FOR THE BLOOD BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Combining IRON with PURE VEGETABLE TONICS, quickly and completely CLEANSSES and ENRICHES THE BLOOD. Quickens the action of the Liver and Kidneys. Clears the complexion, makes the skin smooth. It does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—ALL OTHER IRON MEDICINES DO. Physicians and Druggists everywhere recommend it.

Dr. N. S. ROGERS, of Marion, Mass., says: "I recommend Brown's Iron Bitters as a valuable tonic for enriching the blood, and removing all dyspeptic symptoms. It does not hurt the teeth."
Dr. R. M. DREZZEL, Reynolds, Ind., says: "I have procured Brown's Iron Bitters in cases of anemic and blood diseases, also when a tonic was needed, and it has proved thoroughly satisfactory."
Dr. Wm. Bryant, 30 St. Mary St., New Orleans, La., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters relieved me in a case of blood poisoning, and I heartily commend it to those needing a purifier."
The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN'S CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

LAUREN'S HYPO-BLOO—useful and attractive, contains list of prices for recipes, information about sales, etc., given away by all dealers in medicine, or mailed to any address on receipt of 2c. stamp.

DAKOTA'S GIRL FARMERS.
Young Women Who Own the Land They Cultivate.

Mitchell, D. T., July 25.—Most of the young ladies who own and work farms in this territory have a great abhorrence of notoriety, because of the number of bores that are sure to hunt them up, either in person or by letter. A floating paragraph about a young woman who has a farm near this place, which appeared in the newspapers about a month ago, brought her more than a hundred letters inside of three months. These missives were of every variety under the sun, and included nearly everything, from an offer of advice on wheat-planting to propositions of marriage. While speaking with her yesterday on these subjects she said: "I had some of the funniest letters you ever read. About a dozen of them were from men who wanted to marry, evidently a lazy, shiftless lot, for not one of them could spell, and in every case the letters indicated ignorance even of the common courtesies of life. They were principally from widowers, and all began by saying that they had been thinking of going to Dakota for a long time. I suppose they all thought I would jump at the chance to get them. I never answered any one of them. Some of the letters were from old ladies in the eastern and middle states who wanted to give me good advice, and others were from girls, widows and old maids, asking how I managed to get along, and what was necessary for them to do in order to get themselves established as well as I am. I answered some of these, and two or three have written to me since."

"The worst nuisances I have to deal with," she continued, are the men, young and old, who come out to see me. They are about the toughest lot I ever heard of. I have had to drive some of them off the place, as they seemed determined to stay. I suppose it is so everywhere, but it seems strange that a woman can't go ahead and accomplish something for herself without being worried to death by all the old bunnies, cranks, widowers and dudes within a thousand miles. One young fellow came to see me last spring, and after following me around a sixty-acre lot twice, just because I treated him decently, actually had the nerve to ask me if my thoughts ever turned to matrimony. I told him that they never had, though I didn't know what might happen if I came across just the right person. That seemed to help him along a little, and he asked what sort of a person it would have to be. I told him I didn't know, and called his attention to the fact that my off horse was a little off his feed. "How would I do?" said the young fellow, and I says: "If I had a ten-acre lot full of fellows like you I wouldn't take the trouble to scrape you up with a horse-rake."

"One elderly man from Pennsylvania came here last fall and, stopping in town, he would drive out here every day. He began at first by pretending he had a deep religious interest in me. Then he wanted to know how I stood financially, how I got my farm, and how much I made from it. It took him several days to get what he wanted, and then he intimated a wish on his part to take tea with me. I tried to get rid of him, but he was old enough to be my father, and was so decent about things generally that I finally consented. After tea he took a couple of chairs out on the east side of the house, and when we had both seated ourselves, he said: "I have been thinking for a long time about marrying again. I've got

"Now, you stop right where you are," said I, "or I'll set the dog on you. If that's the nature of your remarks, we'll adjourn this meeting right here. I've got work to do, and I don't want any fooling around."

"You never saw a man get like he did. He never said a word, and I have never seen him since."

"I rather like some of these young chaps from the city, though—the kind that are not making love, but who are always wanting to help you. They think they are so strong, and when anything is to be done they are so quick to take hold; but, gracious goodness, I could break a good many of them in two, if I wanted to. They are good boys, though, and I'll never say anything against them."

This young lady, who is as brown as a berry and as solid as a russet, with all the spryness and grace of the gentlest of her sex, owns 160 acres of good land, and has it under a pretty fair state of cultivation. Some old farmers might make fun of a few things, and she readily admits that she has much to learn, but she manages to make her living and considerably more. Her mother lives with her, and with the assistance of a stout maid-of-all-work, they get along without any male help. Before the young woman came here she tried to make her living as a dressmaker in a small Michigan town, but she failed at that, and finally determined to come here and settle down on a farm. She laughingly says she does not know how long she will keep at it, and there are those who suspect that before long somebody will come whose suit will not be in vain.

Up near Blunt there are two young sisters, not more than 25 years old, who own and work a farm of 200 acres. They went on their claim before there was a building of any kind there, taking a tent along to live in, and, with the assistance of a carpenter for a few days, they built their house and sheds and made ready for farming operations. These girls came from an Illinois town, where they had heard stories of the productivity and cheapness of Dakota lands, and having no near relatives to oppose them, they struck out to make their fortune. During the first year they had a pretty hard time of it. They were healthy, but not robust, and a great deal of the work that they had to do would have tried the strongest man sorely. Their capital was small, and they did not realize enough the first year to pay their own expenses; but neighbors took an interest in them, and the assistance which they rendered carried them through. After that they prospered, and every year now they do better than the year before.

The price of a wife in Patagonia has suddenly advanced to two $1 goats and the brim of a plug hat, but it is only a temporary spurt, and the old figures—one goat and a plug of tobacco—will soon be restored.

Michigan has a judge who says from the bench: "Any girl fool enough to marry a drinking man should be compelled to live out her days with him, no matter what the abuse."

How the Taxpayers are Swindled.
Corrupt contracts. Unbalanced bids. Unreliable estimates. Fraudulent bonds. Imperfect material. Unsatisfactory workmanship. Fictitious figures. Favored contractors. All this on the public works. But how about the works of your inner man? Impoverished blood. Rheumatic riot. Lazy liver. Dyspeptic stomach. Give attention to these and set them right with Brown's Iron Bitters. Mrs. Morlock, of Westminster, Md., says: "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters and found it a good tonic and appetizer."

A Colorado coroner held a separate inquest over each of thirty-two human bones found in the brush, and has been bounced for his enterprise.
