ave been saved if the ad not been called out and fired into the people and killed little children and women. Then the right hand of the democracy was raised and down went the railroad and no man dared to put out the fires.
Pittsburg is again the center of a great strife. Every man in that strife has as much good origin, common sense and love of country as any owner of a mill there. The issues before us are not the trifling issues which the college of teachers consider.
They are the issues which have made revolutions that have swept over the globe.

The Chinese have always been celebrated for their civil service perfection, but when the Tartars were frozen out and could not find grass for their ponies they merely marched on China. China was in no condition to repel the Tartars, because the great civil service question was then taken up in the faculty. At the present day the civil service rules are relaxing in China.

With the vast questions presented to our age the civil service reformer is calling our attention to that future of our government which is essentially petty, and begging off upon the true issues of the day.

It will be remembered that immediately after the close of the war a number of the southern families left this country to settle in Brazil. Bedford Mackey, consul at Rio Grande do Sul, who has just returned, gives an interesting account of the confederate colony in Brazil. The colony consists of about six hundred persons, and is located four hundred miles southwest of Rio Janeiro. It is a fine farming region, well watered, and is in the midst of the great coffee region.
Its members are engaged in farming and manufacturing. They had nearly all taken an active part in the rebellion, and believing that the feeling of bitterness engendered by the war would render their further residence in the United States unpleasant, they decided to remove with their families to South America. The colonists are reputed to be prosperous and law-abiding subjects of the empire. The only public building in the village is called "The Rebels' Rest." Mr.
Mackey, who is himself a South Carolinian, says: "The American colony is not indifferent to current events in the United States, although not fully advised of the steady growth of that fraternal sentiment in our country, which, on the 15th, brought Wade Hampton and Fitzhugh Lee, arm in arm with Sheridan and Sherman, as mourners over the coffin of the great commander of the armies of the Union."

The News thinks that the upward tendency in Oregon Railway stocks is a sign of better times and one that the northwest has been anxiously awaiting for a long period. It is indicative of the confidence of eastern capitalists in this region, and of their willingness to risk their money in the securities of railroads operating out this way. The Willard collapse took fully $6,000,000 from Portland and a stringency in the money market, and a general depression in trade followed, not peculiar, however, to Portland, but embracing the entire country.
Much of this large sum of money is now finding its way back for investment, and it is only a question of time when business in all lines will be lively again.

The Oregonian is making life unpleasant this week for the Portland city superintendent of schools, whom it pronounces as being a very shallow man, and whose diction, it asserts, is "rot." Apart from the personal aspect of the matter the Oregonian is right in sharply criticizing the unwise system of instruction in some city schools. Thousands go out of our public schools yearly with crammed heads and empty hands, sadly in need of what will benefit them, victims of experiments and ignorance on the part of those who had them in charge during their years of school life.

We are threatened with another "history of Oregon." This time the symptoms are prevalent in Mr. Lyman of Forest Grove. Oregon needs manufactures, but overproduction is liable in certain lines.

ALREADY there is talk of concerted action regarding the removal of Grant's remains from Riverside Park to Washington where the bones of the hero should be permanently interred.

THE Standard thinks that President Cleveland knows that ex-Senator Slater is a Democrat.
