THE GOPHER.

The Farmers' Pest, but a Very Entertaining Animal.

When we speak of gophers in southern Georgia, Alabama, and Florida, says the Camilla (I. A.) Chronicle, we don't mean what are called gophers between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi. The gophers there are salamanders, or ground rats. Nor do we mean the prairie squirrels which are called gophers in Illinois. We mean our sure-enough gophers. These highland loggerhead turtles that burrow in the ground and come out of their secure abodes to feed upon grass and herbs. Their back made of testudo polyphemus. If the original old Cy-clope Polyphemus was as ugly as his modern namesake, we don't blame Ulysses for putting his eye out. The farmers of this section would not care if the Greek hero would come back and put out the eyes of all the polyphemus race. For when their home is in or near a field they are very destructive to young cotton, corn and peas.

When properly prepared the flesh of the gopher is very palatable, very little, if at all, inferior to that of the turtle. The negroes are fond of them, and hunt them with a long pole with the hook of a steelyard fastened to the end. They feel for the gopher in his long hole in the ground, in which he dwells, and draw him out with the hook. Very frequently those holes are so crooked that a pole cannot follow its winding. A very common device for catching these marauders is to bury an open candle or starch box at the mouth of the gopher hole.
The box is left open, and, strange to say, when the clumsy old fellow comes out, which he will do once or twice a day in the summer and spring, he will tumble right in, and then can't get out. Strangers to the ways of this wonderful animal are slow to believe that he is such a suicide.
But his ways are curious. Dr. Bruce, of Bainbridge, says that one of the first things he learned after coming to this section from Virginia was not to set on gophers. He was boarding with Mr. Peabody, who had a field of corn and peas on new ground near town. The old gentleman complained terribly of the gophers, and one morning at the breakfast table said he was going to catch one which was doing him special damage. "How are you going to catch him, Mr. Peabody?" said the young doctor. "I am going to bury a box at the mouth of his den, sir, and about eleven o'clock he will come out to feed and will tumble in, and I will have him." The young Virginian laughed at the idea. "I'll bet you $1 a gopher is not that big a fool," said he. "Good," said the old gentleman, and the money was put up. The box was duly set at the mouth of the gopherhole, and both gentlemen went on about their business down town. A little past eleven o'clock Dr. Bruce remembered the bet and slipped off down to the field to see for himself.

"I'll be hanged if the old fool wasn't in the box, sure enough. I then put him back in the hole, and with a long pole I pushed him down as far as I could, giving him all the hard trusts I thought necessary to make him stay there. I then went back down-town and hunted Mr. Peabody, who had forgotten all about the gopher, until I reminded him that it was past the gopher's dinner hour.
"Sure enough," said he, "come and go with me; I want my dollar." Mr.
Peabody, I'll bet you another dollar you don't get him." "Good," I'd rather win two than one." When we arrived at the gopher's hole I'll be hanged if he wasn't in the box again.
I lost my money, and make it a rule never to bet on a gopher."

It will not do to bet on anything about them, except that they can run faster than anything in the shape of them on earth. They hibernate in their burrows, and how long they can live without food is a question yet unsolved. Col. J. E. Bacon tells of one which was placed on his back on a stump by an old planter, in Liberty County, and left there to die. Just twelve months afterward the gentleman passed that way, and there was his gopher, still alive. Yet the Florida people say that if put on their backs in the hot sand they will die in a few moments. Mr. J. B. Collins tells of one which was shut up under a chimney for seven years, and was known to remain alive without food all that time. A negro man in his neighborhood kept one shut up for four years.

Almost a Personal Allusion.
A fat old man was spread out over four seats on a Texas train. At a small station a tall lady wearing a sunbonnet entered the car. The old fat man pretended that he did not see her, but a gentleman just behind the fat man who took up so much room, politely removed his grip-sack, and she sat down, thanking him for his attention. She did not say anything for a minute or so. Then she snapped her eyes and remarked to the gentleman who had given her the seat, at the same time glancing in the direction of the corpulent old gentleman—
"You can't rely on what you read in the farm journals nowadays."
"Are they so unreliable?"
"Yes," she replied, glancing over her shoulder at the fat old man; "I read in one of them the other day that the average age of a hog is only fifteen years."
The old gentleman granted.—

Men

Thomas Bailey Aldrich is a blonde and wears his mustache with the ends pointed a la Francais.

Rev. Sam Jones says he never rode with a girl in a tight-squeeze buggy. He has missed lots of fun.

Novelist Crawford has a very flexible baritone voice, but he doesn't mention that fact in his "Roman Singer."

David Davis has lost about 100 pounds in weight since his marriage.
It is rumored that his skin now sets on him in Mother Hubbard dress style.

Beecher denies that he ever stole apples while a boy, but it is said that he maintains a suggestive silence when the conversation turns on watermelons.

Senator Vance's summer recreation consists of having old-fashioned log-rollings and chopping-bees on his Black Mountain farm. But log-rolling is not far removed from politics, and chopping-bees involve axes to grind, remarks a well-posted politician.—[New York Journal.]

Evil Spirits and Evil Names.

Chinese parents are afraid to give their children the fine, high-sounding names their love suggests, lest the evil spirits, of whom they stand in constant fear, should come to understand how precious they are, and cause some calamity to overtake them. And so you constantly meet with children answering to the names of Little Stupid, Vagabond Flea, Dirt of Spring Dog—the idea being that when the spirits hear the little ones called by such uncomplimentary names, they will imagine that the parents care very little for them, and will not take the trouble to molest them.

Her Romantic Soul Was Satisfied.

A romantic New Hampshire girl was willing to marry a persistent lover, but wouldn't consent to the ceremony taking place anywhere but in a cave. As there was no cave within a radius of fifty miles they were forced to abandon that project.
In a happy moment the idea of a cellar marriage suggested itself to the young man. The idea was broached and accepted by the young lady and the wedding speedily followed.

Where He Drew the Line.

"No," said a Vermont deacon, "I don't approve of hoss racin', but when another member of the church becomes so godless as to try to pass me on the road comin' home from meetin', I feel it my duty to the church to let out a leetle on the lines, just to keep him from puttin' his trust in earthly things."—[Troy Press.]

"How sleep the brave?" asks a poet. This depends largely on the number of cats in the neighborhood.
—Waverly (O.) Mugwump.

Mrs. R. Hill, of Lee County, has a chicken which has no feathers on it, being perfectly smooth nearly all over.

Out of Sorts.
Many persons feel unwell, not absolutely sick, but in a state of discomfort.
The liver is out of order. Take Simmons Liver Regulator. This unfailing specific for liver disease has restored more people to health and happiness than any other agency known on earth.
No one can take the Regulator and remain long unwell. Rev. H. G. W. Wier, Princeton, N. J., says: "I find nothing helps so much to keep me in working condition as Simmons Liver Regulator."

The story that the site of Chicago was bought for a pair of boots is not surprising when we consider the size of the accepted boot in that locality.
That probably gave rise to the remark that corporations have no soles.— Life.

We hear a great deal in these speculative days of lucky investments.
The most lucky investment which a man could make would be a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. He would never be troubled with aches or pain, and could devote his time to making money.

Boston has been shocked by the discovery that Sitting Bull eats with his knife. A sage suggests that the Bostonians should take up a subscription to send the greasy old savage to the Concord School of Philosophy to learn how to eat pie.

Preparing to Encounter Disease.
The prevalence of malarial disorders being dependent upon vitiated conditions of atmosphere and water is, in certain regions, of course, inevitable. The grand question, therefore, that presents itself to every resident of a fever stricken locality is, "What means shall I adopt to escape the dreaded scourge?" For a third of a century Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been the embodied answer to this question. In thickly populated, and sparsely settled districts alike, in town and country, it has afforded constant protection against malarial infection to those who have used it. It eradicates and prevents, with equal certainty, fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, and millions also the pernicious after-effects of using persistently the hurtful alkaloid sulphate of quinine. It also remedies, with thoroughness, dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, debility and rheumatism.

—Are you made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Viti-alizer is a positive cure. For sale by W.
E. Dement.

Bronchitis. Sold by W. E. Dement & Co.

Ominous Prophecies Concerning 1886.

Somebody has unearthed an old prophecy for the year 1886, of a decidedly uncomfortable nature. It appears that in the church of Oberemmel, near the city of Treviri, in Germany, there is a stone tablet some centuries old, on which is cut the prophetic verse—in prose it may be rendered:—
When Mark shall bring us Easter and Anthony shall sing praises at Pentecost, and John swing the censer at the feast of Corpus Domini, then shall the whole earth resound with weepings and wailings.

Now, it so happens that next year Easter falls on St. Mark's day, Pentecost on that of St. Anthony of Padua, and the Corpus Domini comes on St.
John the Baptist's day, June 24.
Here, then, are the first conditions of the prophecy fulfilled, so that now believers in prophecies and anxious-minded persons generally have only to sit down and think of everything disagreeable that can possibly happen to this poor old planet and the dwellers thereon, between January and December, 1886. And, really, if the cyclones and earthquakes and epidemics and "wars and rumors of war" of the years 1882, 83, 84, 85, are to be eclipsed, the prophecy is not an agreeable one.

Tired and Languid Women.
How many women there are of whom these words are true: "They feel languid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all gone from their cheeks, irritable and cross without meaning to be, nerves all upset, worried with the children, fretted over little things, a burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease." What a pity it is.
But a few bottles of Parker's Tonic will drive all this away, and relieve the troubles peculiar to their sex.
