Notice To Advertisers.
 THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.
 This paper is on file at the St. Charles Hotel, Portland, Or.

The Olan Bay has arrived out. San Diego, Cal., is to have a street named "Wonder is Hennessy building it!"

The Olympia Transcript, Major Gunn's paper, is for sale and is said to be a good buy.

Mrs. M. Woodfield begins the millinery business to-day in the building next to Frank Fabre's.

Shipping begins to show up once more: there are five vessels in the river and forty-four on the way.

There are 40,000 cases salmon estimated to be on the O. R. & N. dock, and about 1,700 tons wheat.

Fifty-five telephones are in use at Tacoma. September 1st the rate was reduced from $80 to $67.50.

The most of yesterday's session of the county court was taken up with equalizing property assessments.

A cent stamp will carry a bundle of newspapers weighing four ounces to any part of the United States.

Messrs Warren and Harrison are buying cattle in Pacific county to be shipped to their stock farms in this county.

The Walla Walla came down yesterday with 2,300 tons grain aboard, and after taking on coal screenings, started for San Francisco.

Late San Francisco advices are to the effect that the compact between the insurance companies is in force, the succeeding companies reentering the union.

The ship Blue Jacket gave $12,000 bonds in the libel case filed against her and went to sea from Seattle last Saturday.

The corner stone of the new Episcopal church in this city will be laid next Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

Reverend John A. Faddock, bishop of Washington territory, officiating.

The ocean steamer Bonita has been engaged by the Arctic Packing company to proceed from San Francisco to New Shagok for the men and material of the cannery near which the bark Montana was lost.

Before Justice Goddell a jury case was tried yesterday evening wherein Chas. Wikkala sued the Washington Packing Co. for $66 alleged to be due him for fish delivered last season.

Lord thunder that roared above the city and finally died away in hoarse mutterings on the eastern hills; sudden dashes of rain; vivid lightning and gusts of wind; white caps on the water; all this at six o'clock yesterday morning; then brilliant sunshine and a fine day.

Capt. Carroll and purser Downing of the Idaho are reported to have a good thing up in Alaska in the shape of a fine gold mine, alongside the famous Treadwell mine on Douglas island, from which $150,000 was taken last July.

There are five of them, and it is said they have been offered $500,000 for the mine. A hundred thousand a piece isn't bad these times.

Captain Timothy, of the British ship Northbrook, has been presented by the insurance companies with 200 guineas, and a like amount has been given to the first and second mates, carpenter, boat-swain and two apprentices, for meritorious conduct in getting the ship to Liverpool from San Francisco after receiving severe damage to the spars when only a few days out from there.

Beasley & Hildreth are raising and moving a house on Astor street, by the Presbyterian church, and yesterday found the bones of an adult, apparently an Indian, about twenty inches below the surface. The skull was the only part of the skeleton that hadn't crumbled; great roots of trees chopped down on that site over twenty years ago indicated that the sepulchre must have taken place about the same year the Columbia bar was frozen over.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' PROCEEDINGS.
 Court met at 9:30 yesterday; full board present.
 Wm. Munn was admitted to citizenship.
 B. B. Franklin was appointed overseer of the poor, at a salary of $15 per month, vice Dr. S. Kinsey, removed. Clerk instructed to draw monthly warrant of $15 for relief of Olen Poisson.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.
 Drowning of Two Men in the Stream Opposite the City.
 Word came from Knappston yesterday of a dreadful accident that occurred last Tuesday night, resulting in the drowning of two men and the serious injury of a third. The particulars are very meagre and the most diligent inquiry yesterday failed to secure any more than the meagre outlines of the occurrence.

It appears that at eight o'clock last Tuesday evening three men left this city in a fishing boat belonging to a man named Fitzpatrick living at Skamokwa, intending to go to that place. When about half way across the river and about opposite Knappston one of the men who was in the bow of the boat suddenly lurched forward and fell overboard. One of his companions who was in the stern steering made a jump to save his comrade and he too fell overboard. At that moment the boom of the sail came round with such force as to partly overturn the boat, the sail fouled and struck the water, the boat capsizing and throwing the remaining man out. About ten o'clock he drifted ashore about a mile and a half below Knappston where he found assistance and was cared for; he was unconscious when picked up, and dreadfully bruised. Not till yesterday morning was he able to give any account of the affair and even then was too exhausted to more than give the faintest outline of the terrible fate that befell his unfortunate companions. To add to the difficulty of getting any information about the matter it appears that the man who was saved was a stranger to the other two men and was simply a passenger. Parties on the Norvelli heard that a man known as "Boston Bill" was one of the men drowned. The other man is described as being of medium height, dressed in black, carrying a gold watch. The name of the man who got ashore is said to be Frank Hamlin. The boat, battered and stove in, came ashore yesterday morning below where the man had drifted the night before. Further and more authentic particulars are awaited with anxious interest.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.
 Council met in regular session. A petition was read from property owners and taxpayers, asking the removal outside the city limits of a quantity of lumber stored in buildings on Concomly street; the petition was granted and the chief of police ordered to remove it forthwith.
 Geo. Gorlier was given permission to transfer his liquor license from one building to another. E. H. Crang was granted permission to grade Main street in front of lot 5, block 96.
 The committee on streets reported recommending that street lamps be erected on the street crossing of West Fourth, and on Hemlock at crossing of East Fifth; report adopted.
 On petitions of Mrs. Grant and I. Cohen asking for correction of assessments, ways and means committee reported recommending that petitions be granted; report adopted.
 Following claims were ordered paid: Clatsop Mill Co., $48.96; M. Deveraux, $6; Astoria Gaslight Co., $9.80; $7.35; Griffin & Reed, $1.50; Jas. Gardner, $22; G. E. Parker, $36; C. E. Jackson, $12.75; Carl Adler, $5.95.
 A motion was adopted allowing owners on Main street between Eighth and Ninth to improve the street in front of their property instead of paying the assessment.

A GOOD REFERENCE BOOK.
 N. W. Ayer & Son, the well known advertising agents, send their annual newspaper encyclopedia for 1885. It is a handsome book of 1,000 pages, printed on fine paper, and is a valuable source of information for all interested in newspapers. It gives the name, price, circulation, advertising rates and location of every newspaper and periodical in the United States and Canada; the population of every county, town, state and territory, and full information regarding the politics, religion, manufactures, soil and characteristics of every county in the United States. From its admirably arranged statistics it is learned that there are 2,683 counties in the United States, in 2,402 of which newspapers are published. In this year of our Lord there are published in this country 13,328 newspapers and periodicals. Truly Americans are a reading people.
 Every trade, creed, profession and calling has its newspapers. Next after the agricultural newspapers in numbers are the religious publications; then the trade newspapers: architecture, barbers, book binders, bottling, cabinet makers, carpets, carriages, clothing, coal, confectionery, crockery, drugs, dry goods, expressmen, furniture, gloves, groceries, hardware, hats, hosiery, hotels, ice, iron, jewelry, leather, liquors, lumber, marble, milling, packers, paper, petroleum, photography, plumbing, pottery, printing, shoes, slates, tobacco, etc., etc.
 The book is a compilation of information and is a good exemplification of the progress of the country.

An Accident Defers the Race.
 SANDY HOOK, Sept. 8.—The Paritan and Genesta proceeded from the anchorage to the starting point at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The wind is increasing from the lighthouse. At 11:30 o'clock the signal was given to the yachts to get ready, and ten minutes later as the racers rounded up to cross the line the Genesta was seen to lose her bowsprit. She immediately came about as did the Paritan when a large hole was discovered in the latter's mainsail. Efforts were made to rig up a bowsprit, but without avail, and the Genesta was obliged to take the Paritan in tow and returned home. When the accident happened the yachts were ready to start. The race is declared off for today.

A DAILY DELICATESS.
 The Hon. John Kelly, the head and front of Tammany Hall, a man of strict integrity, an indefatigable worker, early at his office, late to leave, so burdened with business that regular meals were seldom known by him, with mind in constant tension and energies steadily trained, finally broke down!
 The wonder is that he did not sooner give way. An honest man in all things else, he acted unfairly with his physical resources. He was ever drawing upon this bank without ever depositing a collateral. The account overdrawn, the bank suspends, and both are now in the hands of medical receivers.
 It is not work that kills men. It is irregularity of habits and mental worry. No man in good health frets at his work. By and by, when the bank of vigor suspends, these men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until their dying day, unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental effort, by constant worry and fret, by plunging in deeper than they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact that the poison which the kidneys and liver should remove from the blood, if left therein, soon knocks the life out of the strongest and most vigorous man or woman. Daily building up of these vital organs by so wonderful and highly reputed a specific as Warner's Safe Cure, is the only guarantee that our business men can have that their strength will be equal to the labors daily put upon them.

Mr. Kelly has nervous dyspepsia, we learn, indicating, as we have said, a break-down of nerve force. His case should be a warning to others who, pursuing a like course, will certainly reach a like result.—(Sunday Herald.)

PETRID SALMON.
 The London Grocer, under the above heading reports two remarkable cases recently prosecuted under the "Sales of Food Act" by the police authorities of the great metropolis. In the first case the offending party was a peddler who admitted on the witness stand that he had found some fish in a waste bin, and subsequently sold them for fresh salmon.

The story was hardly credited by the magistrate, but the testimony of witness established the truth of the astounding statement. It was developed on the trial that the fish were found to be bad, and were thrown into a waste bin in a fish stall by a salesman. Soon after, the peddler arrived, and with the consent of the salesman, carried the fish away, and they were offered for sale at four pence per pound. The peddler was fined 25s, with the alternative of a month's imprisonment with hard labor. It would seem that the salesman had a guilty knowledge of the intention of the peddler, and he should have been punished with him, and with equal severity.

The second case brought out a story of possibly a more astonishing character than that told by the peddler. The defendant was a general dealer. He was arrested for offering for sale three fish tins of salmon unfit for human consumption. The defendant testified that when he bought the goods the seller had opened seven or eight cans for him, and they were all sound. He had never bought goods of that kind before. In an American court of justice, under such an act as the "Sales of Food Act," the defendant's testimony would have put the broker or jobber from whom he purchased, and his defense in a very sticky predicament enough to escape arrest at the time the offense was charged against the dealer. Notwithstanding the dealer's plea of ignorance he was found guilty as charged, and in his review of the testimony, the court dealt with great severity upon the personal responsibility of the dealer for the character of goods he offers for sale. The conduct of the defendant was described as infamous in selling these cans of food, when he knew that the salmon was packed and what labels were upon the cans.

New Postal Cards.
 The new postal cards are now in circulation. They are printed on harder material than some of those formerly in use, and are easy to write on. They are handsome in appearance, the printed matter being of a light brown color. The warning on the face, which has had various phraseology, as "Put nothing on this side but the address," and "Nothing but the address can be placed on this side," becomes in the new card, "Nothing but the address to be on this side." The words "United States" appear on a scroll, and under them the words "Postal card," and a red thirteen stars is between the two lines. A youthful head of Jefferson appears on the stamp, partly surrounded by a wreath. There is more ornamentation than on those formerly in use.

A CLEVER SWINDLER.
 How Tom Davis Managed to Rob His Customers.
 New York, Sept. 8.—Referring to the trade in "counterfeit" money pursued by Tom Davis, the murdered sport, report says: A man named Mapes, of Easton, Pa., answered one of Davis' circulars. He brought with him $5,000 in good money. Davis met him at Chatham square and led him to a saloon near the Bowery. They entered and saw a confederate named Butler sitting at a beer table. Davis called for beer, and while the waiter was gone, Mapes handed suspiciously at Butler. "Gentlemen," the latter said, "I fear that I disturb you," and left the table. Before he did so he deposited on a shelf underneath, where the waiter was sometimes hid, a white filled envelope, bound with red string. Davis took from an inside pocket an envelope exactly similar, and counted out $200 worth of genuine money in hundred-dollar bills. Mapes examined them and said they were worth $5,000, soon as he said this Davis, in an absent-minded way, called for some beer. The waiter was hurrying to the table, and Davis glanced at him suspiciously, quickly picked up the money, bound the envelope with a red string, and dropped the parcel in his lap, at the same time winking at Mapes. The verdict believed that he understood, for as soon as the waiter was gone, a confederate hid with a red string was handed to him, and he gave Tom Davis $5,000. Both the men arose and walked out, and the crook Butler walked up to the table, picked up the $200,000 envelope and had a drink. Mapes and Davis went off with a bundle of black papers.

As a "sawdust" man Davis had no equal, and as a bunco-steerer not even the absent "Hungry Joe" was as adept as he. About a year ago Davis opened an office at 261 Broadway for the sale of purpose of bunco-steering. An officer in the society for the suppression of vice said that bunco-steering, not proving as remunerative as was expected, the office was turned in a panel house. "One of Davis' victims," said the officer, "was a westerner. He wanted to buy $5,000 worth of goods, and said to Davis in the office: 'I want you to accompany me to the market, or I'll make you.' Davis said: 'You are armed?' 'I am' the visitor said, and showed two Bowie knives in his boots and a brace of revolvers under his coat. Davis told him that if he was found with weapons on him he would be arrested and everything would fall. The westerner therefore, surrendered the arms, on condition that they be packed in the valise with his money. Davis consented and the bargain was completed. The westerner went home minus his money and weapons. Indeed, it is said that one of the crooks who went down to see him safely aboard the train stole his gold watch and chain."

FOREIGN SALMON MARKETS.
 "The London and Liverpool stocks of canned salmon have been largely over-estimated," said a gentleman who has just returned from England, whose extensive dealings in canned goods qualify him to speak authoritatively of the world's stocks. "I am not prepared to give figures, but the idea that there is a stock sufficient for two years' ordinary demands is absurd. The markets are in better condition to-day than they have been for months. Stocks are cleaning up, and in salmon the market has a much improved tone. During the season just ended the standard packs have had a great deal to contend against. Fresh salmon has sold at six pence per pound, and other foods have been relatively as cheap. Inferior goods and cheap canned meats—there has been a large importation of the latter—have also retarded the sale of salmon. There is always a demand for a first-class article. In all the English markets canned goods are sold on their merits; the poor stuff never finds the shelves, but for a time interferes with the movement of standard packs. Just now the demand is falling off there. Grocers are receiving their dried fruits and holiday stocks, and next month canned goods will be forced into the background, but by the first of next year trade will be resumed again, and dealers anticipate a very firm market."

"The stock in the United Kingdom is much lighter than when the season just ended. The consumption has been estimated at a thousand cases a day. There is always a stock of at least 100,000 cases, without which the markets would be regarded as practically bare. Before any of the present season's produce the market stocks will have been reduced to a comparatively small excess of the reserve stock, for everything indicates an active demand at the opening of next year, and the present situation promises a general improvement on prices."
