a lesson of patriotism and devotion.

Wan is at best the last resort, after all peace measures have failed. Under the highest civilization we believe that ultimately all interna ional disputes will be settled by peaceful arbitration. But probably the nations are not ready for such a mode of settlement. Russin, with its savculties at home; with its unnumerable adverse forces of revolutionists, nihilists, socialists, and every form of domestic disfurbers of the peace, is glad of any foreign distraction that will give education to its military, and prepare them for the perpetual contest with other powers which the first Napoleon foresaw and foretold, and which has been the secret national policy from the time of Peter the Great. In past ages, prophets, priests and kings had their special mission. Their words and commands were spoken direct to their hearers, or conveyed by heralds through the land. Since the invention of printing, a gradual change has been brought about The word of the pulpit, though great does not and need not clash with that of the newspaper. The voice of one man may reach hundreds, while the printed thoughts of another may influence thousands for good or evil. The writer may be unknown, but "his words may breathe and his thoughts burn." They may send a thrill through a nation and rouse into activity latent forces.

IT is stated that Gladstone has pacified Italy by deciding to retain a very small British garrison at Suakim, instead of turning the place over to Turkish troops, and by carrying out the rest of the old agree ment for joint Anglo-Italian occupation of the Red sea ports. The rayages of typhus fever among the Italian troops, however, have caused a revulsion of public feeling in Italy, and the Italian government is being urged to recall the expedition.

Ar the battle of Gettysburg, one of the Union burial parties buried eighty Federal soldiers in one trench. They were all from a New York regiment, and all had seemingly been killed by one volley. They were almost in line, taking up but little more room than live men. All of them were shot about the hips, and not one of them appa rently lived ten killed by one volley. They were almost in line, taking up but little not one of them apparently lived ten minutes after being hit.

THE statement is made that Col. Charles Morton, who is being urged for the postmastership of Augusta, Me., will be refused the appointment s, how can we avert a general bust up? It is evident that something must be done, and done soon. Simple talk wou help. We must not indulge in luxuries we must economise and be careful.

If you are in need of anything, inquire for prices: don't trade in a certain store because Mr. Jones or Mrs. Brown do, think for your self. Now, for instance a certain article we know that no other store in Astoria can afford to sell the same thing at the same price, because goods are from 25 to 35 per cent cheaper now than they were when the old stocks were bought.

TO THE PUBLIC

Ilaving opened a general Dry Goods and Clothing store only recently, we bought our stock at greatly reduced figures, and we bought for cash besides, which means a further reduction of 6 per cent, so that we are ahead altogether as far as prices are concerned.

At any rate we invite the reasoning public to call and compare prices and if anybody can do better we will not claim
