Venerable Edifice Dating Back to Early Colonial Days.

Next to Independence Hall the most interesting historical building Philadelphia is Christ Church on Sec ond street, above Market. Both sacred and national associations cluster around this stately edifice, where lie the remains of John Penn, Richard Peters, Robert Asheton and many others, great men in their day, whose tombstones have been worn smooth by the feet of those who followed them and in their turn have passed The coach of Washington, drawn by four dashing bays, used to draw up in front of this church on Sunday, and its stately owner to walk with dignified and reverent manner up the center aisle to the seat assigned for his use by the vestry. Benjamin Franklin worshipped here and for years was a member of the vestry. Robert Morris, the eminent financies of the Revolutionary period, was also a regular attendant. The first peal of the old "Liberty Bell," which an-nounced the birth of a nation, was joined by the sweet chimes of the bells in Christ Church tower.

The venerable building is a fine and well-preserved specimen of the style of church architecture which appeared in London after the great fire, and is built of brick which were brought from the mother country. The original building, erected in 1695, only twelve years after the founding of the city by Penn and during the reign of William III., was constructed partly of wood and partly of brick. Queen Anne presented the church with a communion service appro-priately inscribed, which is still pre-The church was enlarged in 1711 and Governor Sir William Keith, becoming one of the vestrymen, built a permanent Governor's pew in the church. The corner-stone of the pres-ent building was laid with imposing ceremonies in 1727 by the Governor of the Province, the Mayor and Re-corder of the city and the rector of WHERE WHITFIELD PREACHED. The pulpit of this church was occupied by the celebrated Whitfield, during his visit to this country, the rec-tor not being able to refuse the people who were so anxious to hear him. The chime of eight bells was brought from London in 1754. They were placed in the tower by Nicholas Nicholson, who cast them and ac-companied them to this country. He refused any compensation for his trouble on account of the attachment he felt for the work of his hands, simand nobody has ever told ply asking that the bells should be muffled when he died. This request was religiously observed. The bells her how easy it is to put beauty on the skin. Beauty on the skin is Magnolia brought them from England, entered Colonial Governors, at Alexandria, in 1755, were greeted with a merry peal of welcome from the bells. Within these hallowed walls assembled the first convention of clergymen held in the Colonies, on the 11th of May, 1760. The Continental Congress appointed July 20, 1775, as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer and attended Christ Church in a body.

The spirit of liberty which found expression in the Declaration of Independence was followed the same day by a decision of the staid vestrymen of the old church, who requested the rector to omit from the Litany the petition for the health and safety of the King of Great Britain. Congress attended in a body the funeral of William Henry Drayton, Chief Justice of South Carolina in 1776 and afterward a delegate to Congress, who was buried from the church, with imposing ceremonies, in 1779. The history of the church is identified with the first organization and establishment of the Episcopal Church in the United States, for here in 1784 was held the first convention of the Diocese of Pennsylvania and those following for thirty years. During the period from 1790 to 1796, when the seat of government was located in Philadelphia, General Washington and his family occupied pews 54 and 56 and the seat specially used by the President was placed in Independence Hall when the church was renovated in 1836.

THE INTERIOR MODERNIZED. This renovation consisted in modernizing the interior of the church pave ment and covering with a floor the brick and the tombstones in the aisles, which were much worn. Funeral sol-emnities were celebrated in honor of William Henry Harrison April 20, 1841. An immense civic and military procession formed in front of Independence Hall and moved through the principal streets to Christ Church, where an eloquent discourse was preached by the Right Rev. Bishop Onderdonk. The cents, skaters 25 cents. result was the resurrection of old slabs, whose inscriptions were pro-nounced illegible in 1836. The original pavement was almost wholly recovered, and, when wanting, tiling in harmony was laid. The original doorways were opened and the old staples found and replaced. To-day the pulpit stands where it did prior to 1769, with the old furniture restored wherever it was possible to do so. From the founding of this church in 1695 to the present day, a period of 190 years, it has been under the charge of only eleven clergymen, be-ginning with Thomas Clayton and ending with the Rev. Edward A. Foggo, D. D., the present rector — Philadelphia Times.

The Coffee Tree,

Now that beautiful leaved plants are so justly popular and in such con-stant request for drawing room decoration, it is surprising that the coffee tree of commerce (Coffea Arabica) is not made use of. We see it now and then in nurserymen's greenhouses, but seldom anywhere else, and yet there are few evergreen shrubs more ornamental, and very few that are better adapted for the adornment of the sitting-room. An average temperature of 70 deg. in summer and 60 deg. in winter will be found quite sufficient, and, if the plant is put in a warm corner of the room over the kitchen fire on frosty nights, no harm will come to it.

The best soil for planting is a mixture of peat and loam. The drainage must be thorough, the supply of water abundant, and the roots must have plenty of room. The coffee tree in a young state is well worth growing for its bright green glossy leaves fragrant jessamine-like white blossoms, and berries changing from green to red. It is said that Megal-ledin, a learned Mufti of Aden, became acquainted with it during one of his African journeys. He took back some berries with him to Yemen and recommended the beverage to his friends as an excellent method of keeping awake at prayers. Its use gradually spread to the Nile, Syria, Asia Minor and Turkey. Coffee was first sold in Constantinople in 1654.

It was introduced into Europe by the Dutch in 1610, but did not reach this country till 1640. Arab coffee is chiefly grown in Yemen, where it was first planted in the neighborhood of Aden and Mocha. The plantations are usually made half way up the hills. The berries are not gathered, but cloths are spread under the trees for the fruit to fall upon when ripe. The coffee is mostly consumed in the country, the home demand being so great. There is not much exported, and that not the best. A good deal of what goes in the trade by the name of Mocha coffee comes from Brazil and the West Indies.

How Much Lumber Have we Got,

The stock of pine yet standing in Michigan can produce 40,000,000,000 feet of lumber, if cut for that purpose. In eight years, therefore, at the late average production of the In eight years, therefore, at state, the pine will have been used up. But such predictions have been made for years past. In 1867, the standing pine of Michigan was estimated to be 52,416,000,000 feet and it was predicted that it would be all this port. Governor Delancy, of New York, and Shirley, of Massachusetts, returning from the first Congress of produced about 12,000,000,000 feet. and will continue to cut in the neigh borhood of 1,000,000,000 feet a year for the eight or ten years to come As pine grows scarcer, it will make more lumber than when it was plenty But in predicting the end of pine lumbering, a person must take into account the timber which is yet standing in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Canada and the South. And it will be many years before it even grows scarce, when we estimate the whole Yet an end must come to the forests that ithe white race found in this country. Doubtless pine forests of the second growth will be raised for future use, but the present magnifi-cent forests will disappear. It has been estimated that the demand for unber in this country from 1880 to 890 would require 210,000,000,000 eet, and one can readily see that at that rate the stock must soon be gone. There is only about 55,000-000,000 feet of pine in Canada, and that would go but a short way in saving the forests of the United States

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. Wooden Legs and Baptism.

"We do not see why our Baptist brethren, in a recent case to which the Presbyterian alludes, should have required a candidate for immersion to remove his wooden leg except on Old Connecticut of Hartford the principle which prevailed among some of them in early days of immer-sion in England, that absolute nudity was essential to the genuine effect of the ordinance. Surprising Customs-How Girls ar Emancipated.

In Russia, where in the middle classes the seclusion of women was even a few years ago nearly as great as in a harem, the advocate of women's rights would to-day find little to de mand for any class of females above the level of the peasantry. The mou-jik still administers corporal chastise-ment to his wife as he would to his child, and his right to do so, though denied by the written law, is tacitly acknowledged in practice. The girl however, is nearly as independent as her male relations. Like her brother, and from similar causes, she, too. often becomes disgusted with her home, and determined to seek what she imagines to be the delights of the independent life led by the nume female students who follow various university courses, and particularly that of medicine. Sometimes, when her parents refuse her permission to leave home, she simply runs away. and having no passport her position becomes illegal, and she naturally finds her companions among those who, like herself, have got into some trouble with the authorities.

In some cases enthusiasts like Sol-ovieff, who fired at the late czar in April, 1879, marry girls with whom they have scarcely any acquaintance, and for whom they have no feelings of affection, merely to free them from the obligation of obtaining a passport from their parents and their consent to leave home. The young husband and wife proceed together to the university town, and there, having no particular taste for each other's society, they often separate immediately, and even where they would desire to maintain their mutual connec tion, the pressure of poverty and the difficulties of their position frequently oblige them to part company.

A luxury is said to be something which you don't want until you see somebody else with it. In that case St. Jacobs Oil is not a luxury. You want it, not because somebody else has it, but because you know it will do you good.
