To-morrow.
John Robinson's circus.
Read Carl Adler's adv't.
The parade to-morrow will be immense.

Old John Robinson's mammoth circus will exhibit here to-morrow.
Reserved seats for Wednesday's Kellogg performance at the New York University.

John Robinson's circus is to arrive at noon to-day. The parade to-morrow will be worth seeing.

Frank Silva, the amateur pugilist, was arrested in Portland last Friday on a charge of vagrancy.

A heavy gale fell on John Murray, aged eight years, in Portland last Friday inflicting fatal injuries.

J. F. Warren brought a fine block in Tinker's addition to North Beach last week, paying $800 therefor.

The stockholders of the L. X. L. packing company will have their annual election to-morrow afternoon.

It is understood that T. A. McBride, district attorney for this judicial district will resign his position to-morrow.

The Columbia arrives to-day from San Francisco with 123 cabin and 80 steerage passengers. The Oregon leaves out.

Monroe Hamblin, a Portland carpenter tried to drown himself in the Willamette Friday night but, was restrained and jailed.

The surveying party on the bar got in three days work last week, which is not so bad in such thick weather as has prevailed.

A large quantity of choice old papers at this office to be given away for fifty cents a hundred; just the thing to put under carpets, etc.

Dr. Lockhart's professional card appears in another column. The doctor's uniform success is excellent evidence of his professional ability.

Fog or smoke, be it ever so thick, does not delay the telephone. Yesterday's service in Astoria, at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Presbyterian church. All Germans are cordially invited.

The Miles came up from the sanatorium with a big crowd of returning excursionists yesterday. September is really the best month at the seashore, but as Portland schools open shortly parents are getting back in the closing days of August.

Chas. M. Cornell has been given the contract to remove the boat house at Shoalwater bay life saving station. The bids were as follows: W. D. Spaulding, $880; Andrew Olsen, $830; Ross Devoe and Andrews, $725; E. A. Nickels, $690; Chas. M. Cornell, $675.

Returning sportsmen report having tread three elk on Lewis & Clarke's last week. The agile animals scaled the limbs and hid amid the upper branches of the dense smoke concluding any possibility of bringing them down. An affidavit accompanies the statement.

John Robinson has a troupe of twelve colored men and women, who were formerly slaves, traveling with his show, appearing in the street parade, where they represent a scene from life. "Way down in Dixie." The party presents a group of colored people, with joyous faces, singing and shouting their campmeeting hymns, and jubilee songs. It is a very interesting picture of southern plantation life and will be a feature in to-morrow's procession.

For some weeks dirt has been hauled down Benton street from an excavation south of the school-house. Yesterday afternoon as a loaded wagon was going down the steps of the school-house, the wagon broke and the horses started at a lively gallop. At Astor street the front wheels fetched away and the frightened team came straddling down the street, finally crashing into the New Corner saloon, on the corner of Concomly, knocking things endways and doing considerable damage. One of the horses, a fine animal, the property of Frank Carr, struck the door of the saloon with such force as to break his neck.

THE NAGPORE.
The Captain Objects to Paying Double Pilotage.
Yesterday H. A. Snow caused the arrest of Capt. Fraser of the British ship Nagpore which finished loading grain last evening. The captain gave bonds for his appearance.

The circumstances are substantially as follows: Upon the arrival of the Nagpore Snow piloted her to Portland. The customs is for the pilot who takes the vessel to Portland to take her back here. On Thursday, the 20th inst., Snow got a dispatch asking him to wait draft to load her. Snow telegraphed "at once" and went up the next day, reporting to the captain who said that he had another pilot. Some delay followed, which resulted in the ship's loading to eighteen feet, and starting from Portland the following Monday with that draft, Al. Betts taking her herself through here Tuesday afternoon.

Upon the arrival of the vessel Snow presented a bill of $68 to the captain for towage of the vessel at 17 feet. The captain paid Betts, and refused to pay Snow, who labeled the vessel. Snow claims that the condition of the tide on the 20th justified him in sending the telegram on that day saying to load her to sixteen feet; that he knows the river and would have been willing and able to take her down during the ebb tide on the Monday following as the tide was constantly increasing. The captain claims that the extra two feet that he enabled to load made a difference of over 150 tons to the foot, which cost him $100. Snow claims that the vessel was loaded to that amount to the vessel. Upon this fact he, through his agents, bases his refusal to pay the $68 that Snow demands. Yesterday morning the agents of the vessel deposited $78 with the board of local commissioners and gave notice of their intention to present, to-morrow, charges against Snow, alleging want of knowledge of the river in his pilot grounds, and citing the fact that by loading the vessel to eighteen feet they saved $100. Opinion is divided and the above is believed to be a fair statement of the question.

ROAD TO THE SEALEN.
Astoria needs roads to the south, east and west of the county. There is a settlement on the Nehalem that has considerable trade which is at present conducted in a roundabout sort of way at Garibaldi and Hobsonville, in Tillamook county. The settlement is not over twenty-five miles from here in a straight line. All along the river is settled and all the county needs is communication to make it one of the most thriving settlements in Oregon. Messrs. Crawford, Sewall, Bender and others are trying to get a road through and we hope they will succeed. A little aid on the part of some of our Astoria business men would be a great help. There are parties ready now in the city, who, which agree to cut a good road clear to Latta creek or the Nekanicum. If there was only a road to the Nekanicum the rest of the way would be plain sailing. The trade of that section can be secured with a little effort on the part of Astoria. If Astoria ever amounts to anything, it is the trade of just such communities as that in the vicinity of Onion Peak that will bring her out. There is a large trade in the county, but it is scattered all over the county, and it is hard to get settlers in a place till it is made comparatively easy to get to it. The hardy men who have been out here deserve aid in their efforts, and the trade of the city can do it to give the trade of a few hundred dollars asked to come back ten times over and in a continuous increase. Tillamook county is moving in the matter and is going to build to the county line.

People talk of "a railroad," but there is more good in a wagon road for Clatsop county than a railroad. The way to bring a railroad to build wagon roads that will bring people, that will make it worth while for a railroad to come here. If the Astorians cut out this morning with a feasible scheme to "get a railroad to Astoria," $100,000 would be pledged before night, when for actual benefit a good road costing one hundredth of that sum and running south to the Tillamook county line, would do us all more tangible good.

Our salmon industry, our summer visitors, our shipping, our little trade, all are good things to have, but in the development of the surrounding country, its settlement and growth, in assessable value, lies the main part of the future Astoria's strength. Closing out mortgages is a good way to make money, but there are other ways that are better. One more enterprising we all are in regard to this matter of roads, etc., the sooner Astoria will assume the station that God and Nature intended she should have.

Very Well Said.
The statement that the oysters of Shoalwater bay are becoming exhausted is the converse of the truth. For the past three years the number of oyster beds and oysters in the bay has been steadily growing, and this season the growth and number is largely in excess over that of last. Several years ago the oysters in the bay suffered from a blight, and for a number of years little, if any, trade in oysters from here was carried on. Since 1883, when trade began again, each recurring year has seen an arithmetical progression in the increased shipments, and this year will prove no exception. As to the Yaquina bay oyster having a finer flavor than that of the Shoalwater, we have only this to say—tastes differ. We are glad that our neighbors on Yaquina bay have oysters, and wish them success in both growing and selling them, but to attempt to bid up trade for Yaquina bay oysters by misstating facts about those of Shoalwater bay seems to us to be "bad policy." If Yaquina bay oysters are of finer quality than ours, they surely will find sale on the market without misrepresenting what are easily proven facts.—Pacific Journal, 28.

Permission to Refund.
Judge Duddy yesterday granted Richard Kuebler, receiver of the O. & C. railroad, authority to return to settlers moneys paid for lands within the limits of that company's forfeited land grant. Under this order, the following sums will be paid: A. J. Switzer, $102.48; Brown & Gilbert, $122.70; J. H. Brown, $101.25; by H. C. Underwood, $277.68; W. S. Frink, $158.44; Henry Christian, $539.51.

Groceries.
D. L. Beck & Sons carry a full assortment of staple and fancy groceries and give special attention to family trade. All orders filled promptly and delivered free of charge.

GOLDEN MILLIONS.
Now in Transit Across the Continent.

WASHINGTON, August 29.—The transfer of several million dollars in gold coin as registered mail matter from San Francisco to New York by order of United States Treasurer Jordan has excited much curiosity here as well as elsewhere. Until very recently the fact that so important a transfer of government treasure was in progress was known to only a few trusted employees of the treasury and postoffice departments. Absolute secrecy was enjoined upon those few officers, for fear, it was said, that the knowledge that many millions of dollars in hard cash were being moved by railroad across the continent would tempt the cupidity of desperate road-agents and train-wreckers. Persons here who have observed, with steadily increasing interest, Treasurer Jordan's restless activity in his new sphere of action, regard this transfer of gold from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast with surprise. Men who have grown gray in the service of the treasury department can see no necessity for such a step. They say that the transfer is not only unnecessary, but that it is both costly and hazardous. Speculators have been chartered to carry the gold, and the fact that Mr. Jordan directed that the movement be kept as secret as possible shows his appreciation of the dangers involved.

Since the first of last June $12,500,000 of gold coin has been transported from the San Francisco sub-treasury to the New York sub-treasury. The golden stream is still silently flowing eastward, and nobody knows it, Mr. Jordan, appears to know what will stop. There is now about $8,000,000 of gold coin in the vaults of the New York sub-treasury, a much larger quantity than was ever there before. That amount is exclusive of the $5,250,000 of gold that was recently advanced to the government by the New York bankers. It is a curious fact that while Treasurer Jordan was stirring up the New York bankers by the intimation that the government might be obliged to take the balance to the clearing house in silver certificates, the sub-treasury in New York was receiving every few days consignments of gold from San Francisco. It is creditable to the discipline and prudence of the employee who have had the handling of this great amount of gold in its movement across the country that they succeeded in transporting about $9,000,000 of coin from San Francisco to New York before any knowledge of what was being done became public. The coin has been shipped in stout boxes, some containing $200,000 and others $300,000. Jordan's reason of accumulating so much gold coin in New York is a matter of conjecture. Some of the most experienced men in the treasury service privately express their astonishment at the movement. They say the transfer is absolutely unnecessary. The great danger and great expense of moving $12,500,000 or $14,000,000 of gold more than $3,000,000 miles overland might have deterred a less brilliant man from making the transfer.

THE BIGGEST AND BEST OF THEM ALL.

At every performance the huge canvas tents of John Robinson's great Tinker's Circus, were literally jammed, packed and crammed with happy, laughing people, in many instances the employees of large business houses, being sent by their employers, who purchased the tickets in bodies of a hundred or more. John Robinson desires the outside world to know that just as his Mammoth Show is exhibited in the largest cities, so it will be exhibited in the smallest villages and towns, and that every one of his Ten Big Shows united and combined, and every single member of his gigantic troupe, and every one of his great new novelties, and marvelous features will surely accompany him over his entire route into the smallest of towns. There are ten thousand new attractions to amuse and instruct the young and the old, previous to the commencement of the circus performance proper. The most interesting feature is the contest of the huge herd of elephants ranging in size from the colossal "Empress" to the little twin baby elephants. The special delight of the children. The circus performance in the last of a long way that ever visited Chicago, and of such a pleasing and varied character as to make it difficult to single out any act of particular merit, for they are all of the very best. For two hours and three-quarters there is a succession of acts of daring horse-womanship, tumbling, performance of trained animals, wire walking, acrobatic feats, bicycle riding and a host of other novelties. The laughable antics and tricks of the Twin Baby Elephants never fail to create the greatest fun and amusement. The marvelous troupe of gymnastic bicyclists, the startling flight of the human cannon ball through the air, the wonderful and thrilling life-leap of the trained lion, the feat of the terrific flight of a human being from the great Roman catapult driven through space at the terrible momentum of three miles in one minute, make up a constellation of startling and astonishing wonders and amazing novelties never before seen on earth.—Chicago Daily Tribune.

At Astoria to-morrow and Tuesday.

NOTICE TO CANNERYMEN.
The following is published by request of Capt. Powell:

PORT STEVENSON, Oregon, Aug. 28, 1885.
Delivery at this place of cannery waste (tin clippings) is desired during the month of September, 1885, in lots of 50 short tons or more—the waste being graded, moulded, as in a box or barrel, into packages of not less than 400 pounds each.

Sixty-five cents per short ton will be paid for deliveries on snow at the wharf, and 75 cents per short ton for the packages placed on the jetty as directed, between about half-tide and low tide lines.

Unloading at the wharf will be made in the order of arrival of the different vessels.

Inspecting and weighing are to be made and directions given by an agent appointed by me, and in case of any difference my decision shall be final.

A short ton is herein considered as 2000 pounds.

Payments will be made as soon as vouchers can be conveniently prepared, for one delivery or more as desired.

A MODEL HOTEL.
Rules of a Minnesota Summer Resort.

This hotel has been built and arranged for the special comfort and convenience of summer boarders. On arrival each guest will be asked how he likes the situation; and if he says the hotel ought to have been placed upon the knoll, or further down toward the village, the location of the house will be immediately changed. Corner front rooms, up only one flight, for every guest.

Baths, gas, hot and cold water, laundry, telegraph, restaurant, fire alarm, bar-room, billiard table, daily papers, cooking, sewing machine, grand piano, a clergyman, and all modern conveniences, in every room. Meals every minute, if desired, and consequently no second table. English, French, and German dictionaries furnished every guest, to make up such a bill of fare as he may desire without regard to bill affair afterwards at the office. Waiters of the nationality and color desired. Every water furnished with a libretto, button-hole bouquet, full-dress suits, ball tablets, and hair parted in the middle. Every guest will have the best seat in the dining-hall, and the best waiter in the house.

Any guest not getting his breakfast ready, or experiencing a delay of sixteen seconds after giving his order for dinner, will please mention the fact at the office, and the cooks and waiters will be blown from the mouth of the cannon in front of the hotel at once. Children will be welcomed with delight, and are requested to bring hoop-sticks and haw-keys to bang the carved rosewood furniture especially provided for that purpose, and peg-tops to spin on the velvet carpets, and to be allowed to bang on the piano at all hours, yell in the halls, slide down the banisters, fall down stairs, carry away desert enough for a small family in their pockets at dinner and make themselves as disagreeable as the fondest mother can desire.

Washing allowed in the rooms, and ladies giving an order to "put me on a flatiron" will be put on one at any hour of the day or night. A discreet waiter, who belongs to the Massons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and who was never known to even tell the time of day, has been employed to carry milk punches and hot toddies to ladies' rooms in the evening.

Every lady will be considered the belle of the house, and row-boys will answer the belle promptly. Should any row-boy fail to appear at a guest's door with a pitcher of ice-water, more towels, a gin cocktail, and pen, ink and paper, before the guests' hands have left the bell-knob, he will be branded "Front" on his forehead and imprisoned for life.

Dogs allowed in any room in the house, including the billiard-room. Gentlemen can drink, smoke, swear, chew, gamble, tell tall stories, and do the new arrivals, and indulge in any other innocent amusements common to watering places, in any part of the hotel. The proprietor will always be happy to hear that some other hotel is "the best house in the country." Special attention given to parties who can give information as to "how these things are done in Yewrup."

The proprietor will take it as a personal affront if any guest on leaving should fail to discharge the bill, tell him he is a scoundrel, the house a barn, the table wretched, the wine vile, and that he, the guest, "was never so imposed upon in his life," will never stop there again and means to warn his friends.

Clara Louise Kellogg.

The usher had a busy time of it last night, but every one got seated at last. The opera house never looked to better advantage than it did on this occasion, and Miss Kellogg will have no reason to complain of Eau Claire, for a more select or appreciative audience could not be well got together. The programme, a charming one, was replete with everything classical. Miss Kellogg, in her bright and dazzling costumes, looked her best and did her best. She received several recalls, to all of which she replied cheerfully and gracefully. On one occasion she sang a song, rather slow, in taking their places and an audible sigh escaped C. L. K. which created a ripple of laughter over the house, and no one enjoyed it more than Miss Kellogg herself.

Miss Kellogg and her admirable troupe left to be replaced over the Milwaukee & St. Paul line.—Eau Claire Daily Leader, July 7.

THE MAIDEN AND THE CRAB.
Only a beautiful maiden.
Bathing herself in the sea,
Flirting with jolly old Neptune,
Telling him her latest news and glories;
Wading far out in the low-sheeling sand,
Laughingly riding on wave to the strand.

Only a crab in the water,
Lurking in quietude there,
Thinking perhaps of his daughter
Or of his wandering heir;
Struck on the head in the midst of his dream,
Snapping at two limbs that threaten'gly gleam.

Only an unhappy maiden
Uttering a wail after sunset,
Pondering the water tortury,
Telling him her latest news and glories;
Where a crab clings, his day-dream forgot,
Fast as a mortgage hangs on to a lot.
