ASTORIA, OREGON:

THE FIGHTING INSTINCT IN MAN,

Turner is not the slightest certainty would put an end to war; while there will face any means of destruction wints over, if also they possess it theraselves. Give two men pistols, and they will fight across a handker-chief. They are not afraid of death, but only of death without a chance of victory. King Theodore of Abyssima asked his courtiers when the rocket sticks fell at his feet if he could be reasonably expected to face things like those, and ultimately in the case of the courtiers are concerned to which the civil service rules do not apply.

Disease I once defined an Irishman as "a being who rules every country but his own." From the present the beginning of the fishing seather that might be carried in cans rand all other supplies, and should there be what is familiarly called any previous deficiency, and the continued depression of the market has caused a continuance of their indifference about increasing the pack.

Few anners. could be reasonably expected to face things like those, and ultimately in pure despair of defeating science with unscientific weapons, killed himself, but if he also had possessed rockets he would have fought on. No men, addiers or sailors, will face shells without shells to throw back; but when they have shells, they face the enemy's shells as bravely as they did the old round shot. The methods of war are changed by science but war is not extinguished. Suppose it is not extinguished. Suppose it is not extinguished. Suppose it is to thing the first of as a being who rules every country but his own. From the present English status, it looks as if the Irish were masters of the situation in the House of Commons. Radicals, Liberals, Co., White Star Packing Co., the upper cannery of Warren & Co., E. D. Hume, and Jas. Quinn, the first four of which unstending to pack.

War would then consist mainly of efforts to obtain advantageous positions, from which showers of death would be thrown but war would not cease. Forlorn hopes would be organized among chemists or mechanicians as easily as among soldiers, enormous rewards would be paid to the new warriors, and nations would fight each other Tun death of James H. Rutter, president of the New York Central, removes one, says the Chronicle, of the ablest railroad men in the country. Butter came up from the ranks and received much of his training under old Commodore Vanderbilt. He was appointed traffic manager when the commodore found the business of the road growing beyond his reach. Like all the men who had been accustomed to rely upon the old autocrat for his decisions, Rutter one day soon after his appointment referred a knotty freight problem to him for settlement. The old man looked at his officer for a moment and then said: "Jim, how much do I pay you a year?" Butter replied, stating his salary. "Well," said the commodore, I pay you that to have you settle just such points as these. Don't ever bring any more freight business to me unless I tell you to." When Wm. H. Vanderbilt retired from active control of the Central, Rutter was appointed president with a salary, it is understood, of $40,000 a year. He Watches, Jewelry, Clocks, has held his new position only about a year, dying in the prime of life and in the fullness of his strength.

REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER'S SETmon last Sunday was devoted to a reconciliation of the facts of evolution with the fact of human sinful ness. He said: "The idea that God created the human race and that two of them without experience were put under the temptation of the arch fiend, and fell in disobedience to what they did not understand and were kicked out of the garden as no parent would treat a child, transmitted corruption that the result of disobedience through countless ages, was wrong. I hate it," he said, "because I love God, and abhor it because I love justice." He went on to say At reasonable rates, either by day or job that if all the human beings created in conditions of imperfection and A Portion of the Public Patrenage is Solleited transgression were waiting in unmitigable torment he never wished to mention the name of God again, or to violate his own nature by calling him father. A murmur of surprise spread Holden's Auction Rooms through the vast congregation at the close of the sermon.

who believe cholera to be caused by a bacillus which poisons food and water, that the germ may be killed by heat, and they recommend that all water should be boiled and all food cooked before it is drunk or enten. The theory is new but the practice is old. In 1849 the cholera raged in Paris, Ky., with great violence. A family of thirty whites and blacks, had not a single case of sickness among its members, yet no precautions were taken except to cook the food and boil the drinking water.

The likenesses of many that are prominent in the history or polities of our country have appeared in our columns; we now show the features of one of the most enterprising of our citizens nearer home. The above cut represents R. L. Jeffery, more familiarly known as "JEFF" of the Chop House, also propri for of the Telephone Saloon, a new enterprise and one of the neatest and most complete saloons in the state, conducted in the San Francisco style. A fine lunch is set and all that goes to make a saloon attractive is there, including a fine Billiard Table, Piano, latest papers, etc. The popular and well known Justus Edwards is manager of this famous resort.
