LEMBERING ON PUGET SOUND.
 The Tacoma News gives the following estimate, based upon reliable information, of the daily output of logs at the various logging camps on Puget sound:

Olympia camps.....	105,000
Black Lake.....	40,000
Oyster bay.....	25,000
Little Skookum.....	70,000
Mud bay.....	22,000
Big Skookum.....	40,000
North bay.....	18,000
Hartstein island.....	30,000
Henderson bay.....	14,000
West passage.....	12,000
Vashon island.....	30,000
One on Hood's canal.....	30,000
Whidby island.....	31,000
Chamano.....	20,000
Skiagit.....	250,000
Palajo.....	21,000
Samish.....	74,000
Geumes.....	22,000
Stallquamish.....	31,000
Port Nisquamish.....	20,000
Skokomish.....	175,000

Total daily output.....1,167,000

This amount, if correct as far as stated, would be considerably increased by numerous small operators not mentioned, and by the larger camps on Hood's Canal not reported. The mills on the Sound are now all running on full time, and have a daily capacity about as follows:

Tacoma.....	300,000
Port Blakely.....	150,000
Port Gamble.....	150,000
Port Madison.....	80,000
Port Ludlow.....	80,000
Utsalady.....	80,000
Senbeck.....	150,000
Port Discovery.....	100,000

Total.....1,040,000

By these figures it will be seen that if the mills put out their daily full capacity there will not, at this rate, be a large accumulation of logs at the end of the summer's operations for the mills to go on during the winter, should the demand for lumber continue. At present prices, and with the dull state of the market, with all the seeming activity, millmen and loggers are enabled to realize very small profits, even if they are able to come out whole at the end of the season. Wages in the camps vary from $20 to $80 per month. Last year they were from $40 to $135. A 24-foot fir log recently cut in Snohomish county by Blackman Bros. measured 80 and 56 inches respectively across the smaller and larger ends.

A COWARDLY MURDER.
 The following particulars of a cowardly murder are taken from the Baker City Sage Brush of July 9th: "Yesterday morning about half-past 2 o'clock, news reached this city that a foul murder had been committed last Tuesday morning, near the Malheur agency. The messenger reported that a man by the name of John Cooley had shot and killed James Lavery, a farmer and stock raiser of that section. Immediately a warrant was issued by Justice Boynton and placed in the hands of Sheriff Dealy, who at once dispatched a deputy to the agency to serve the warrant. The particulars, as near as we can learn, are as follows: A dispute arose between the two men as to who was the rightful owner of a piece of land they both claimed. Lavery claimed he had done everything required by law, had made final proof, and the land belonged to him, while Cooley maintained that as he had a prior claim he was the rightful owner. On the morning of the 6th inst. John Lavery, brother and partner of the deceased, in company with two hired men commenced cutting hay on the land. They had been at work but a few minutes when they were fired upon by a person concealed in the brush near by. The men thinking it dangerous to remain, immediately stopped work and returned home. On the following morning James Lavery, thinking there was no danger whatever, and considering the shooting of the previous day as a mere bluff, repaired to the field, and was about to commence work, when he was confronted by a 50-calibre needle gun in the hands of Cooley, who, leveling the gun at Lavery's heart, fired, the ball entering the left arm between the elbow and wrist, and thence passed through his heart. The citizens of the surrounding country immediately after the killing turned out en masse to capture the murderer and found he had been taken four miles north of the Malheur agency about 4 o'clock in the afternoon by a young man named A. J. Whitley. When within a few yards of Cooley, Whitley leveled his gun and ordered him to throw up his hands, which order he obeyed, and was then taken by Whitley to the Baker City jail, reaching there at 11 o'clock the same night. The prisoner claims that he was on his way to Baker City to give himself up. The deceased was about 28 years of age. He was always considered a quiet and peaceful citizen and was highly respected by the people who knew him. He leaves a mother, sister and two brothers to mourn his sudden and unexpected death. The remains were brought to Baker City and buried."

Famous for Families.
 Most appropriately is Brown's Iron Bitters called a family medicine in view of such cases as that of Mrs. Cook, of 57 Frelinghuysen Ave., Newark, N. J. The lady writes, "I have Brown's Iron Bitters since last summer with great benefit, especially for indigestion and always buy half a dozen bottles at once. There are three to use it; we all feel stronger than for years before, and can recommend it to all who suffer from dyspepsia, loss of strength or indigestion, rightfully termed the king of evils."

At a recent meeting of the San Francisco academy of sciences, Prof. Davidson read a paper by Arthur B. Emmons, on Mount Pitt, in the Cascade range of southwest Oregon. Prior to 1875 no ascent of Mount Pitt had been made. Mr. Emmons' explorations revealed the fact that Mount Pitt is a volcanic mountain containing two extinct craters, one half a mile and the other three-quarters of a mile in circumference. The elevation of the mountain is 9,718 feet above the level of the sea.

"Mothers should Note This."
 Under this caption an old physician writes to a Cincinnati Medical Journal, that in view of the fact that people living at a distance from cities are frequently obliged to resort to cough mixtures already put up for use, they should provide themselves with such remedies as are known to be free from opiates, poisons and narcotics; thus avoiding not only danger, but even fatal results. He recommends the recently discovered Red Star Cough Cure which analyses and tests by various Boards of Health proved to be purely vegetable as well as prompt, effective and entirely harmless.

The Skagit News tells of two huge trees lately cut in the Skagit valley. One was a spruce which measured 29 feet in the circumference at 18 feet from the base; 23 feet 50 feet up and is 150 feet in length. The other tree was a fir, which yielded a sawlog of 9 feet 10 inches in diameter at the larger end.

The Beauty of Youth.
 No matter how handsome and stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.
