A QUESTION ABOUT

Brown's Iron Bitters

ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times: "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe it. It is a powerful tonic, and its use is recommended by all leading medical authorities. THE OLD VANDERBILT.

How the Commodore's Offer Was Misunderstood.

Nothing seems so welcome to the people just now as reminiscences of the late war. The passion and ill-feeling of the contest have passed away, never to return, but every one listens with increased interest to the authentic relation of incidents and events of the long struggle. J. C. Derby, the veteran publisher of this city, contributes his quota in his "Fifty Years Among Authors," recently given to the world. During the war, while holding a position of confidence in the state department, he was charged by Secretary Seward to convey to the late Commodore Vanderbilt the thanks of congress for the "free gift" he had made to his imperiled country of his new and staunch steamship Vanderbilt of 5,000 tons burden, built by him with the greatest care, of the best materials, at a cost of $500,000. The resolutions of thanks, superbly engrossed upon parchment and enclosed in an elegant frame, were duly presented to Mr. Derby.

His reception by the commodore was peculiar and characteristic. He read them over carefully, then looked at the official conveyer of the same, and finally broke into speech: "I never gave that ship to congress. When the government was in great straits for a suitable vessel of war, I offered to give the ship if they did not care to buy it. However Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Welles think it was a gift and I suppose I shall have to let her go."

Upon referring to the original letter offering the vessel to the government Mr. Seward found that the commodore's version was correct. He offered to sell her "at a valuation," and added in his bluff, off-hand manner: "If this will not answer, will the government accept her as a present from its humble servant?"

This was only the commodore's hearty way of saying: "I will not drive a bargain with my country in her hour of peril. Take the ship on your own terms, gentlemen, or on no terms at all." In the hurry and excitement of the time the letter was misunderstood and the whole world was misinformed. It was a costly error to Commodore Vanderbilt, but one which he probably never regretted.—Chicago Tribune.

MORE JUSTICE, LESS LAW.

What the people in Oregon need is more justice and less law and red tape and fooling. It is an impossibility for a laborer to recover in court an amount due for services without an expenditure of from fifteen to fifty dollars cash to commence the suit. More than one thousand men and women in this state, after having toiled long and honestly for a few dollars, have been bilked out of their just earnings and found the courts practically locked and bolted in their faces. Many persons have allowed themselves to be bullied out of sums from $100 down, because the law is so expensive, perhaps, the utility of attempting to obtain justice before the law without giving all or more than all of the sums involved as lawyers' and court fees. Numbers of employers in Oregon, knowing the fact that there is no law for a man with an empty purse, pay those who labor for them in such manner as they see fit—often not seeing fit to pay anything. But the thousands of lawyers in the United States, living off the injustice dealt out to the people, manage to make litigation as expensive as possible, and when any endeavor is made to simplify law proceedings, manage to throttle it quickly and effectively.

All cases involving sums of less than $100 should be submitted to arbitration on the demand of either plaintiff or defendant; the decision of the arbitrators should be final and unappealable. The whole cost of such an action should not exceed five dollars, the expenses to be paid by the losing party. Then, when a farm hand was kicked out on the road with a week's wages coming to him and not a penny in his pocket, there would be a chance to obtain his dues.—Fiddler

The people of Guatemala have a peculiar way of preparing their coffee for the table. Every week or so a quantity of the berry is ground and roasted, and hot water poured slowly upon it. The black liquid which drips through is permitted to cool, when it is placed in a bottle and set upon the table like vinegar or Worcestershire sauce. Pots of hot water and milk are furnished, with which the coffee drinker may dilute the cold, black syrup to such a weakness as he likes. This plan has its advantages, but it takes a long time to become accustomed to it.

There is a "cow-tree" that grows in Venezuela that, when tapped gives out a sap that is white, milky, and nutritious. It has several advantages over the native American cow. The milk of the tree contains more milk and less water, and the tree can't kick you clean across the bar-yard and through a panel of rail fence if you happen to stand on the wrong side when you tap it for milk.

A CITY ON WHEELS.

One of the most curious of cities consists of wooden huts on wheels, the number of about one hundred and thirty, which, when the season arrives, are rolled on to the ice in Saginaw bay, Lake Huron. The population of this "city without a name" is about five hundred. Each hut is furnished with cooking utensils, hammocks and a stove, and is occupied by three men, whose business on the ice is to follow up a peculiar method of fishing. In the center of each hut a hole is dug to the water about a yard square. One of the fishermen then takes a live fish of the herring tribe, and after fastening it to a piece of pack thread drops it into the water. The fish dashes away swift as an arrow until it is pulled up by the thread, when it returns toward the hole, followed by a host of pike and other large fish desirous to feast on the dainty morsel. Beside the hole stands the fisherman, harpoon in hand, waiting the arrival of the pike, who, when received with a thrust at a four or five pronged instrument, which rarely fails to bring up writhing victims. Some huts can show two hundred of fine fish at the end of a day's work. The most weird appearance of this city is at night, when the fishermen prosecute the work by the light of the torches, which, as is well known, attract fish without the aid of the herring bait. The glancing torches and the shadows of the men leaning over the holes make a strange spectacle. If fish are not abundant in the spot first chosen, the huts are wheeled to another site. This city of fishers is about ten miles from Bay City, and six miles from the mouth of the Saginaw river and banks of the lake. The road thither on the ice is much frequented, not only by those who have business there, but also by the curious, who find their interest in the excursion enhanced by the magnificent course for sleigh driving which the ten miles of ice present.

Lesson from a Mastodon.

The tusks of a mastodon recently found in Illinois weighed 175 pounds each. What a gigantic toothache that animal must have been capable of having! And such neuralgia! Neuralgia, or nerve-ache, generally proceeds from a disordered condition of the blood. Brown's Iron Bitters cures and purifies this and drives neuralgia out. Mr. W. W. Redman, Elgin, Ill., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters permanently cured me of neuralgia."

A recent telegram from Ottawa states that the contract for building the round house at Port Moody had been let the day previous. This also includes extending the wharf with iron piles, all of which will give employment to a large force of men. The high-toned speculators who invested their all in Coal Harbor must feel that stocks with them are down.

In the World.

The Sydney, Australia, Herald says: "England, India, Canada, Spain, France, New Zealand, Australia and nearly every other civilized power have recorded their grateful appreciation of the merits of St. Jacobs Oil."

There is a great deal of religion in this world that is like a life preserver only put on at the moment of immediate danger, and then half the time put on hind-side before.—Josh Billings.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphite For Rheumatism, Syphilis and Anemia.—As these diseases are all the results of an impoverished condition of the blood, nothing will build up the system and enrich and vitalize the blood and assist nature to overcome this condition so quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

Yaquina Post: All work on the jetty has ceased, the employees paid off and most if not all of them gone outside. Mr. Polhemus will probably remain a few days longer, taking soundings of the bar, etc., when he will probably go to Portland and be employed at headquarters.

Are You Tired of Being Sick? We want to say a word to the men, women and girls who work in stores, offices and factories. There are hundreds of thousands of you in the country. Very few of you are well. You are shut up too much and exercise too little. In this way you get sick. Your blood is bad, your digestion poor, your head often aches, you don't feel like work. Your liver, stomach and kidneys are out of order. Parker's Tonic has cured hundreds of such cases. It is pure, sure and pleasant.

Eating is a Torture. And sleep often a mere travesty of repose, to the dyspeptic. Appetite is correspondingly impaired by this most prevalent of maladies, and headaches, biliousness, constipation, poverty of the blood, loss of flesh and of vitality, and a thousand annoying and indefinable sensations are its concomitants. It is, moreover, the propitiator of numerous and formidable bodily disorders. Obstinately as it is, however, its complete eradication may be effected by the persistent use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which communicates both vigor and regularity to the organs of digestion and secretion, relaxes the bowels gently but thoroughly, enriches and purifies the blood, promotes appetite, and gives tranquility to the nervous system. Persons of weakly constitution and physique, who use this superb tonic infallibly derive from it the stamina of which they stand so much in need, and it is invariably successful in remedying and preventing malarial diseases.
