TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS,
DISORDERED LIVER,
and MALARIA.
From these sources arise three-fourths of the ailments of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, Fatness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, COXSALEPTIC and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," promoting appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or eructing nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect
ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.
Sold every where. Price 25 Cents per Box. 10 Boxes $2.50. Sent by Mail on Receipt of Cash.

THE GRANT OBSEQUIES IN ENGLAND

Imposmg Memorial Services Held in Westminster Abbey in Honor of Gen. Grant.

LONDON, August 4.—The Grant memorial services in Westminster abbey this afternoon was an imposing event added to the history of England. The edifice was crowded with a congregation, nearly every member of which was a distinguished person. The order of service was as follows:
1. Schubert's funeral march.
2. Funeral procession up the nave of the cathedral to the choir.
3. The opening of burial service.
4. The 90th psalm.
5. The day's lesson.
6. Funeral sermon, by Canon Farrar.
7. Spohr's anthem, "Blest are the dead."
8. Handel's anthem, "His body is buried in peace."
9. Two concluding prayers.
10. The burial service.
11. Blessings.
12. "The dead march in Saul."

CANON FARRAR'S ADDRESS.
Canon Farrar delivered a most impressive address, which was heard in profound silence. His text was taken from Acts, chapter 13, verse 36. "Eight years have not passed since the late Dean Stanley, who Americans so loved and honored, was walking around this abbey with Gen. Grant, explaining its wealth of great memorials. Neither of them had nearly attained the allotted span of human life. Both might have hoped that many years would elapse before descending to the grave, full of years and honors. This is only the fourth summer since Dean Stanley fell asleep. To-day we assemble at the obsequies of the great general whose sun set while it was yet day, and whose funeral service in America tells thousands who are assembled at this moment to mourn with the weeping family and friends. I desire to speak plainly and directly, with generous appreciation, but without idle flattery, of him whose death has made a nation mourn. His private life, his faults or failings of character, whatever they may have been, belong in no sense to the world. They are before the judgment of God's merciful forgiveness. We will touch only upon his public actions and services. Upon a bluff overlooking the Hudson his monument will stand, recalling to future generations the dark pages in the nation's history, which he did so much to close."
After eloquently tracing General Grant's boyhood and manhood, the speaker said: "If the men who knew him in Galena, obscure, silent, unprosperous, unambitious, had said, if any one had dared to say that he would become twice president and the foremost man of the day, the prophecy would have seemed ridiculous; but such careers are the glory of the American continent. They show that the people have a sovereign insight into intrinsic force. If Rome told with pride that her dictators came from the plow, America may record the answer of a president, who, when asked what would be his coat of arms, announced proudly, mindful of his early struggles, 'A pair of shirt sleeves.' The answer showed a noble sense of the dignity of labor, a noble superiority to the vanities of feudalism, a strong conviction that men should be honored simply as men, not according to the accident of birth. America has had two great martyred presidents, both sons of the people. One a homely man, who was a farm lad at 7, a rail splitter at 19, a Mississippi boatman at 23, and who in manhood proved one of the strongest, most honored of God-fearing of modern rulers. The other grew from a shoeless child to be a humble teacher in Hiram institute. With those presidents America need not blush to name the leather maker of Galena. Every true man derives a patent of nobleness direct from God. Was not the Lord in early years a carpenter in Nazareth? Lincoln's and Garfield's, and Grant's early, conscientious attention to humble duties fitted them to become kings of men."
Continuing, the speaker said: "The year 1861 saw the outbreak of the most terrible of modern wars. The hour came and a man was needed. Within four years Grant commanded an army vaster than had ever before been handled by man. It was not luck, but the results of inflexible faithfulness, indomitable resolution, sleepless energy, iron purpose and persistent tenacity. He rose by the upward gravitation of natural fitness. The very soldiers became impregnated with his spirit. General Grant has been grossly and unjustly called a butcher. He loved peace and hated bloodshed, but it was his duty at all costs to save the country. The struggle was not for victory, but for existence; not for glory, but for life or death. In his silent determination and clearness of insight Grant resembled Washington and Wellington. In the hottest fury of battle his speeches never exceeded you, yes and nay, nay. The war of 1861 was a necessity, a blessed work. The church has never refused to honor the faithful soldier fighting for the cause of his country and his God. The cause for which Grant fought, the unity of a great people, the freedom of a whole race, were as great and noble as when at Lexington the embattled farmers fired the shot which resounded around the world. The south accepted a blood arbitri-

CANADIAN RECIPROcity NOT WANTED.

The fishermen of the New England coast are exercised over the presence in Washington of Sir Ambrose Shea of Newfoundland, where he is understood to be urging a renewal of the fishery treaty with Canada. Sir Ambrose is smooth, adroit and plausible. He is charged with having already secured the co-operation of the Washington correspondents of certain prominent papers, notorious for preferring foreign industries and interests to those of the United States, who, in return for dining, wine, etc., have put Sir Ambrose's ideas before their readers as public sentiment. The Boston Morning Journal has been interviewing the leading men in the fishing interests, and finds entire unanimity of opinion regarding any new treaty. Canada always holds out the right to fish in Canadian waters as an inducement to the United States to open its markets free of duty to their catch. As a matter of fact Canada has no fisheries to sell. Her rights cease three miles from shore under general international law. Outside of that limit the sea is free to all for fishing or navigation. Within the three mile line there is no fishing in which our people care to engage, except for the purpose of obtaining bait-fish. The Canadian coast dwellers strongly object to American bait fishing, treaty or no treaty. They prefer to monopolize that business and sell out to our fishermen, who are quite ready to purchase from them, finding it cheaper and more convenient than to catch their own bait. All the American fishermen desire of Canada are the rights accorded by all civilized nations to foreign ships in their ports. These they have not hitherto enjoyed, but have been subject to continual persecution by the Canadian authorities. Our vessels have been forbidden to harbor in Canadian ports more than twenty-four hours, and have been compelled to go to sea when storms were raging, to their imminent peril. Local courts have been packed and our vessels condemned on the flimsiest pretexts. The privilege of buying bait on the Canadian coast has been denied us. In all treaties which have been made the Canadians have had the best of it. The treaty of Washington sacrificed the interests of our fishermen without reserve; and while it remained in force the American business fell off, while that of Canada increased. The Canadian fisherman has cheap labor, cheap ships, cheap living, and no taxes to pay, and when he is given the freedom of our markets we cannot compete with him. With a proper duty on fish we have the advantage, and instead of a falling-off of business the Canadians themselves will seek the protection of our laws and the advantages of our ports, and add to the strength of an industry, which, besides its economic value, furnishes, since the decline of our merchant marine, our sole naval reserve in case of war. No reciprocity treaty, no special privileges are desired by the American fishermen. They simply demand that the government protect them from cheap Canadian competition, and secure for them, by decided action on the part of the state department, the rights in Canadian ports and waters to which they are entitled by the comity of nations.

What is a Corpse? One of the smallest things on earth. It is a little disc, oval in shape and not the three-thousandth part of an inch in length. The corpses give off the blood its bright red color. It is in them they owe to the iron that is in them. Without iron your blood would be so pale and thin as to be of no account. Iron enriches it and gives you vitality. The only reliable preparation of iron for a low state of blood is Brown's Iron Bitters, which does wonders for the ailing and debilitated. Buy this valuable tonic of your druggist.

The wheat yield in some parts of the state is not as large as was expected, and in other places it is above expectations. Forty-five bushels to the acre have been harvested in some fields, while in the adjoining the average is not above twenty bushels per acre. Some of the wheat was beat down by rain and hail storms, which prevailed during May and June, and there was a little damage from rust. The deficiency is overbalanced and will not make any inroad into the aggregate yield of the state, which has been estimated at 20,000,000 bushels. Harvesting is at full blast and farmers are working all the men available.

Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, the distinguished U. S. Senator from Indiana, certifies that in a case of rheumatism in the back, he obtained instantaneous relief from St. Jacobs Oil. He says it is a remarkable remedy.

The prohibitory liquor law of Kansas requires a statement by the purchaser and the druggist for every portion of liquor sold, and this document must be filed with a county judge. The fee for his honor is five cents in every instance, and some of the judges enjoy handsome incomes from this source.

Everybody wants an honest answer to this simple question:—What is the best medicine to regulate the bowels, cure costiveness and biliousness, help digestion and give strength to the whole system? People ask us this every day. We answer, Parker's Tonic. It is pleasant to the taste. All children like it. Mothers all praise it. It will save a thousand times its cost in every family.—Editor Western Argus.
