FUNNY TOADS.
An Important Lesson.
"My dear nephews and nieces, you charming inhabitants of glass houses, don't throw any more stones."
"Why, Uncle Phil, you don't mean to say that we speak incorrectly?"
Uncle Phil shoved his spectacles up to the middle of his forehead, and proceeded as follows:
"It's all very well for you self-sufficient graduates of colleges and seminaries to find fault when Uncle Joshua wants the well-bucket 'h'isted, when Debby 'renses' the clothes, when Aunt Maria 'ketches' cold, Coachman John 'doctors' Dobbin's 'huff,' Pete finds the 'creturs,' the cook 'biles the cramberries,' Bridget asks for 'jolup,' Farmer Grey 'reckons' its 'ruther cold for plantin' but concludes to 'resk' it—"
"Now, Uncle Phil, you know we were not talking about such mistakes. It was when Annie Hughes asked the clerk for 'these kind of gloves,' and then informed us that Dr. Burton always preached 'extem-pore,' that May and I began to wonder how people who pretended to be educated could be guilty of such blunders."
"That's nothing, girls"—this from Jack, a graduate of Harvard—"I asked one of the teachers at the High School, this morning, if he ever played base ball, and he said he 'used to conid.' Fancy that!"
Uncle Phil looked severely down upon the group of critics assembled in front of the fire.
"So you really think, young people, that you are exempt from the weakness of misusing the English language. What will you say if I call attention to no less than six mistakes made by you three, in utter unconsciousness, since you entered this room this morning."
"Try it, uncle, try it. We haven't been studying rhetoric and grammar this last four years for nothing. Remember, you are to find six mistakes made by the three of us within three hours."
"Ahem!"
Uncle Phil indulged in something that was almost but quite a wink, as he looked at Jack.
"We'll begin with you, Jack. First: 'This last four years.'"
"Oh! that's too mean."
"Is it? Then I won't call attention to 'the three of us.'"
"You mean, uncle, that Jack should have said 'these last four years,' and 'us three'?"
"I do, my dear. And I also have in mind a young lady who criticized her friend's way of asking for gloves, and said, when she handed me an orange, 'asked me to 'cut it in half.'"
"I should have said, in halves!"
"Yes, or 'in two.' One can scarcely cut a thing in one-half."
"What else did I do?"
"Well: Whose dress was to be trimmed 'lengthways' instead of 'lengthwise'? Who discovered that it was very cold last 'February,' and not last 'Feb'uary'? Of whose class at Sunday-school did I hear that 'every one was to have their not and his or her reward'?"
"Stop, uncle. That is three for me, and if the six mistakes you have only left one for May."
"Perhaps I haven't made any."
"Uncle Phil smiled.
"Where did you go this morning, May?"
"To the depot."
"Ah! Do you know that depot is a French word, and means simply store-house, or place of deposit, and has nothing whatever to do with a structure for the shelter of passengers, built at points where a railroad train stops? You never hear the word depot used in any such connection in England. Our language supplies the word 'station,' or 'station-house,' and only a very cultivated (?) American who prefers a foreign language he doesn't understand to his own better-supplied tongue, would ever replace it by a French word that is entirely a misnomer."
"I wonder how many more mistakes are current among us, Uncle Phil?"
"I won't call your attention to any more to-day. Think over these, and I'll see how many more I find you guilty of some other time."—(Mary E. Vandyne, in Good Cheer.

Some Little Ones.
"James, did you divide your paper of chocolate with your brother?"
"Yes, certainly, mamma; I ate the chocolate and gave him the motto—he is fond of reading, you know."
A little girl, aged 3, asked her father for more candy, but was told to wait until to-morrow. Looking out of the window for a few moments, she suddenly called out: "Pa, it looks like to-morrow now."
"Freddie, did you go to school to-day?" "Yes'm." "Did you learn anything new?" "Yes'm." "What was it, my boy?" "I got on to a sure way of gettin' out for an hour by sniffing red ink up my nose."
"You did not pay very close attention to the sermon, I fear, this morning." "Oh, yes, I did mamma."
"Well, what did the minister say?" "He said that the picnic would start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and, oh, ma, can I go?"—(Philadelphia Call.
