And now the question is advanced should the governor call a special session of the legislature, can it constitutionally elect a U. S. senator? It is argued that the constitution intends that the election of U.S. senators shall be at regular sessions of the legislature and does not provide that a vacancy can be filled by a reconvened legislature. The more this thing is examined the worse appears to be the muddle. Whatever the governor does he is sure to make a mistake. It's like the two roads to mill that were so bad that whichever one you took "you'd wish you had taken the other one."

THE JETTY AT THE BAR.

A pleasant half hour's ride the swiftsure steamer Gen. Canby brings one to the Ft. Stevens wharf, around which the sand is forming so fast as to soon necessitate another extension. Piled on the side of the railroad track on which runs the lo-comotive "Tillamook," are huge bun-dles of brush, spruce and hemlock poles tied in twenty foot lengths and bound securely with withes, the tops and branches being trimmed in the woods and hauled to the wharf by ox teams. The rail track winds along the beach in a southwesterly direc-tion and then turns to the west, a double track being laid a distance of Worsley will have an auction sale of government merchandise.

Gov. Squires of Washington territory, has reappointed E. C. Holden commissioner of deeds for Oregon.

The Yaquina which was reported as having left Yaquina on the 30th ult. was still there bar bound on the 2nd inst. and a space of eight feet in the middle, making the piling eighteen feet in width from outside to outside. The piles are fir, forty-five feet long, averaging eighteen inches in diameter, and are driven twenty-one feet into the sand; the piles have been driven by the hydraulic process, which in this instance has been invaluable as it is believed they could not have been driven by the ordinary process. A three inch rubber pipe is put down by the side of the pile as soon as placed in an upright position in the frame and a jet of water forced through it; this cuts away the sand and the pile sinks down in the sand law its own weight. The simpleness Wierreas, In view of the loss by its own weight. The simpleness and effectiveness of the operation is manifest to the most casual observer. After the pile has been sunk in this way, a few taps on the end from a loss sustained by those who were huge hammer settles and steadies the pile, and in this way 1,016 piles have be it been driven. The work has gone rapidly on without a single accident, break or mishap of any kind, and say that in regretting his removal

Then smaller rock is dumped on them till they sink; the rock is not of the coarsest, weighing from 100 pounds to a ton, so as not to pierce the mattress, till it is submerged: then rocks weighing from two to three tons each are dumped till the mattress is covered to a depth of four or five feet and by this time another couple of lengths of mattresses are ready to be sunk, and so the work goes on. Thus far about 6,000 tons of rock have been used. On the north side spurs of ontlying mattresses and masses of rock have been placed as protection passes at the ends of his clauses and from the constant wash of the water the cat has clauses at the ends of her while the work of putting in place pawses. roes on. In this way 1,010 feet of the jetty have been constructed, the end of the track being now just 4,000 feet from the wharf and eight feet higher than the eastern extremity. It is a fine sight to stand on the lights put in. The lights cost four cents per night for each light: that is the contractor furnishes so many mark. Away out on the spit to the the contractor furnishes so many mark. resent line of beach.

With the ocean heaving and toss ing under the feet of the workmen the tide coming and going and the great waves rolling in it requires constant care and a steady head on the part of the workmen but they go ahead swinging the large piles into the frame, and when once made upright sinking them to their home with very little delay. Last week a large platform sixty-five feet length and fourteen feet in width, has been constructed at the end of the track. It swings end of the track. It swings on a turntable and overhangs the water twenty-two feet. Though so huge, it swings on a pivot as easily as a gate on its hinges, and is of great convenience in allowing easy placing of the piles. A steam hamme is in operation at present. It works direct and is supplied from a pipe running from the engine in the rear Above the hammer is a steam chest which by an ingenious arrangement of valves gives force to the thirtyfive hundred pound hammer to raise it, the hammer dropping on the head of the pile at the rate of sixty blows a minute. After the first hundred blows the head of the pile begins to smoke from the intense heat generated by the impact of the ponderous blows and seems as though on fire, the while settling slowly to its place. The hydraulic process is used in con-nection with the experimental work of the steam hammer.

The jetty is now heading about northwest, the intention being to extend it about three and three-quarte miles to a point almost due south of Cape Hancock. Major Eastwick who about the 15th inst. Major Jones and Capt. Powell have visited the work and appear well pleased with the swift and satisfactory manner in which it has been prosecuted. Of the $100,000 appropriated by congress at its last session $85,000 has been spent. It is within the limits of conservative statement to say that probably no similar amount of government appropriation has been more judicious ly expended or with better practica results. Work was begun on April 11th and the six months since then has seen the entire plant placed and the entire work pushed to a point that begins to show what can be done and the usefulness of the project when completed. This work is one of national importance: it is second in magnitude and the interests affected to no simi-lar work in the United States. It concerns every resident of a scope of country comprising nearly 400,000 square miles of the fairest portion of our national domain. It is a work that affects the future prosperity of everyone in Oregon, Washington and Idaho. It is not of state or local im-portance to the exclusion of larger interests. It is the direct concern of all and should receive the aid that all can give. To our national legislature the people of this northwest coast look for continued aid to pros-ecute the great work so well begun.

WHAT JUDGE GREEN SAYS.

Washington Territory Chief Justice Talks to the Seattle Grand Jury.

SEATTLE, W. T., Oct. 5 .- The anti-Chinese crusade here has been given a couple of painful black eyes during a couple of painful black eyes during the past few days. The first was in the meeting of leading citizens on Saturday night last and the appoint-ment of three hundred deputy sher-iffs reported at the time, and the sec-ond was in the charge of Chief Justice Green to the grand jury on its em-paneling to-day. After calling their attention to sections of the law relat-ing to riots, arson, murder, etc., the ing to riots, arson, murder, etc., the judge said: "You doubtless share, as I do, the prevalent conviction of people of the Pacific states and territories that under present conditions and viewed from an economic standpoint, the Chinese are out of place in America, and that their presence on this coast is an obstacle to its highest business prosperity. But a re-sort to lawless violence to promote their removal is utterly inexcusable. Business prosperity may be hindered by the presence of the Chinese, but business prosperity will be scattered to the four winds if this country is to be published to the world as a place to which social agitators can safely resort to try their experiments of mob law. You sit here to-day as exponents of the good sense, the fear-lessness, the love of the law and the determined will of this community. Let it be seen by your promptitude and fairness that it is the law loving and peaceful citizens who wield here and peaceful citizens who wield here both the scepter and the sword. The presence of the Chinese is an evil, but the project of driving them out by lawless violence is suicidal. There are well meaning individuals who favor that project, but they are not wise. If their minds grasped the near natural and inevitable consequences of executing it, they would quences of executing it, they would not favor it. Again, there are others, not well meaning, who favor it; persons who are among us but not of us, who have nothing at stake in this city or county; transieut loafers in the lowest slums of the town; labor imposters, too lazy to work, too cow-ardly to face the battle of life. Be-sides this basest element, there are other men and combinations tormented by the jealousy of this communi-ty, who would not be displeased to see Seattle a ruin and King county a bankrupt. Many there are who would even rejoice to have fastened npon this county, before the world, the reputation of being the nursery and volcanic center of lawlessness and riot, and upon our people the re-proach of lacking that lofty morality, that sobriety of judgment, that rev-erence for law, that stability of purpose, that unanimity and solidity in action, which betoken a community truly great, and prophecy for it a great future. I put these considerations before you partly that in view of them, you may present to this court if you see fit, such a memorial touching the Chinese evil as shall express the public conviction, and be useful in procuring satisfactory leg islation, but I also have in mind that the eyes of the country are upon you.

The time is critical. The temper of this city and county will be read in your attitude and presentments. Recently, in this city, threats have been publicly and notoriously made to the effect that if the Chinese, some of them located under the very shadow of this court house, are not gone by the sixth of next November, they will, during the current session of this court, and before your term of service shall be expired, be driven out by violence and bloodshed. Never was a law abiding community more audacionsly bearded or more impudently insulted. The fact shows that some men of extraordinary effrontery and depravity have found temporary harbor among us, but God is a God of com pensations, and I doubt not that this city and country is the present home of still more extraordinary civic virtue We need no outside help no military force summoned from abroad to keep our peace. We, ourselves, will amply guard the reputation of our citizenship, the value of our investments,

Recently there has been an advance of 4s per dozen in London, the latest quotation being 21s 6d, equal to $1.17½ on the river free on board or $1.20 per dozen for domestic shipment. The New York market is also higher, as 22,000 cases of the 37,175 cases enroute to New York per W. H. Besse, August 13th, have been purchased by a party here, for shipment to Europe upon arrival at New York should circum stances justify that disposition. - S. F.
