Notice to Advertisers.
THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.
This paper is on file at the St. Charles Hotel, Portland, Or.

The Lucas has arrived out.
The new postal cards are pink.
Social at Ladies' Coffee Club this evening.
The bark Bismah is now due from Honolulu.
To-morrow night, "The Shadows of a Great City."

There are 280 prisoners in the Salem penitentiary.
Ex-Senator Slater will orate at Baker City on the 4th.
Jas. O. Spencer has been appointed notary public at Clifton.
Considerable street work is being done in several parts of the city.
The schooner Alcalde arrived in freight laden from San Francisco yesterday.
The R. R. Thompson started for Portland at six o'clock yesterday evening.

The State arrived in at nine yesterday morning; the Columbia sailed at noon.
Reserved seats for Janaschek's matchless impersonations at the New York Novelty store.
No. 1 Vol. 1 of the Oregonian Review, published by Messrs. Douthill & Barnes, at Princeton, is received.

Elijah Smith, president of the O. R. & N. company, was in the city yesterday on his way to San Francisco.
Frank Owen, whose memory is dear to some, is about to start a "newspaper," the Beaver at Snohomish, W. T.
The Chronicle asserts that there are twelve hotels in Seattle which would prove death-traps in case of a sudden fire.

"The shadows of a great city" then Janaschek; then "A mountain peak," "Peek's bad boy"; the next will be something else.
Chinamen boast that for $150 besides the regular fare they have no difficulty in getting over the line from British Columbia to this country.
The Astoria Ladies' Coffee club will have a pleasant social at their rooms this evening. A handsome lunch and later in the evening music and dancing.

The regular public examination of persons wishing to obtain certificates to teach in Clatsop county, begins at the court house at nine o'clock this morning.
The Sesside House on Clatsop beach opens to-morrow under the experienced management of Chas. Ohle. It is well fitted up and every attention will be paid guests. See ad't.
There will be a special meeting of the city council this evening to appoint a policeman in place of Jno. Curran who was elected at the last meeting of the council and who declines to serve.

A Salem drunk has a card in the Statesman thanking the police force for their kindness to him while confined in jail. This is a new departure in the matter of "Cards of Thanks" that are now so common.
In the early morning the twinkling fires in the houses of the fishing fleet in the stream bound westward look as though the stars of heaven were multiplied and reflected in the translucent depths.

Charles A. Strauss has been appointed a naval cadet to Indianapolis by Hon. Binger Hermann, congressman elect, to succeed young Strang. Master Strauss is 17 years of age and a graduate of the Portland high school.
The seaside season has about begun. Our visitors are welcome; they will find abundance of good things. Good digestion will wait on appetite and health on both; sweet sleep and renewed vigor will be theirs, and when they return to their inland homes it will doubtless be with the kindliest remembrance of the kindly climate that has so marvelously invigorated their wearied frames.

There is little stirring in the county offices. County Clerk Trenchard issues an occasional marriage license and records some real estate transfers. Sheriff Ross has a deputy up at Elliot's landing to keep off all intruders; the county court will have a session on the 6th of July; the jail looks as picturesque as ever; County Treasurer Bergman is busy calculating interest on warrants presented prior to Oct. 1st, '33 and paying the same.
The Oregon Spectator of February, 1936, gives a list of the vessels entering and leaving the Columbia for the year ending in February, 1936. There were nine arrivals, comprising the Hudson Bay company's bark Vancouver and Cowit, and schooner Cadboro, the American brig Frederick, Swedish brig Bull, and the British brig Modeste. Some of these entered twice in the year. The departures also numbered nine.

There's a good story going around of a certain man on whom a counterfeit half-dollar was recently passed. He said nothing till the chap that passed it on him gave himself away by inquiring about it. Then he gave him to understand that he had no difficulty in working it off; that the government redeemed bad money occasionally to keep it out of circulation, and he was one of the few that could fix matters. The listener bit, swallowed hook and line, and in a week turned up with all sorts of counterfeit money that he had hunted up, begged, borrowed and stole, bought at a discount and every way. He expected to make a winning, but when the party of the first part laughed at him, he at last saw that he had been victimized himself a hundred times worse than the man on whom he had passed the counterfeit half-dollar, and who had adopted this plan of getting even with the fellow.

Notice.
Dr. Jay Tuttle desires the person who has his ear syringe to return it at once to his office or residence.

Attention Knights!
The members of Astoria Lodge, No. 6, K. of P. are hereby requested to assemble at their Castle Hall on Friday evening, June 25th, 1933, at 8 o'clock p.m. for the transaction of business. By order of the C. C.

W. L. ROBB, K. of R. and S.

BODY FOUND.
CATHLAMET, W. T., June 24th, 1933.
EDITOR ASTORIAN:
While G. F. McNally, fisherman for Eureka Packing company was drifting near Cathlamet this morning, he caught the body of a man in his net, and tied it to the shore of Puget island, J. H. Graham, justice of the peace was notified, and summoning a jury proceeded to the place where the body was tied, but the jury having been in the water so long the jury were unable to give to the man's age, complexion, color of hair, nationality or cause of death, unless by accidental drowning; height about 5 feet ten inches, weight when living about 150. What clothes remained on the body were very rotten, part of a white and black checked woolen overshirt remained around the neck, black pants, red woolen drawers, canvas boot right foot, No. 9, well worn. The body was found near the place where found with thoughts of sorrow for the fate of the unfortunate man.

SOMETHING NEW.
The Columbia Rapids Tag and Portage Co. filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office yesterday. The incorporators are Jay Tuttle, Wm. McCormick and J. O. Rozorth. The capital stock is $50,000, the object is to build, equip, own and operate one or more rapid tag boats. The intention is to build a working model of the invention of Wm. McCormick and give it a practical test at the cascade.
Referring to the invention under date of the 25th inst., writing to the inventor, U. B. Scott, captain of the Telephone, says: "My opinion is your ideas are good; that your apparatus will do the work you claim. I am very anxious to see it thoroughly tested."
U. B. Scott.

A War of Wits.
Last Tuesday morning two drunken men on the roadway near Union town upset two Chinamen. The Chinamen got some of their crowd together and beat the men. The men got some of their crowd together and made it equally unpleasant for the Chinamen. The Chinamen then took refuge in their headquarters. Their assailants increased in numbers, made another assault upon the Mongolian stronghold. The descendants of Zenghis Khan sallied forth with knives and clubs; their opponents rendered for the fray when Moser, Tallant and Smith got between the belligerents and succeeded in calming their angry passions. The fire still smolders and may yet be quenched in gore.

Shadows of a Great City.
We are to have presented at the Rose Opera house on Saturday evening, June 27, that sterling melo-drama, "Shadows of a Great City," one of the best pieces of the kind yet given to the public. Unlike most melo-dramas to which we have been introduced, "Shadows of a Great City" is an American play, and is American in everything. The scenic effects introduced are realistic, and the characters are types of every-day life seen in any city. The plot is a pleasant departure from the old repetitions of English melo-dramas. One of the great features of the play is the abundance of incidents, thrilling and exciting, which rapidly follow each other, keeping the audience interested throughout the play. The company presenting this play is one of the strongest organizations on the road, the names that head it—Lewis Morrison, George Osbourne, and L. R. Stockwell—being a guarantee of its strength and character. The novelty is offered on sale at the New York Novelty store.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT NOTES.
J. M. Shively vs W. W. Parker et al; motion to strike out parts of answer denied; plaintiff ten days to reply to new matter in answer.
Shively vs Grant; motion to strike out parts of complaint allowed.
Shively vs Noyes; motion to strike out parts of complaint allowed; twenty days to answer.
And now 'tis almost time sweet maidens think
From urban dust and smoke and heat to flee,
To put aside the rollers of the rink
And sport among the rollers of the sea.

Meeting Saturday Evening.
There will be a business meeting of the British Benevolent Association at the Rooms of Albert H. & L. Co. No. 1, on Saturday evening, the 23rd inst., at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of all members and those desirous of becoming members, is requested.
W. G. RICHARDSON, Sec'y.

Ladies' Coffee Club Social.
The Ladies' Coffee Club will give a social at their hall, over D. L. Beck & Son's store, on Friday evening. Music, refreshments and dancing will be the attractions of the evening.

First class photos at Partridge's.
Notice.

A COMMON ILLUSION.
"He's a Wonderful Genius—Pity He Drinks."
"Don't you know," said the barkeeper as he mixed up a little cough medicine, while the reporter nipped a clove, "that there are lots of young men who love to boast of what they might have been before they were ruined by drink, and it is only too true that whiskey had very little to do when it ruined them. In this business I have met hundreds of men whom honest people look upon, exclaiming, 'O, there's no telling what great things they might do if it wasn't for the curse of whiskey.' If those chaps were sober, their real merits would shine out, and you can put this down, they would give an exceedingly poor light."
"But have you never come across an individual who would be of some use to the world were it not that his intellect was blunted by excessive indulgence in liquor?" asked the reporter.
"Oh yes! heaps of 'em—geniuses!—If you could drop in here some evening, I'd point you out a lawyer who was a worthless one in his time, but who is now talked of as if he could be the first jurist of the day—only for his appetite. Whenever a fourth-rate doctor or lawyer takes to drink, he begins right off to get a reputation; and although people don't employ them, they shake their heads and sigh, 'What a pity it is that so-and-so drinks.' He's got remarkable talent, and there's nothing he couldn't do if he'd only let liquor alone." It sets me wild to have to listen to such foolishness; but you know a better man than I always say what he thinks.
"I tell you that half of them indulge for the sake of making a qualified name and reputation."
"You have implied as much."
"Well, I'll say it again; it's true. Let a mechanic go reeling along the street three days out of six, and folks will point him out as the best mechanic that ever struck the town. Wonderful man, that! He could be a millionaire if he only wouldn't drink."
"This genius talk is worse with new papers than with any other class. You know yourself that there's hardly a lull on a newspaper that isn't considered a genius, and this simply because he is a lull. If these drunken geniuses would get sober, they give themselves away by showing what friends they are. The best printers work steadily and well, and don't get any credit for it; if they make any failures they are blamed about. The lull doesn't fail, because he never does anything worthy of an attempt that might result in a failure."
"Good night!"

SPRING STYLES IN NEWSPAPERS.
Spring styles in the best newspaper society show a number of changes. Credits are now usually worn at the bottom of the item. Their use is "de rigueur." In ultra-fashionable offices this season "our esteemed exchange" has quite taken the place of "our contemporary." In the funny columns the "chie" thing is to joke at the jokes. An "ennui" air with the old mother-in-law, plumber and ice cream squibs is much affected. The addition of the word "chestnut" or "rats" at the end of an item is esteemed a neat thing in trimmings. Full dress this year is worn in shades a trifle darker than last season. The late spring thaws and swollen streams have nudged the water used in the paper mills. The "we" is now worn chiefly with the facetious paragraph. In brevity editorial it is "en route" only with the gravely dignified "not ensemble." Snake stories retain their popularity. They are worn a trifle plainer and with less garniture of the same than last season. Headlines are worn plain, of the same material as the body of the article. The alliterative and old-colored Dold Varden styles are esteemed marks of vulgarity and lack of acquaintance with "le beau monde." For facings to the general editorial the playful pun is no longer the mode. It has been superseded by the artful syllogism. In dramatic criticism the sombre half mourning style of last year has given way to the colorful and very low in the corse. The recent farewell to Irving by Willie Winter is noted as the most "decadent" thing in this line yet exhibited. In affidavits of circulation this season no novelties are noted. The old style of taking the total issue on weekly day, multiplying by three and committing perjury before a notary public, is still all the rage. Buncome wagers offered rival publishers are still used as trimmings in the east. In lingerie a pretty thing is a lady society reporter, who does not try to slip in puffs of dry goods houses nor stab her lady friends in accounts of receptions. The novelty is excused in supply by the demand.—Chicago Tribune.

He hies to scenes of rural bliss,
To spend a month in idleness,
And hopes to have his better nature
By country air and country board.
He little knows, and more's the pity,
The board each day comes from the city.

THE MORTGAGE TAX LAW.
EDITOR ASTORIAN:
There has been much controversy about the mortgage tax law of this state. The moneyed man believing that it is not a good or just law and the other side believing that foreign capital should pay its legitimate share of taxes. Looking at this matter from an equitable point mortgages are not indebtedness, but a bond to secure payments of different amounts of money, and sometimes at different places. The indebtedness is not vested in the mortgage but in the notes that the mortgage or bond is given to secure, and until those notes become due that the mortgage is given to secure the mortgagee and also the foreclosure of the mortgage is also in the district court where the owner of these notes or values that the mortgages are sold. Then it follows as a matter of certainty that the equity of an administration or partition of a persons estate is where he lives and at no other place. The divorce laws of the states develop this feature in the laws of equity that a woman can and often does secure a divorce from her husband in courts that have no jurisdiction to partition the husbands or joint estate, but these courts cannot partition the estate of the parties unless the suit is brought where the husband lives for all joint or family titles are in his name. This question of mortgages presents about the same questions as that of cases of divorce—both are a forfeiture of a bond or contract only—and courts to have jurisdiction on cases arising, must be in the district where the owners or parties reside. A note that is secured by mortgage is also negotiable and can be sold upon at common law, and also collected independent of the mortgage that secures the notes, and a note that is secured by a mortgage might fall into hands that had no knowledge of the mortgage or bond security, and collected the same as an unsecured note. There is no difference between notes both the mortgage and unsecured notes are negotiable and it follows that notes and mortgages are assessable only where their owners residence is. These being the facts the Oregon mortgage tax law is only boys play, and will only end in making fees for pettifoggers.
O. P. HENRY.

Convicts have for some time been busily engaged manufacturing the brick or the additions to be made to the penitentiary. It is thought that the work will be completed by the latter part of the fall. By that time also many improvements already marked out for the penitentiary will be completed. The active work will begin on the state house. Probably the first improvement made there will be the finishing and furnishing of the representatives' hall. Since the repairs to be made are under roof, the work can be done in the winter. It is not likely that the dome will be completed before the next legislature.—Salem Statesman.
