

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1885. ISSUED EVERY MORNING.

J. F. HALLORAN & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS, ASTORIAN BUILDING, - - - CASS STREET.

Terms of Subscription. Served by Carrier, per week 15cts. Sent by Mail, per month 50cts.

Notice To Advertisers. THE ASTORIAN guarantees to its advertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia river.

School books at Carl Adler's. Goodwin's Clatsop butter at Beck's. The Tillie E. Starbuck arrived at Fallmouth last Thursday.

There will be no Sunday excursion on the Gen. Miles to-morrow. J. E. Denney has been appointed to the command of the steamer Coos Bay.

The M. E. Watson went up stream in tow of the Alice and Oklahoma yesterday afternoon. C. Cesar, the newly appointed German consul for Oregon, was banqueted in Portland last Thursday.

Nineteen hundred cases salmon and 1,500 sacks flour were saved from the wrecked Haddingtonshire. E. C. Holden advertises his regular auction sale at his auction rooms, of second hand furniture, etc., at 11 a. m.

The Multnomah county assessor gives the total population of the county as aggregating 38,000, of whom 10,000 are in the city of Astoria. The Geo. W. Elmer is coming here to carry wheat to San Francisco. The Mexico takes her place on the Victoria route.

Major Adams has succeeded in getting his paper, the Columbian, out of the sheriff's hands, and it appears again this week, edited in his own original style. Lieut. J. P. Wisser is transferred from Battery F to Light Battery E, First Artillery, vice Lieut. J. F. Honeycutt, who goes to Battery F, now at Fort Canby.

R. V. Chadd, editor of the Kittitas Standard, formerly of Yakima, dropped dead at Ellensburg last Thursday night, cause, aneurism of the main artery of the heart. A new bellry has lately been added to the chapel of the Holy Innocents at upper Astoria, the funds for which were entirely raised by the children's guild of the chapel.

The corner stone of the new Episcopal church will be laid at four o'clock this afternoon by Rt. Rev. Jno. A. Paddock. D. D. Bishop Paddock will officiate in Grace church at the usual hour to-morrow. The Oregon sailed yesterday, she carried from Astoria 497 cases salmon, 900 cases of wheat, 150 cases oysters, and ten tons general merchandise. The salmon shipments were, Sunset, 103; Magnolia, 333; Geo. Home, 67.

The second annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the Columbia will be held in Tacoma, W. T., on the 8th and 9th of October. Several delegates from Astoria V. M. C. A. will be present. Capt. Post of the M. E. Watson says that the day the Haddingtonshire went ashore in the fog off Point Reyes was an hour behind her, but on approaching land he became aware it was dangerous, and wearing ship stood out to sea.

Messrs. Campbell and Bailey of Portland will be the principals in a prize fight to be fought at the mouth of the Columbia this morning. The Tom Morris started from here at ten o'clock last night with a party to see the fight. At two o'clock this afternoon, E. C. Holden will sell at public auction the valuable lots in the town of Alderbrook. To any one desirous of securing a good site for a residence in that neighborhood no more favorable opportunity will likely ever be presented.

From Balmier's key mountains, from Curry's coral strand to where the Clatsop mountains lie hid 'neath shifting sand, come words of thankful praise to the welcome rain, that has put the fires out, and made it possible to see across the street once more. The News says there is a deficit of $2,000,000 in the Portland city assessment roll compared with '84. No wonder, the way they assess property there. It is common report that the Portland assessors assess city property at from 15 to 25 per cent of its actual cash value. Mortgagees in that city were last year assessed at 60 per cent of the amount; this year, it is said, 30 per cent. comes nearer the figure. There is where your $2,000,000 deficit comes in.

A PLEASANT EVENING. There was a social gathering at Mrs. Van Dusen's hospitable residence last evening, a sociable being held there by the ladies of Grace Episcopal church. The spacious apartments were filled with ladies and gentlemen. During the evening vocal and instrumental music was given by some of the best musical talent of the city. A unique feature of the evening was the manner in which refreshments were served. Each lady attending the sociable brought a basket or box in which was put up a delicious array of good things, a nice little supper for two: inside was her card and a souvenir of the occasion; at a certain time in the evening when it appeared refreshments were in order, these boxes were sold to the gentlemen, and as each gentleman bought a box, the card inside told him with whom he had the honor of taking lunch. The buying of the boxes, the discovery of their partners and the subsequent partaking of the contents of the boxes, afforded considerable merriment. It is very likely that that style of social will be deservedly popular in Astoria this winter. Last evening's entertainment netted a handsome sum which will be placed in the fund that the ladies of Grace church are raising to buy steam heating apparatus for the new church, the corner stone of which will be laid this afternoon.

Reopening of School in District No. 18. School books cheaper than ever before at Carl Adler's Book Store, also exchange of books at prices adopted by State Board. Slate pencils, lead pencils, ink, etc., given away at Carl Adler's Book Store. Song Olios, Vocal and Instrumental Folios; fifty different Musical Albums just received at Adler's Music Store.

WHO WERE THEY?

More About the Mysterious Drowning Last Tuesday Night. The items in THE ASTORIAN of the 10th regarding the drowning of two men from a sail boat in the river near Knappaon, and the narrow escape of the third occupant of the boat, elicited universal inquiry. The information received was but the vaguest outline, and the most diligent effort on the part of this paper has thus far failed to find the names of the lost men. No one is missed; no Astorian appears to have any knowledge of them. It is certainly one of the most singular affairs in the annals of the lower Columbia. The only presumption left is that they were total strangers, just passing through the city. It may be that inquiry from their friends or acquaintances wherever they came from will throw more light on what is at present a very singular episode.

Following is a letter received from the survivor of the unfortunate trio: Under date of Skamokwa, September 10th, 1885, he writes: EDITOR ASTORIAN: "Tuesday last, on my way up from Ilwaco, I stopped at your city and got my supper. As I was about to start away two men stood on the dock. One of them asked me where I was bound. I told him I intended to go to Knappaon, and from there to Skamokwa. They then asked me if they could get passage with me. I told them they could, but also told them that the small steamer was going up in the morning. They insisted on going with me. We started and ran across to the point just below Knappaon. When I asked one of them to take down the sprit, the man did as I asked him. I saw him slip on deck. When the sprit came down it shoved the man overboard. I sprang from the tiller, ran forward, grasped the man by the shoulder, but as the sprit of the sail came down the end of the boom caught the water, tripping the boat, causing the boat to lay on her side. A squall struck the remaining sail, which caused the boat to fill. As I found myself sinking, I stripped off my overcoat, also my vest and dress coat, and swam toward a light I saw on shore, which proved to be drift fire on the beach. I lay on the beach about two hours, when the boat came ashore. No men were to be seen. I was not acquainted with either of the parties. I will be at Skamokwa where parties can give information in regard to the two drowned men."

FRANK B. HUNTER. Mr. Hunter's letter is of considerable interest and is a valuable addition to the meagre knowledge possessed of the affair. The question now is, who were they?

ASTORIA FREIGHT. The Columbia came in in good season; she brought Astoria freight as follows: Van Dusen & Co., 2 boards saws, 1 cs hand saws, 30 kegs nails, 60 lbs soap, 8 cs crackers, 20 lbs paste; A Campbell, 1 cs cigars; A. The Judge and Baker's Bay. It is said that a certain judge in correcting a Chinaman as to the location of Astoria, asserted that it was located on Baker's bay which was about two miles wide. Had the Judge been possessed of Johnson's Family Atlas of this world he would not need have made such an egregious error.

ALL ALIKE. Simpson and his wife were on their way to church, and the lady was putting on her gloves. "My dear," he said pettishly, "You should complete your toilet at home. I'd as soon see you putting on your stockings on the street as putting on your gloves."

TEXAS ILLAHE

And the Gentlemen That There Do Congregate. Last April the justice court in this precinct was the scene of a costly case wherein Chas. Wood, and other residents of Texas Ill-see had some private laundry work done in public. It was a dirty case and ended where it began. At its conclusion Wood started home to find the sanctity of his domestic health again invaded by some one or more who stole several hundred dollars worth of stuff—a web of net, a rifle, ammunition, etc.—from Wood's room. Suspicion pointed to a company of congenial spirits who made that place headquarters but no evidence offering to justify making arrests, the matter slumbered till this week, when Messrs. Stewart and Peterson of that region going some little distance, Peterson "penched," declaring Stewart was the thief, and produced the rifle, at the same time saying that he (Stewart) had cut the marks off a web, and used it in his own net. Stewart was arrested yesterday and will be given a hearing before Justice Goodell at three o'clock this afternoon. He claims it is all "a put up job," and that he is innocent of the charge preferred against him.

ALLEGED JOKES. A musical expert says that only one man in a thousand can whistle a tune. And yet there are people who think there is nothing to be thankful for.—Texas Siftings.

The Salt Lake Democrat says that Salt Lake City possesses twenty-eight organized baseball clubs and twenty brass bands. If the Mormons can stand all that it is no wonder they laugh at the United States army.—City Herald.

Archibald Adams, a Texas resident near Pittsburg, recently undertook to bathe the hind hoofs of one of his mules in hot water. His widow has decided to sell the mule.—Texas Siftings.

Wait Whiteman is said to be the chief curiosity in the city of Camden. No wonder. He is a man who has a "prudence" with "symbolical" would be a curiosity anywhere.—Lowell Citizen.

It is said that Sitting Bull is fond of canned goods. Some one should send him a can of nitro-glycerine and a hammer and cold chisel, and let him pick it out and enjoy himself.—St. Paul Herald.

"Why are they called pyramids, pa?" asked George, who was looking at a picture of those wonders of Egypt. "They are called pyramids, my son," replied his father, without hesitation, "because you see they appear about the general declination of the desert."—Boston Transcript.

Policeman Addis of Philadelphia recently tried to arrest a rough, who fired on him, but the ball was stopped by a suspender button. This little incident shows that Policeman Addis has a nose. The man, otherwise his suspender would have been fastened by an old shingle nail or a wooden toothpick.—Texas Siftings.

The San Antonio city council has achieved a national reputation for the slowness with which it accomplishes nothing. An alderman meeting an enterprising citizen on Commerce street, said: "We had a very important two hours' session of the city council this afternoon." "What time was it?" "Well, the two hours passed."—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Colonel Yeager has a dreadful tongue. A few nights ago she and her daughter retired at an early hour, the latter being in an adjoining room. Col. Yeager having gone to the lodge. Mrs. Yeager was in a bad humor, and gave her daughter a fearful tongue-lashing. Miss Yeager stood it for a good while, but at last she called out: "Mother, for God's sake give yourself a rest. If you keep this up longer you will not be able to do anything left over for pa when he comes home from the lodge. Don't be so extravagant, ma."—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Petyer was making a neighborly call on Mrs. Simpson. While they were chatting together little Mamie Simpson was seen coming towards the house with a package in her hand. "Mamie is such a smart child; she is too smart for her age. I often send her to the grocery on the corner with a ten-dollar bill, and she always brings back the right change." Enter Mamie, who runs to her mother and says: "I got the coffee from the grocery, but the clerk says if you don't pay last month's bill you can't get anything more on credit."—Texas Siftings.

A building was in process of erection opposite a public building in Washington city. One of the clerks, who had been looking out of the window for some time, said to another clerk who was reading a newspaper: "I have been watching that workman over there, and he has not done a lick of work in all that time. I wonder what he gets paid for?" Just about the same time the workman remarked to a fellow workman: "Just look at that government clerk over there. He hasn't done anything except look out of the window for the last half hour. No wonder the country is going to the dogs."—Texas Siftings.

A FAMOUS GAME OF POKER.

Stanley Huntley's Extraordinary Luck at Bismarck. One of the most famous games of poker ever played in the northwest was between the late Stanley Huntley and Major A. W. Edwards, editor and proprietor of the Fargo Argus. Mr. Huntley had not been making much money out of the Bismarck Tribune, and when he was taken sick and was unable to attend to business for several months, his affairs became so entangled that he determined to sell out his share in the paper. As the Tribune was the only paper in Bismarck at that time, and as there was a strong political ring in the county, he had hopes of disposing of his property to the politicians; but, fearing that he might fail to do so, he dropped a line to Major Edwards asking him to buy his paper. Major Edwards had made a fortune out of his own paper, and as he was ambitious to own more papers, he promptly responded to the letter by drawing $2,000 from the bank and taking the first train for Bismarck. When he reached that city he found that the trade with the politicians was made, and Huntley had come out of his difficulties with several hundred dollars in cool cash. It was several hours before the return train left, and having nothing else to do, the major suggested that they play a game of poker at $5 ante.

The major's fame as a poker player was not confined alone to Fargo. He was recognized throughout the territory as the best player in the northwest, and when it became known about the town that he and Huntley were to play for large stakes there was no saloon in the place large enough to accommodate the crowd, so the game was moved to the town hall over the engine house. The game began at noon and continued until 2 o'clock, with varying success. At last there was a jack pot containing $200 on the table, and it was Major Edwards' deal. When Mr. Huntley picked up his hand he saw that he held four queens and an ace. He was surprised, Cards had not been running well enough to justify such luck. He saw the major throw away one card and held four.

"How much do you open it for?" asked the major, nonchalantly. Huntley stopped a moment to think and then replied calmly: "Well, I will," said the major. "For how much?" asked Huntley. "For $100," replied the major. "All right," said Huntley, throwing away his four queens, and keeping his ace. "I'll come in. Give me four cards."

With a glance of incredulity and pity the major dealt them, and took one himself. "I'll bet $100," observed the major. "Raise me $100," said Huntley. The major scanned his hand carefully, looked at his youthful adversary keenly, and raised it back for the same amount. "Raise it $100 more," said Huntley. "I'll raise you $200," said the major, and the crowd was breathless with excitement. "I'll raise you $500," said the major, "if you will trust me."

"I'll raise you the cash," said Huntley. "Will you take this ring for that amount?" returned the major, as he pointed to a magnificent solitaire diamond he wore, which cost $1,000 in Chicago. "Yes," said Huntley, as he saw the raise. "Then I'll call," said the major. Huntley laid down his hand. He had caught the other three aces. The major Yeaeger knew, just as Huntley had suspected. It cost Huntley $500 to treat the crowd, and when the major left for Fargo it was on borrowed money.

The fame of this game spread around the territory, and when Huntley returned from his trip in the northwest territory after interviewing Sitting Bull, he stopped at Fargo on his way east, and gave Major Edwards back his ring. After dinner, as Huntley was about to take the train for New York, the major accompanied by several friends, went to the station to see him off. "By the way, Stanley," said he, "since you left Bismarck they have told some pretty good stories about that game of poker we played."

"What are they?" "They say that I dealt myself four kings from a cold deck. Now, I want you to tell me, when you get to Chicago, if you can find any one who can play a fair, square game."

"The major is right," said Huntley. "He played a honest game." "Thanks, Stanley," returned the major. "Now I want to ask you one question."

"All right." "I want to know how in the devil you ever came to discard those four queens I dealt you?" "I'll answer that, Major," said Huntley, with a grin smug, "if you will tell me how you knew I had four queens."
