

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1885

Seattle will have through railroad connection to-morrow.

Twelve dozen eggs are worth more than a barrel of finest flour here.

Astoria has the largest and finest skating rink north of San Francisco.

First class Shoalwater bay oysters are selling for $3 a sack in Portland.

The boatshop and stable of Charles Shagren, in Oysterville, was burned on Sunday last. Loss, $1,500.

It is reported from Gray's harbor that Chinamen are dropping in there from Victoria, in violation of the restriction act.

A neat thing in the way of ornament and use is a gas stove at the residence of C. S. Wright; it is believed to be the first of the kind in the city.

The boat race is announced to be sailed at eleven a. m. to-day, subject to the decision of the judges.

Men of considerable experience say that when completed, the new residence of Capt. Geo. Flavel will be second to none in the state in point of elegance and finish.

"Helps and Hindrances" is the subject of to-morrow morning's discourse at the M. E. church.

A meeting of Northern Pacific directors is in session in New York. It is stated that they have confirmed the sale of about 80,000 acres of land to an American syndicate at about $7 per acre.

The ship Benjamin F. Packard, with 3,100 tons of grain, is detained at Port Townsend for a crew. It seems that seamen cannot be shipped for Europe for the port wages $20 per month.

The government officials that are issuing certificates to Chinese on the Columbia have a sweet scented job. They put endowment robes on 108 yesterday and have about 200 more to pass upon.

What a lot of work the legislators will have at the coming session! The matter of corrections, alone, will take considerable time.

THE WEEKLY ASTORIAN, chock full of news and home happenings, is out to-day. Send a copy to friends and acquaintances elsewhere.

The British bark Cormorant, 1,073, Hume master, 85 days from Lacede bay, Parthia, 1,022, Carruthers master, 51 days from Sydney, and Scutago, previously reported, arrived yesterday.

The crew of the British bark High moor, says the News, are clamoring for their wages. Six of them threaten to leave the vessel.

The Nehalem coal discoveries excite considerable interest. If what is said is so, and if a road can be got into that country, the existence of coal there is better for Astoria than any gold mine or railroad that ever was talked of.

Gen. Minty, a distinguished railroad eye, is in Portland. The general's name will be inscribed upon the tablets of the nation's memory as the name of the man that invented the "double order" in train dispatching.

In the matter of county roads it is argued with considerable reason that a road connecting with that to the Walluski, thence crossing in a curving direction to the seaside would give required connection from Astoria to the seaside at less expense than that entailed by the building of the Clatsop road, and obviating the feature of a bridge across Young's bay.

Nettie Westerfield, died of congestion of the bowels at the hospital at eleven o'clock yesterday morning. She was in the twentieth year of her age and belonged to the unfortunate sisterhood whose ranks are recruited from those who in the innocent past loved "not wisely but too well."

The funeral will take place from Ross' undertaking rooms at two o'clock this afternoon.

A police officer whose boat takes him into the confines of Chinatown in Portland, said to a News reporter: "The Chinamen are actually starving. They have no money and there is no work for them. The Canadian Pacific will be finished shortly, and a large number of them will be thrown out of employment. If they have no money the companies will not keep them, and of course, they are thrown on their own resources."

It is the pleasant experience of THE ASTORIAN to receive numerous friendly answers to bills sent out for subscriptions to the WEEKLY, etc. With the amount of the bill comes, in several instances, an extra one or two year's subscription with instruction to place it to the subscriber's credit. In this way many have paid up to '88. Not less satisfactory are the many expressions of good will and kindly feeling on the part of the many to whom THE WEEKLY is a welcome visitor.

WAYSIDE NOTES.

The Henderson Bros. & Withers own a fine body of bottom and tideland lying along Young's river, immediately below the junction of the Klaskanine and this river.

U. Hassell, living near Grange Hall on Young's river is engaged in the poultry business, the chickens raised being mostly of the mongrel varieties; but there are a number of full-blooded Brown Leghorns in the yards.

Two young men, purporting to come from Astoria, and registering as W. P. Murray and J. W. Davidson, played a confidence game successfully upon a verdant youth from the country, one Frank Vidal, a few days since.

The ship Benjamin F. Packard, with 3,100 tons of grain, is detained at Port Townsend for a crew.

The government officials that are issuing certificates to Chinese on the Columbia have a sweet scented job.

PETROLEUM AND COAL.

The substitution of petroleum for coal on the ferry steamers of the Central Pacific railroad company was noticed at length in this journal some days ago.

The great iron steamship which for more than a year last past has made an average of three trips a month between this port and Tacoma, on Puget sound, bringing down on each trip 4,000 tons of coal from the Caribou Hill mine, is laid up at the railroad wharf on the Oakland side.

Two young men, purporting to come from Astoria, and registering as W. P. Murray and J. W. Davidson, played a confidence game successfully upon a verdant youth from the country, one Frank Vidal, a few days since.

TO-DAY'S BOAT RACE.

At eight o'clock Thursday evening the following boats had entered, at Jeff's Telephone saloon, for the race to-day.

M. Wilson, H. Jones, C. Carlson, J. Hendrickson, Meyer's boat No. 2, G. Wilson, J. Nickles, James McCarthy, M. Ryan, Jas. Hern, C. Brown, J. C. Lidwell, C. Woods, M. J. Anderson, A. Pakka; and all captains being present, the following rules were adopted: The race to be from the stake boat opposite Wilson & Fisher's wharf to the black spar buoy, at Booth's cannery, leaving the spar buoy, on the starboard side and thence around the black buoy below Ft. Stevens, leaving that buoy on the starboard side, and back to the stake boat opposite Wilson & Fisher's wharf.

The following gentlemen were selected by the captains of the boats and kindly requested to serve. Capt. A. D. Wass, Capt. Geo. W. Wood and G. G. Smith. Time keepers, G. Hansen and M. Studzinski.
