

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1885

JIM BROWS, of Covington, Ky., wanted his neighbors to remember him when he was gone, so two years before his death he planted six acres of Canada thistles.

STEAR, the editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, is on trial in London for abduction. The titled rones whose beastly practices he exposed will never forgive him for his action.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND returned to the White house from his trouting trip in the Adirondacks yesterday, fully restored to health and will renew his tussle with the politicians to-day.

THE London Grocer says the opinion is expressed that in the coming year the price for prime brands of Columbia river fish is not unlikely to creep up to 24s per case; if so, the days of low rates and undesirable qualities are clearly numbered.

Two years ago the last spike of the N. P. R. R. was driven; Portland celebrated, champagne flowed, banners waved, and all was gay. Mr. Hilgard was the center figure and the New York bears made a raid on the Oregon stocks. It doesn't seem so long ago.

OUR European friends are always able to afford us Americans a news item. Last spring everyone thought that England and Russia would surely fight, and now that the growls of the lion and the bear are dying away, Germany and Spain are quarreling about some worthless islands in the Pacific. Spain "discovered" them 300 years ago and never thought enough of them to colonize them; but when Germany took possession of one of the rocks the excitable Spaniards felt that their "honor" was touched. It is not at all probable that it will be a war of anything but words; should it come to blows Germany would whip the Spaniards quicker and worse than she did the French. Alfonso, the Spanish king, seems to be in an unfortunate predicament; if he fights he will be whipped, and if he doesn't fight his own people will dethrone him.

It is with regret not unmixed with apprehension that all good men will view the unpleasant relations existing between the Progressive Democratic editor of the Standard and the retrogressive editor of the Mountain Sentinel. Of the latter the former says he is "part of a bad element," and that "he will blight any newspaper he is connected with." Of the former the latter says that he had been a Republican till Blaine's nomination sent him "forward to the Democratic mourners' bench." "This sad to note two stately barks that sailed the stormy seas clash in collision when the sun of success shines on the rippling wave of party harmony. Perhaps, however, the editor of the Mountain Sentinel is of that class who would rather reign in hell than serve in heaven.

C. R. FALKNER is the name of the accomplished gentleman and scholar recently appointed chief of the record division in the pension office at Washington. He has fifty clerks under him. The Indianapolis Times published a letter regarding the manner of Mr. Falkner's appointment. The editor of the Times is in receipt of the following, which he prints precisely as it was written:

WASHINGTON D C August 29 1885 Mr. William Holaway Editor of the Times Sir will you please send me a copy of the Times that has Jap turpy Letter in a Bout my appointe in the Pension office it was one day this week Yours Respectfully C R FALKNER

I have heard that he Rote one But I couldnt git the Date of the Paper. C R F None can doubt Mr. F.'s honesty or courage. The simple fact that he is a federal appointee is sufficient evidence as to that; but in all humility THE ASTORIAN regrets that Mr. F. appears to consider spelling to be purely a matter of private judgment.

THE Cal Grocer and Canner has been interviewing "a veteran packer" who, talking about canned salmon, says: "We are steadily approaching the time when the demand for actual consumption, not alone on this coast and east, but in Europe as well, will show the depletion of the world's salmon stock. Never since packing on this coast has been dignified by classification among the recognized industries, have stocks run so low. Three months time will show the scarcity in this city and throughout the coast. In less than six months canned salmon will be in strong demand east, and before next packing season is over, London and Liverpool markets will be cleaned up close-er than ever before. It is not to be said that there will be a demand which can not possibly be supplied, there may not even be a strong demand, but the market will get the strength which should naturally follow such a condition of affairs, and a revival of trade in this line of canned goods, will create an improved feeling in packing interests generally. We know that we are short on the coast supply, and it is said that English markets have a much improved tone. It is my opinion that the combination of circumstances against which packers have complained during the year will ultimately result in the greatest good which has fallen to the industry in a number of seasons."
