

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1885. A PETTIFOGGING CONTEMPORARY

When a pettifogging slyster finds himself without argument, without ability and without any apparent hope of winning his case he ceases to bluster, to call the opposing counsel names, and tries to throw discredit on the testimony that he can't controvert. His brag gives out; his jeers fade away and he finds himself the laughing-stock of those who see his plight and who are willing to laugh with him or at him as occasion arises. His last refuge is to try to break the weight of evidence by impugning the veracity of the witness.

This is contemptible in a lawyer or a newspaper man, but it is what the arrogant assailant of THE ASTORIAN in the editorial columns of the Oregonian has come to. After calling our arguments "rot," after stating our statements "meagherant," "silly," and "stupid," he is now compelled to squirm and wriggle in an effort to dodge what every one else sees—his ignorance of the situation—and wriggle in a scotched way, trying to get out of the light.

We denied the Oregonian's statements when that arrogant journal tried to supply with sarcasm the strength of its case was denied, we made certain statements and challenged denial. Then it crawled and tried to be funny and thought we were getting "warm," and really was "astonished," and now it adopts a contemptible course that is deserving of censure at the hands of every man in or out of a newspaper office that loves argument and fair play and wants to see the right prevail.

Yesterday, in a blinal, pawing sort of way it attempts to answer our figures of the day before by saying "We suspect there is miscalculation somewhere, and shouldn't be surprised to learn that it is in the vicinity of THE ASTORIAN office."

"Oh lame and impotent conclusion!" A few days ago it started out with teeth and claws and now runs back with a feeble "ki-yi." The "miscalculation" is in the Oregonian office. It miscalculated the forbearance that a usually generous contemporary would exercise toward it when it placed itself outside the pale of kindness in a sally effort to deery what it could not deny.

But to show that there was no "miscalculation" about this thing "in THE ASTORIAN office," we took the last feeble prop from under the Oregonian's position on this question by publishing the following:

AFFIDAVIT. STATE OF OREGON, COUNTY OF CLATSOP. I, W. E. DEMENT, being duly sworn, say that the statement and figures in THE DAILY ASTORIAN of the 4th inst. regarding the transportation of wheat from Portland to Astoria by the Astoria Transportation company in May, 1882, are correct; the figures were copied from the books of the company in my possession. W. E. DEMENT, Sec'y A. T. Co. Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 5th day of August, 1885. H. R. SPRENGER, [L. S.] Notary Public for the state of Oregon.

Mr. Dement is a prominent business man of this city. He makes oath before a duly qualified officer as to the correctness of what the Oregonian "wouldn't be surprised" to find was "a miscalculation in THE ASTORIAN office." The document as published above is in our possession. We certainly thought the Oregonian had too much judgment to suppose for a moment that the editor of this paper would come out with a challenge, give plain figures and assert their correctness, unless he knew what he was talking about, and was confident that if proofs were demanded they would be promptly forthcoming. The Oregonian has covered itself with ridicule in this last attempt at argument with THE ASTORIAN, but even now, if it will acknowledge its stupidity, we will acquit it of the charge of incompetence that we prefer against it, and ascribe it solely to ignorance. Ignorance is excusable, but ignorance combined with impertinence, such as the Oregonian displays, is insufferable.

Under the old system of negro slavery a howl went up from the non-slaveholding states, because in fixing the basis for representation in congress the slaves were enumerated. But, by a provision of the constitution as it then existed a slave counted only as three-fifths of a person, while under the present system of Mongolian slavery, each Chinaman counts as a full "person." As he never becomes naturalized the result is that in some of the congressional districts in California, for instance, the voting population is not near half what it is in an eastern congressional district and an eastern voter finds his vote practically neutralized by a Chinaman who does not vote.

It is estimated in New York that the total cost of the Grant memorial pageant will not be far from $1,000,000 as follows: Expense of regular troops, $30,000; National guards, 10,000; city expenditures, $35,000; civic organizations, $250,000; draping the city, $500,000.
